ENGLAND, FRANCE ABANDON JOINT PEACE EFFORT; THROW QUESTION OF SANCTIONS INTO LEAGUE

POWERS REJECT JAPAN'S DEMAND FOR NAVY PARITY

Britain Determined to Sign No Agreement Designed to Give Other Than U. S. Equality in Strength on the Water.

NIPPONESE RETIRE FROM CONFERENCE

Deadlock Is Anticipated as Hopes Grow Dim for a Suitable Substitute for Existing Accords.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Four powers and three dominions joined today in firm rejection of Japan's naval conference demand for equality on the seas with Great Britain and the United States.

British determination to sign no treaty giving any other nation than America the right to naval parity emerged with full emphasis. The United States, France, Italy, South Africa, Canada and Australia joined in the refusal.

Thus the conference, designed to lay a basis for replacing the expiring London and Washington naval limitation treaties, headed for a deadlock, although some hope prevailed in all delegations that a compromise may yet be possible.

The Japanese delegation departed hastily as today's session broke up. The hurried exit at first created the impression they were walking out of the conference, but well-informed sources said that this was not the case.

Basis of Position.

British determination to resist the Japanese demand was linked in responsible quarters with the British viewpoint that no treaty can be arranged on a basis of any understanding or commitment outside the document itself.

The same viewpoint, it was understood, was held by the other delegations. It seemed to dispose of past suggestions that the Japanese might be satisfied with equality only on paper, with an understanding they would not build up to the authorized limits.

For the Americans, Norman H. Davis plainly told the Japanese the United States wants to continue the 5-5-3 equilibrium established by the

Cobb Says: Wheeze Solves Old Question

By IRVIN S. COBB.

(Copyright, 1935, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

CULVER CITY, Cal., Dec. 12. I ran across it yesterday—this ancient one.

Shipwrecked mariners in crisis. Sea rising, life raft sinking beneath them, no rescue craft in sight. Situation seems to call for professions of faith. But nobody can quote from the Scriptures, nobody can sing a hymn, nobody even knows a prayer. Desperately, the mate speaks up: "Men, we gotta do somethin' pious—let's pass the hat."

I read that antique wheeze and in a flash the puzzle was solved. Now I know where they got the original idea—those economic wizards in and out of congress, who, in times like these, bob up with various theories, but all aimed at the same purpose, namely, that financial security can be restored not by giving industry a chance to recuperate, but by taking away the previous fruits of industry.

Christmas Looms as Gloomy Day For Ten Opportunities Families

Hunger, Privation Faced by Groups; Fifth Case Is Presented Today.

By RALPH T. JONES.

Christmas, 1935, looms as a day of bitter disappointment and despair for 10 little families in Atlanta. Mothers and children who have dreamed and hoped and prayed are beginning to believe their faith has been misplaced, that Atlanta cares nothing for their plight.

The fifth of the 10 opportunities for this year is told today, in the adjoining column. So far Atlanta has not responded to this appeal for constructive charity in sufficient extent to assure even the first family of that security for another year, which is essential if they are to keep the roof of home above their heads, if they are to remain united in love, one family together.

Mothers who have seen their children suffer privation that, in this day, no child should ever know, face

Mr. and Mrs. B. were an unusually happy couple during the early years of their married life. There was a little son, Billy, now four years old. And the family was almost an ideal group of three.

Then, a little more than three years ago, Mr. B. began to abuse his wife and fail to support his family. Neighbors noticed the change and wondered. They wondered why Mrs. B. tolerated his conduct and they spoke to him about it.

They didn't know the sorrow that was gnawing at the young wife's heart. They didn't realize, as she did, that Mr. B. was mentally ill and not responsible for his actions.

Then the second baby came, a little girl, and soon afterwards Mr. B. was sent to the state hospital in Milledgeville. His condition was incurable and in April, 1935, he died in that institution.

So severe had been the strain of her husband's illness that Mrs. B.

S. C. SENATE BALKS AT NEW ROAD BILL

Votes To Pass No Legislation Until Johnston Withdraws Guardsmen.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 12.—(AP) The South Carolina senate tonight voted 39 to 3 to refuse to enact any highway legislation until Governor Olin D. Johnston withdraws state troops from the highway department.

Governor Johnston called the general assembly into special session Tuesday for the specific purpose of providing for a new highway administration in place of the politically hostile commission he ousted October 28 with state troops.

After the vote, a recess was taken until Monday night.

In his call, he explained the session was made necessary because the state supreme court had tied up all highway funds with an injunction, upon petition of the ousted commissioners, when it held his use of troops was illegal.

New Men Appointed.

Shortly before the senate voted, it received from the Governor the appointments of five commissioners for confirmation. The five had been appointed seve weeks ago, but were denied their seats on the ground that he was without authority to make recess appointments. The supreme court sustained this contention.

The appointments were submitted for confirmation in an executive message to the senate. Governor Johnston named them as follows:

W. A. Stilley Jr., of Conway, twelfth district; L. C. Richardson, of Anderson, tenth district; W. L.

Congressman Guilty Of Selling Position

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Representative John H. Hoeppel and his son, Charles, were convicted by a District of Columbia supreme court jury of conspiracy to sell a West Point appointment for $1,000.

The jury deliberated exactly six hours after a four-day trial.

Representative Hoeppel, a democrat of California, heard the verdict with head bowed.

The maximum penalty for the offense is two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The Hoeppels were convicted of conspiring to sell the appointment to James W. Ives, of Baltimore, a former Olympic athlete.

Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue ordered the release of the Hoeppels on bonds of $1,000 each.

INJUNCTION DENIED ON MILL ELECTION

Fulton Court Decision Leaves Way Open for Ballots by Employes.

Two injunction suits, seeking to prevent the National Labor Relations Board from holding the first employe election under provisions of the Wagner-Connery labor relations act, where tossed out of Fulton county superior court yesterday by Judge E. E. Pomeroy after a sudden and prolonged hearing.

Judge Pomeroy announced in a brief ruling that attorneys for the Gate City Cotton Mills, of East Point, Ga., and Mrs. Lola Echols, one of the mill employes, had failed to establish clearly that their constitutional rights were being invaded through the holding of the election.

As a result, the election which has been set for Saturday in the recorder's courtroom at East Point, between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m., will go forward as scheduled by Charles N. Feidelson, regional director for the board, who is acting under instructions from national headquarters at Washington.

See Important Victory.

Labor leaders and officials of the labor relations board viewed the decision of Judge Pomeroy yesterday as an important victory for the board. All southern mills engaged in similar controversies over the nation have directed their attack against the "invasion of constitutional rights." Judge Pomeroy's decision that this angle had not been clearly demonstrated by the mills' attorneys is the first to be rendered by a court. Coming, as it did, from a state court, the decision is viewed as an impartial summary of what lies before the mills in their continuance of this battle in other courts.

The decision was announced by Judge Pomeroy after he had retired to his office and spent about 15 minutes considering arguments that had lasted for more than four hours.

Winfield P. Jones, of Atlanta, and Scott Russell, of Macon, represented the mills and Mrs. Echols. Mill owners and Mrs. Echols joined in an attack on the constitutionality of the Wagner-Connery labor relations act under which the board was set up, both claiming the provisions of the act were intended to apply only to industries engaged in interstate commerce and both claiming the mill's business was conducted solely within the state of Georgia.

Claims of Mill.

The mill also claimed there was no friction among workers until a citation for a hearing before the regional board was issued at Washington on October 23; that the powers exercised by congress in enacting the labor relations act are reserved to states under the ninth and tenth amendments to the constitution; that the right of an employer to deal freely with employes is a property right, not to be taken without legal process; that the election called by the labor

Fired Employe Kills Two Teachers, Self

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Maddened by imagined injustices and his discharge from a mechanic's job at Columbia University Medical Center, Victor S. Koussow, 55, holder of Russian University degrees, today shot and killed two members of the faculty of Columbia College of Dental and Oral Surgery, wounded another, and committed suicide.

Raging into the college building at the medical center on the upper west side, Koussow acted quickly that the three faculty members were shot before associates had time to act. He fired a bullet into his own head as Dr. Lewis Stowe rushed at him.

Koussow's victims were:

Dr. Paul Wiberg, 38, assistant professor of dentistry, killed instantly.

Dr. Arthur T. Rowe, 51, associate dean of the dental college, wounded fatally.

Dr. William H. Crawford, 38, assistant professor of dentistry, wounded in the side.

Koussow was discharged by Dr. Rowe this morning.

WORK ON SEWERS TO BE SPEEDED UP STARTING MONDAY

4,600 Additional Men To Be Transferred from Other Projects, Says Watkins, WPA Director.

Vigorous prosecution of the $8,000,000 sewer modernization program for metropolitan Atlanta will be begun Monday, it was announced yesterday by Robert C. Watkins, district director of WPA, following a conference of federal and city officials with Mayor Key.

The 800 men now assigned to various sewer improvements will be augmented by another 4,600 before the end of the week, if plans materialize, and additional workers will be added as the work progresses.

Additional men to make up the quota which Chief of Construction Clark Donaldson and Assistant Chief William A. Hansell, in charge of sewers, will request officially this morning will be assigned to the sewer work by transferring them from other federal projects, Watkins said.

The entire program, calling for construction of five large disposal units, laying of 54 miles of trunk line sewers and interceptors and the laying of several miles of storm water relief sewers will be prosecuted as rapidly as is consistent with good work, it was stated.

Seeks 4,600 Workers.

Hansell prepared to file this morning a requisition for 4,600 new men for the work and had the assurance that the federal government will make transfers to meet sewer requirements as promptly as feasible.

WPA will purchase pipe and other materials incident to the undertakings without waiting for January 1, the time set for the sale of the $1,500,000 worth of city bonds, authorized

BARNET IS NAMED CUBAN PRESIDENT

HAVANA, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Jose A. Barnet, 71-year-old acting president, was elected provisional president of Cuba tonight by the cabinet and council of state meeting jointly as an electoral college.

Barnet will take the oath of office at the presidential palace at noon tomorrow, when members of the supreme court will visit the palace in a body.

The new provisional president will serve until a constitutional president is elected January 10 and inaugurated May 20.

The Menocalist party, whose demands forced the resignation of President Carlos Mendieta early Wednesday, agreed to accept Barnet. Thus the party reversed the earlier position of their leader, General Marion G. Menocal, who had expressed opposition to "any member of the present government."

Barnet was secretary of state under Mendieta.

The altered position of the Menocalistas was explained as due to their conviction that Barnet is without political affiliations which would tend toward partiality in conducting national elections.

It was on this ground that they objected to Mendieta.

After tonight's meeting of the cabinet and council of state, the Menocalistas planned to meet and re-enter their candidate in the election race, it was understood. The candidates were withdrawn prior to Mendieta's resignation in a gesture of protest.

HEAVY PURCHASES OF SILVER BARED BY MORGENTHAU

Shift in Treasury Tactics Revealed; Markets in State of Renewed Confusion, Demoralization.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—A calmly delivered announcement by Secretary Morgenthau that the treasury was still buying silver, but, contrary to precendent, was making its purchases in scattered trading centers, today threw the silver market into renewed confusion.

While brokers sought to guage the government's intentions, the price dropped again in London and New York, but, to the surprise of some, rose in Montreal, at present America's principal unrestricted market for the metal.

Following this general trend, mining shares and some industrial issues declined in price, while the whole stock market list dipped and rallied at intervals to a close which dispatches described as heavy.

Morgenthau's statement followed two days of general demoralization of the silver market, in which brokers found it difficult to specify a price, so few were the offers to buy. A general report was that the treasury, formerly a regular purchaser in large quantities, was not buying any more.

United States Still Buying.

This rumor Morgenthau was at pains to scotch today. He received newspapermen for his regular semi-weekly press conference and was ready with his answer to the first question fired at him.

"What about silver?"

"I have a statement on that," Morgenthau replied smiling and at ease, "I am continuing to carry out the mandate of the silver purchase act which says: 'The secretary of the

BIG BROTHER ARMY TO RALLY TONIGHT

By THE BIG BROTHER EDITOR.

A great mass meeting of Big Brothers, who can never turn a deaf ear to the appeals of destitute mothers and fathers for happiness for their children, will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at Big Brother headquarters on the ground floor of the Chamber of Commerce building.

Cecil R. Hall, general chairman, and Harry T. Barfield, chairman of the paper sale committee, said yesterday they expect more than 1,000 Big Brothers tonight.

Final plans are to be made for the great sale of the special Big Brother edition of The Constitution on Sunday morning and tonight every Big Brother will be instructed just what his part will be in the worthy campaign of the charitable club against darkness and sorrow in the homes of any Atlantans on Christmas Day.

Organizations Complete.

Ward organizations have virtually been completed in every instance, Colonel Thomas L. Alexander and his national guardsmen will care for the sale in the second, third, fifth and sixth wards, while employes of The Constitution, under the leadership of Major John Dodd, will sell the papers in the downtown section.

Majors of the seventh, eighth, ninth,

Cloudy Skies, Rising Temperature To Follow Georgia Sleet, Snow

Cloudy skies, with the mercury hovering between 28 and 40 degrees, will be the aftermath today of a sleet, rain and raw wind carnival staged unexpectedly in Atlanta yesterday as the northern fringe of a gulf coast storm skipped through north Georgia on its way out to the Atlantic ocean.

No more rain today, is the comforting prediction from George W. Mindling, chief forecaster of the Atlanta weather bureau. Along toward the end of the day, it is expected that winds from the west will start toward Atlanta with a pleasant touch of warmer temperatures.

This morning's subfreezing temperatures are not expected to extend much farther south into the state than Atlanta. A warm area along the gulf coast in west Florida was expected to act as a safeguard to south Georgia plant growers.

Snow in Georgia.

Yesterday's freakish weather stunts kept the weather bureau on the jump. It tried to snow in some sections of north Georgia and some few flurries were reported from widely scattered sections, most of them lasting not longer than a minute or two.

Sleet was reported from Athens, Macon, Rome and interlying sections. Skies were overcast and rain fell at Moultrie, Albany, Columbus, Valdosta, Waycross and Savannah.

The north Georgia sleet was the result of the rain from the gulf regions bumping into freezing or near-freezing temperatures. Atlanta's lowest temperature for the day was 36 at 8.30 a. m. and the mercury hovered around 37 for several hours during the day. In the late afternoon the mercury touched the 38-degree mark and stayed there for several hours. The warmest temperature for the day was at 6 p. m. when the thermometer reading was 39.

The storm center passed along the gulf coast and across north Florida last night on its way out to the Atlantic. At Pensacola, 38-mile winds were reported when the rainstorm was at its height.

Mild in North.

While temperatures were fairly low in the south it was not much colder in northern sections of the United States. Relatively, the bureau reported, it was as cold in the south as any part of the country.

There were light snows near the Lake Michigan section and in Wisconsin and over Minnesota. In the Pacific states there was some rainfall in Washington, Oregon, a large part of Idaho, northern California and northern Nevada. Elsewhere the weather was generally fair.

The lowest temperature yesterday on the weather map of the United States was 14 above at Huron, S. D. In Canada the lowest was zero at the Pas, Manitoba. There was light rain and snow flurries on the New England coast from Boston northward.

Temperatures included: Boston, 34; Eastport, Maine, 30; New York, 34; Buffalo, Chicago, St. Louis, 30; Helena, 36; North Platte, Neb., 22; Minneapolis, 20; Kansas City, 28; Louisville, 28; Washington, 32; Chattanooga, 34; Atlanta, 38; Birmingham, 34.

Possibilities of Suspended Life Explored in New Death Definition

Scientist for Whom Lindbergh Perfected Artificial Heart Differentiates Between 'Reversible' and 'Irreversible' End of Existence in Body.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—In a scientific definition of death new in scope, Dr. Alexis Carrel, Rockefeller Institute scientist, tonight predicted it may become possible to suspend human life and to start it again, living several centuries.

Dr. Carrel is the man who showed the physical immortality of a chicken heart, which he has kept living by itself for 24 years at the institute. For him Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh last summer perfected an artificial heart which keeps whole organs alive outside the body.

Dr. Carrel's new definition was made in a talk to the New York Academy of Medicine on "The Mystery of Death."

He defined two kinds of death—reversible and irreversible. Out of the first come man's hopes for better health and longer life.

A possibility "very remote" is suspension of life.

It is reasonable, Dr. Carrel held, to suppose that part of the human personality may escape death. Present scientific facts neither prove nor disprove this after life.

All of these points Dr. Carrel emphasized in a written summary of his report to the academy.

"If science is allowed to go on eight or 10 centuries, disease may perhaps be suppressed," Dr. Carrel said. "But there is no hope of ever conquering senescence and death.

"There are only three ways to die—by failure of the heart, or of the central nervous system, or by alterations in the composition of the blood.

"Deaths are reversible or irreversible. An example of reversible death is a man stabbed through the heart. Circulation and respiration stops. The man is legally dead. However, he is not hopelessly dead. If proper treatment were applied he would resuscitate. All his organs, even his brain are still alive.

"A few minutes later comes irreversible death. At this stage resuscitation is no longer possible, because of disintegration of the brain and the spinal centers."

Even after irreversible death has set in, he said, "the body is still almost entirely alive. The organs and tissues begin to die, each in its turn."

Dr. Carrel recited the claim of spiritists that survival of the soul has

3 DIE AS TRAINS CRASH AT DEARING

Head-on Collision Is Fatal to Trainmen and Injures 10 Other Persons.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Two passenger trains of the Georgia railway collided head-on at Dearing, 30 miles west of here, early today, killing three trainmen and injuring 10 other persons.

The cause of the wreck, the most disastrous on the road in years, was a mystery.

One of the trains, bound from Atlanta to Augusta, was standing at the station waiting for the Augusta-Atlanta Flyer to take a sidetrack, when the eastbound train smashed into the other one.

Those killed were:

A. J. Kirby, 46, of Augusta, fireman of the Augusta-Atlanta train, scalded to death; W. H. Wallace, 65, of Augusta, engineer of the Atlanta-Augusta train, who was crushed as the engine of his locomotive jammed against the frame of his cab; Edgar A. Ewing, 53, of Augusta, engineer of the Augusta-Atlanta train, who suffered burns and other injuries.

Wallace and Ewing died in a hospital here.

Fireman Injured.

The only man in either of the locomotives to survive the inferno of steam and sizzling, crumpled metal was M. G. Sheftall, 50, of Augusta, fireman on the Augusta-bound train. He suffered cuts and bruises.

W. C. Clary, of Harlem, conductor on the outbound train, said he had "meet orders" for Dearing, with his train to take the siding.

He said he gave a signal to remind the engineer of the orders, received a response through the locomotive whistle and then was startled by the impact of the crash.

Fireman Sheftall said he did not realize what had happened until after the crash.

"An engine approached at a high speed," he said, as he lay on a bed in the hospital here.

"I was sure it intended to stop. It had shot by the switch and struck us before I realized it had overrun the siding. Then I remembered nothing until I came to, walking crazily up the track."

H. G. Ivey, baggagemaster on the outbound train, said he felt the crash. "Then I found myself covered with suitcases and boxes." Ivey added.

He said he did not know what had happened until he left the car and saw steam and boiling water spurting from the locomotives.

M. G. Elroy, of Atlanta, crawled under the engine and brought out Mr. Kirby's body, and the unconscious form of Ewing. Wallace was extricated with difficulty from his cab. Although he escaped the bath of live steam that apparently caused the

Grocer Norris Guilty Of Telling Senate Lie

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 12.—(AP)—A federal court jury tonight convicted "Grocer" George W. Norris, of Alva, Okla., of perjury, after deliberating six and one-half hours.

Maximum penalty is five years' confinement and a $2,000 fine.

"Grocer" Norris was charged with testifying falsely before a United States senate committee which investigated his attempt to become a candidate against Senator George W. Norris, republican, Nebraska, in Nebraska's 1930 primary election campaign.

The government charged that Norris, formerly a resident of Broken Bow, Neb., perjured himself "wilfully, knowingly, and corruptly" when he told the senatorial investigating committee that he received no money and no assurance of financial aid if he would become a candidate.

Victor Seymour, former Lincoln republican leader, who recently completed a six months' jail sentence following his conviction on a similar perjury charge, was a prosecution witness against the grocer.

SMALLER NATIONS CONCEDED VICTORY BY NEWEST MOVE

Neither Laval Nor Eden Attempt to Defend Proposal to Partition Ethiopia and Thus Bring End to Conflict.

LEAGUE DECIDES ON OIL BLOCKADE

Poland Insists No New Sanctions Be Applied Until League Council Has Completed Review.

GENEVA, Dec. 12—(AP)—Diplomats of Great Britain and France, almost with a note of weariness and despair, shunted the problem of war or peace in Africa today back into the hands of the League of Nations.

At an opening session of the League's committee of 18 on sanctions it was announced the council of the League would meet next Wednesday to consider the entire Italo-Ethiopian question.

Action upon oil and other proposed new sanctions against Italy were laid aside, pending action by the council.

The decision by Premier Laval, of France, and Anthony Eden, Britain's minister for League affairs, to throw the whole problem into the council seemingly satisfied smaller powers, who had been rebelling against the peace plan as outlined in the press. Delegations of these nations contended it violated the covenant of the League and Ethiopia's sovereignty.

An outstanding development was that neither Eden nor Laval attempted to defend the merits of the celebrated Franco-British plan for settling the war, although they may do so later.

To Circulate Plan.

The text of the Franco-British formula, which was not officially sent to Geneva, will be circulated among members.

Eden urged before the committee that the council be called into session as soon as posible to hear a full outline of the peace proposal, insisting that Britain still held the position that any final agreement must be approved by Italy, Ethiopia and the League.

The peace formula, he asserted, is "neither definitive nor sacrosanct," and "if the League does not agree with these suggestions we shall make

EGYPTIANS REGAIN HOME RULE STATUS

England Agrees to Role of Protector and Guide in Foreign Policy.

By GAYLE TALBOT.
Associated Press Foreign Staff.

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Thousands of red-fezzed Egyptian students who for the past month have waged an anti-British conflict with police, paraded Cairo's streets unmolested tonight, hysterically celebrating the return of home rule.

They still yelled, "Down with Hoare, down with England" and heaped indignities upon British constables, but they discarded their rocks.

When elderly King Fuad signed a royal decree today restoring constitutional government to this country he probably brought to a close hostilities which have cost at least six lives and injured hundreds.

With Great Britain's gruding consent, Egypt will shortly elect a few hundred lawmakers for a parliamentary government. The change will make a virtual political dictator of Nahas Pasha, trim moustached leader of the wafds (nationalist) party.

Pasha's Methods.

Wafd's methods are strongly reminisdful of those of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini. Pasha will run the country with the British confined to guiding the foreign policy and protecting Egypt from aggression.

Britain's decision to "backwater," it was learned, was nicely timed. Several thousand railroad workers, who had played leading parts in previous riots, had virtually decided to join the students.

Egypt's 1923 constitution was sus-

SWINDLER FOILED

Delivery Boy Refuses To Be Victim of Old Trick.

Atlanta's slickest and most elusive swindler, a negro woman who operates on a comparatively small scale, but who has victimized at least a dozen merchants within the past few months, met a Waterloo yesterday.

No, it wasn't the police. It was Leon Adams, 16, negro, of 791 Martin street, S. E., delivery boy for a drug store at 340 Glenwood avenue, S. E., who thwarted the swindler simplying by refusing to do as she asked.

Ordering a hot water bottle from the drug store by telephone, the negro woman said to send it to "490 Broyles street and bring change for a $10 bill." (This is the first step in her method.)

When the delivery boy arrived in front of that address, the negro woman met him, saying, "Boy, just give me the bottle and the change. The lady is taking a bath and I'll bring you the money. (This is the second step.)

Instead of complying, as did the other victims, the delivery boy refused. "All right, then," said the negro women, "I'll get you the money." Then she disappeared. (This is the third and final step, but usually she takes the change with her.)

U. S. C. OF C. BALLOTS ON DEAL EXPENDITURES

Members Vote on Expenses, Balanced Budget, and Tax Reduction.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States today gave its membership an opportunity to demand reduced federal expenditures, a balanced budget "in the near future," and tax reduction "at the earliest possible date."

A report of its committee on federal finance, making those recommendations, was forwarded to the national chamber's 1,500 members. They were asked to vote on 17 questions based on the report.

The committee, calling for repeal of many taxes approved by the last congress, said levies for government "now cripple business, retard recovery, and threaten our economic system.

"The opportunity of the employed worker to improve himself is reduced. To the unemployed, the work-dole or the relief-dole of government can never be a satisfactory substitute for productive employment.

"The investor and the salary earner, as the owners and managers of property, and all who are dependent upon their enterprise, are compelled to surrender to the government an unreasonable proportion of any rewards that may be gained from thrift and hard application of personal effort."

The chamber's membership recently voted overwhelmingly against what were called trends in New Deal legislation. Spokesmen said the vote — ranging upward from 93 per cent — against the trends constituted a mandate to the national organization henceforth to oppose laws embracing policies described in the questions.

Some republicans in congress expressed delight with that referendum's results and said it was representative of both large and small businessmen. On the other hand, some democrats charged the questions were "loaded" and said they did not take the poll seriously. Some local chambers refused to vote on the ground the questions were "political" or "vague" and three resigned from the national group.

Aged 'Package Game' Costs Carolinan $17

The old "package game" appeared in Atlanta yesterday, and A. B. Maxwell, of Fletcher, N. C., was victimized of $17.

Reporting his loss to police, Maxwell told detectives a stranger engaged him in conversation yesterday morning in the Terminal station, saying, among other things, that he was waiting for his wife.

The stranger then invited Maxwell to accompany him to the old postoffice building at Forsyth and Walton streets, where he intended to obtain a package. Leaving Maxwell outside, the stranger soon emerged from the postoffice and told Maxwell he was unable to get a $50 check cashed and he needed $17 to obtain the package.

So he "borrowed" the money from Maxwell, telling him he'd repay him as soon as he met his wife. The stranger then entered the postoffice again, and has not been seen since.

Detectives said the "package game" is one of the oldest of swindles. Its appearance here yesterday was the first time in several months.

School Destroyed.

HUEYTOWN, Ala., Dec. 12.—(AP) Fire destroyed the main building of the Hueytown High school this morning, with loss estimated at $50,000.

The Bessemer fire department, answering a call for help, arrived in time to save three annexes and a two-room addition to the original 14-room structure.

STANDARD HEIRESS IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Reno Court Separates Millicent Rogers, Wealthy Argentine Husband.

RENO, Nev., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Arturo De Peralta-Ramos, tall, handsome member of a wealthy and prominent Argentinian family, was divorced at a brief private trial in district court here today by the former Millicent Rogers, heiress daughter of the late Henry Huddleston Rogers II, Standard Oil magnate.

District Judge Thomas F. Moran granted the decree to Mrs. Ramos on grounds of extreme cruelty after attorneys had read into the record depositions in support of her charges.

All proceedings were kept secret, as were terms of a separation agreement dated October 21, 1935, which settled property rights and provided for future custody of their two children, Arturo Henry, six, and Paul Jaime, four.

Ramos appeared in court only to give testimony as to his six weeks of residence in a fashionable Reno hotel. Mrs. Ramos was not present at the hearing.

The couple married November 7, 1927, at Southampton, Long Island. It was Mrs. Ramos' second marriage. Her first husband was Count Ludwig Salm Von Hoogstraeten.

Scientists at Tiny Brazilian Town Seek Cause, Cure of Yellow Fever

Rev. H. E. Russell, Traveling Georgian, Talks to Rockefeller Foundation Group Seeking New Data on Subject Through the Monkey, Immunized by Nature.

This is the 52d in a series of articles on South American travel by the Rev. Henry Edward Russell, of McDonough, Ga.—Editor's note.

PATOS, MINAS, Brazil, Oct. 31.—This town is some 60 miles from the nearest thing that could be called a railroad, and when we came here and found that four American doctors were on their way it was a matter of considerable interest. We learned that they were coming when we began negotiations with the innkeeper for rooms in his establishment. These doctors had sent for reservations for a party of 10 and that very nearly filled the hotel.

Rev. Russell.

Yellow fever and Rockefeller money had brought these men to this remote place. Recently there has been considerable scare throughout this region of the interior due to several deaths caused by yellow fever. These doctors and scientists who represent the Rockefeller Foundation are out after new data on the cause, cure and prevention of yellow fever. These doctors were of all ages, from gray-haired veterans to a young graduate just nine months out of Harvard Medical school.

Doctors Seeking Monkeys.

The doctors were reluctant to talk of their efforts and discoveries. They are up here to catch monkeys. This is the center of their investigation. Monkeys carry the yellow fever germs in their blood stream, fleas partake of the blood of the monkeys and then one reaches man and performs the inoculation that gives the fever. From such information as we were able to get, the monkeys do not die from the fever, and from this the reasonable conjecture is that a serum is in process of development. One of the men stated that it was their business to catch monkeys, and from those that they killed in the effort they were to take a specimen of their blood.

A doctor from the state of Washing, attired in boots and riding breeches, explained that they had had great difficultly in catching monkeys until a native in this region developed a trap. With this trap after long and patient coaxing and much baiting with corn they have caught many monkeys. It is equipped with a triangular trigger of the same sort used in rabbit boxes and similar traps. Prior to the discovery of this simple method of trapping it was difficult for the doctors to get live specimens. This doctor stated that the old way was to shoot the mother and try to save the young. Now this is not necessary, since one native hit upon this well-known method of trapping and applied it to this monkey business.

Although the Rockefeller doctors would make no statement regarding the success of their labors, it is generally believed by those in a position to judge that they are just before startling the world with scientific knowledge that will mean the preservation of thousands of human lives Some feel that is the first promise of advance along this front since the discovery made by the heroes of the Walter Reed Commission.

Considerable Money Spent.

Just how much money Mr. Rockefeller's representatives have spent in this philanthropic endeavor we do not know, but in any case it has been considerable. However, one of the doctors stated that the foundation is well pleased with the work in Brazil, and now the government has taken over 60 per cent of the expense of operation. Inspectors are out at all times looking for the yellow fever mosquitoe. In some places cases of fever have been found where there were no mosquitoes. This leads to the flea and monkey theory. Another bit of information given was that an autopsy is performed on those who die, presumably of yellow fever, and a special examination is made of the liver of the corpse. Great secrecy is about this operation and due to the scarcity of doctors it is done by laymen appointed for the task by the government, according to the information received.

The yellow flag of warning and quarantine has been noticed hanging often in front of buildings in some of the towns. In all the hotels there is the yellow slip that is pasted on the wall by the inspectors who make regular tours to ascertain the presence or likelihood of the yellow fever carrier. These inspectors have the authority to inspect all property, and their decree as to its disposal is final.

State-Owned Hospitals.

State-owned hospitals operated by state-employed doctors are in existence here. There are five situated at strategic points in this state, which is about the size of Texas. They were built four years ago, and are fully equipped in every respect. It was staditing to see the huge purple building that houses the hospital in this remote town. It has private rooms and two wards for each sex, one for surgical cases and one for contagious diseases. No charge is made for charity patients, who come with a recommendation signed by an officer who performs the same duties as the sheriffs of our counties.

These patients are supplied by the state and have no choice as to doctors, rooms, etc. Those who pay for their hospitalization exercise their choice, as in the case of privately-owned hospitals. The state hospital in this town has 92 beds, and last year 600 patients were treated. The doctor who gave us information concerning this hospital said that the biggest job was removing bullets and treating wounds. He added that he had removed more than five pounds of lead from human beings during his stay at this hospital. When asked if the hospital was able to pay for its operation, he replied that for every $3 the hospital makes, the state has to supply $40 in order to keep the doors open and to maintain efficient service.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP COMMITTEE TO MEET

Twelve Georgians Are Candidates for Famous Entrance to Oxford.

Names of Georgia candidates for the Rhodes scholarship to Oxford University were announced last night.

The 12 candidates, two of whom will be nominated tomorrow at a meeting of the Rhodes scholarship committee, are Henry D. Crawford, College Park; Robert S. Burnett, Warlrin Patten and Albert Phillip Reichbert, all of Macon; J. J. Flynt Jr., Griffin; George T. Cutino, Newnan; James H. Sledd, Decatur; Paul D. Karsten, Tifton; Harry Baxter, Ashburn; James W. Alexander, Jefferson; Charles C. Stevens, Thomaston, and Audley Shoemaker.

The meeting of the committee will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the director's room of the Citizens & Southern National Bank building.

The two candidates nominated from Georgia will compete with 10 others from Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and Tennessee before the regional committee, which meets here Monday.

The Tennessee candidates include Stiles Lines, of Atlanta, according to announcement by the Rhodes scholarship committee at Nashville.

ROOSEVELT APPROVES U.S. NAVAL PROMOTIONS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today approved recommendations for the promotion of six navy captains of the line to be rear admirals.

Promotion of 25 commanders of the line to the rank of captain, also was approved. The promotions will become effective as rapidly as vacancies occur in the higher grades.

A navy selection board headed by Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, made the recommendations. The new rear admirals and their present stations are:

Captains Lewis B. Porterfield, San Francisco; Ralston S. Holmes, chief of staff, battle force; Charles A. Blakely, Pensacola, Fla.; Harold R. Stark, whose permanent rank was captain but who has held commission as rear admiral since he was appointed chief of the Bureau of ordnance, November 2, 1934; Frank H. Sadler, Newport, Va., and Andrew Pickens, chief of staff, scouting force.

Commanders promoted to the rank of captain and their present stations are:

Theodore S. Wilkinson, U. S. S. Indianapolis; William W. Smith, U. S. S. Salt Lake City; David I. Hedrick, U. S. S. Chester; Olaf M. Hustvedt, office of the chief of naval operations; Harold T. Smith, bureau of engineering; Preston B. Haines, staff commander, battle force; Frank L. Leighton, destroyer division No. 5, battle force; Alva D. Bernhard, bureau of aeronautics, Washington.

Penn L. Carroll, naval operations, Washington; Benjamin V. McCandlish, U. S. S. Portland; Alan G. Kirk, naval operations, Washington; Francis W. Scanland, hydrographic office, Washington; Joel W. Bunkley, attached to Argentina navy; Harold C. Train, U. S. S. Mississippi; Lee P. Johnson, U. S. S. California; Monroe Kelly, Naval Academy, Annapolis.

COTTON BELT RAILWAY WINS U. S. PROTECTION

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Federal Judge Charles B. Davis today approved the petition in voluntary bankruptcy under Section 77 of the amended federal bankruptcy law, whereby the Cotton Belt Railroad petitioned for reorganization.

He issued an order continuing the company in possession of its property and setting December 23 for a hearing on the appointment of one or more trustees to operate the road.

Judge Davis also issued injunctions restraining the RFC, the Railroad Credit Corporation, the Chase National Bank and the Missisippi Valley Trust Company from disposing, by sale or conversion, of $34,908,675 in collateral posted to secure loans and restraining, in addition, Mississippi Valley from impounding as an offset on its loan any of the road's money on deposit.

THREE MEALS A DAY

HOME TESTED RECIPES BY Sally Saver

MERRY CHRISTMAS SWEETS

For You to Make and Give.

Christmas is not Christmas without sweets, so we planned these tempting candies for you to munch on while Yule logs burn cheerfully in open fireplaces on holiday evenings.

Candies are such fun to make and wrap attractively in transparent papers, or pack in holiday boxes and fasten with ribbons and seals for holiday gifts. The little tin stars filled with creamy fudge are lovely wrapped in cellophane and tied with gay ribbons to hang on the Christmas tree or tuck away in a Christmas stocking.

Most women would like to make delicious, professional-looking candies and confections, if they could feel confident of their results. It is not such a hazardous job, really. A bit of practice with a few fundamental recipes and a little imagination used in combinations, and a delightful candy assortment can come from any home kitchen.

Many Flavors Available.

There are many different flavors that may be added to fondant fudge, or creams—orange, wintergreen or peppermint, cinnamon, peanut butter, raisins, and nuts. And, of course, chocolate and coconut. Not only different flavors, but different forms add variety to the candy box. Fudge balls that have been rolled in coconut offer a welcome change, or fudge and fondant may be arranged in layers or rolled like a jelly roll and sliced. If you wish, you can vary the boxes with salted nuts. Buttery crisp popcorn is a nice salty treat to serve with these candies for Christmas parties.

I recommend using a saucepan of heavy alumnium or enamel large enough to allow the candy to boil vigorously; a wooden spoon for stirring and beating; a cooking thermometer when possible for temperatures. If you haven't a thermometer you can use the cold water test with these recipes. A spatula is convenient for removing candy from pans and a shallow pan with straight sides for cooling. A marble slab, inverted baking sheet or large platter can be used.

Butterscotch Caramels.

Two cups granulated sugar, 1 3-4 cups light corn syrup, 3-4 cup butter, 1 pint dream, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup chopped pecans.

Place 1-2 pint cream, syrup and sugar in pan on a very slow fire, stirring constantly until finished. When mixture is boiling hard, add remaining cream and butter slowly, so that candy does not stop boiling. Cook slowly until candy makes a firm ball when dropped in cold water (246 to 248 degrees F). This takes about 50 minutes. Sprinkle chopped nuts on well buttered baking pan. Add vanilla to mixture and pour over nuts. Let stand for several hours, preferably over night, then cut in inch pieces and wrap separately in waxed paper. This quantity fills a 10-inch square baking pan and makes 2 and 1-2 pounds of caramels.

Fruit Nuggets.

Three cups light brown sugar, 1 cup sour cream, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 square chocolate, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 cup dates, cut fine, 1-2 cup chopped raisins, chopped walnuts or pecans, coconut.

Cook sugar, cream and salt to the soft ball stage (234 degrees F), stirring constantly, wiping crystals down from side of pan. Pour immediately into a well-buttered clean pan, drop in chocolate and butter, and allow to stand without stirring until pan can be held comfortably on palm of hand. Beat until mass begins to thicken and color becomes lighter; stir in dates and nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls into chopped nuts or coconut, roll until balls are coated, and place on waxed paper to cool. Yield: about 2 pounds, or 3 dozen nuggets 1 1-4 inches in diameter.

Butter Tafty.

Four cups sugar, three-fourths cup water, two-thirds cup butter,one-fourth teaspoon cream of tartar, extracts and colorings.

Put sugar, water, butter and cream of tartar together in a three-quart saucepan and cook to the hard crack stage (275-280 degrees), stirring frequently during the last 10 degrees to prevent scorching. Pour gently into buttered platter to cool (do not scrape pan), and set platter on cake cooler. When cool enough to handle, divide into portions, color and flavor as desired. Butter hands well and pull until candy is opaque, even-colored and stiff. Pull out into a rope about one-half inch in diameter and cut with buttered scissors into one-half inch lengths. Set aside overnight, or until crystallized. Yield: two and one-fourth pounds.

Chocolate Fudge.

Two cups sugar, two-thirds cup cream or milk, two squares chocolate or one-half cup cocoa, one-eighth teaspoon salt, two tablespoons light corn syrup, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon vanilla, one-half cup chopped nuts.

Put sugar, cream, chocolate, salt and corn syrup in a saucepan; stir over low heat until chocolate has melted and sugar is dissolved. Increase heat and boil steadily until candy thermometer registers 238 degrees Fahrenheit, or forms a soft ball in cold water. Stir only occasionally to prevent mixture from burning. Remove from stove, add butter and one-half cup chopped nuts and cool without stirring until pan is lukewarm. Add vanilla and beat with a wooden spoon. When thick turn into well-buttered star pans, or on a buttered plate to be cut into squares.

Coconut Penuchi.

One cup brown sugar, firmly packed, two-thirds cup milk, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon vanilla, one-half cup granulated sugar, dash of salt, one teaspoon butter, one can coconut.

Combine sugar, milk and salt. Cook, stirring constantly, until sugar dissolves and mixture boils. Continue cooking, without stirring, until a small amount of mixture forms a very soft ball in cold water (232 degrees Fahrenheit). Remove from fire. Add butter and vanilla. Cool to lukewarm (110 degrees Fahrenheit), then beat until mixture begins to thicken and loses its gloss. Add coconut and pour at once into lightly greased pan, 8x4 inches. When cold, cut in squares. Makes 18 pieces.

Sugared Pecans.

One cup syrup, one cup pecan or other nut meats.

Cook syrup until a small amount forms a soft ball in cold water (238 degrees Fahrenheit). Remove from fire and cool to lukewarm (110 degrees Fahrenheit). Beat until syrup begins to thicken, then drop in one pecan at a time, coat with syrup and remove with fork. Drop on waxed paper. If syrup thickens before all pecans are dipped, thin mixture slightly with a few drops of hot water.

Coconut Cherry Divinity.

Two cups sugar, two-thirds cup water, one-half can coconut, toasted and crumbled, three-fourths cup candied cherries, thinly sliced, one-half cup light corn syrup, two egg whites, stiffly beaten, one teaspoon vanilla, dash of salt.

Cook one-half cup sugar and one-third cup water together until a small amount of syrup forms a slightly firm ball in cold water (240 degrees Fahrenheit). Cook remaining sugar, water and syrup together until small amount of syrup forms a hard ball in cold water (252 degrees Fahrenheit). Remove first syrup from fire, cool slightly and pour slowly over egg whites, beating constantly until mixture loses its gloss (1 1-2 minutes). Then add second syrup slowly, beating as before. Fold in coconut, vanilla, cherries and salt and turn immediately into buttered pan, 8x8 inches. Cool until firm, cut into pieces,1x1 1-2 inches. Roll in additional toasted coconut if desired. Makes three and one-half dozen pieces.

METHODISTS PUBLISH PLAN OF CHURCH UNION

Terms for Consolidating Three Denominations Are Agreed Upon.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Methodist officials announced today the preliminary ratification of a 4,000-word "plan of union" which they hope will bring together three main branches of the church by 1940.

Culminating 70 years of negotiation, the plan calls for consolidation of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and Methodist Protestant Church under the new name of the Methodist Church.

It would unite more than 8,000,000 communicants, a Sunday school enrollment of approximately 6,000,000 and a Methodist "constituency" of more than 30,000,000.

The plan, made public by Dr. Harry E. Woolever, secretary of the joint commission on Methodist union, embraces a judicial council similar to the supreme court to hear and decide appeals from rulings of bishops and to pass on the constitutionality of actions of the general and jurisdictional conferences.

It was ratified unanimously by commissioners of the three churches last week at Cincinnati in a private meeting which church leaders said signalized the "most epochal event in American church life and in all Protestantism since the reformation."

Officials predicted the plan would receive ultimate approval. Before it can go into effect it must be ratified by the general conferences of two of the churches meeting next May and a third two years later. Then it must be approved by the more than 200 annual conferences of ministers and laymen.

The united churches have 25,000 active ministers, and own nearly 50,000 church buildings valued at $650,000,000 and 23,000 parsonages worth around $90,000,000.

Accident Victim Dies.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Fifteen-year-old Carmine Valentino died today of injuries suffered in a collision last night between a four-car wooden train of the I. R. T. Elevated line and a work train.

CUMMINGS OPENS FIGHT FOR TIGHT UTILITY CURB

Rejects Proposal to Join in Effort To Bring One Test Case.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(UP)—Attorney-General Homer S. Cummings late today curtly rejected a proposal offered in District of Columbia supreme court to restore peace between the power industry and the government after charging bitterly that utilities had conspired to wreck the federal legal machinery.

The incident occurred after the cabinet member, in one of his rare appearances in court, had asked Justice Jennings Bailey to stay seven suits brought here challenging the utility holding company act. Cummings accused the industry of refusing to cooperate with the government in waiting until the federal action against the Electric Bond & Share Company could reach the United States supreme court. John Higgins, New York lawyer and counsel for the utilities group, retorted sharply that the government had ignored all offers of cooperation and was seeking to "try an isolated case in its own court."

In this atmosphere of bitterness, Justice Bailey calmly proposed that the two factions try to "reach an agreement" on suits to test the constitutionality of the act.

Cummings, his face flushed, leaped to his feet.

"I think such negotiations would be entirely futile," he said crisply.

"Brain Trusters."

New Deal "brain trusters" who flanked the cabinet minister conferred hurriedly. A low hum swept through the crowded room. Higgins angrily interposed:

"Of course, we do not intend to force ourselves upon the attorney-general."

A clerk banged a gavel and court was hastily adjourned. A decision on the government's motion to stay the seven suits is not expected before 10 days or two weeks.

Thus the government today took the offensive in a battle which brought two defeats to President Roosevelt on Capitol Hill, resulted in the expenditure of millions of dollars by power interests and which may be catapulted in the front ranks of 1936 political issues. The fact that Cummings personally argued the case reflected the importance which the administration places upon the struggle ahead.

The government is anxious to expedite a court test of the highly controversial act which brings strict federal regulation to utility holding companies and eventually would eliminate this class of an organization held to be "unnecessary," the attorney-general said.

It costs money, he continued, to bring legal action of this kind. A single suit may cost a company $250,000. He protested that this is a wasteful expenditure of money and that most of the suits are unnecessary.

Common Knowledge.

"But," said Cummings, "it is a matter of common knowledge that the holding companies concerted with one another in their attack on this law. They sought to prostrate the government's legal machinery.

The government wants to be fair and has displayed this willingness to the utilities, the attorney-general continued. He said he would not object to the granting of a temporary injunction to the companies involved if they felt that this would give them added protection. But, Cummings argued, this isn't necessary.

Speaking slowly and emphasizing each word, Cummings then declared that if the utilities insisted upon pressing each individual action, the government would let all cases go by default and push forward with its suit against the New York company.

The companies involved in today's action are the United Light and Power Company, the United Light and Railway Company, Continental Gas and Electric Corporation, American Light and Traction Company, Tennessee Electric Power Company, North American Company and the American Waterworks and Electric Company.

Rotarians Are Invited.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 12.—The Waycross Rotary Club already has voted to attend the state convention in Brunswick next May, 100 per cent, invitation having been extended personally to the Waycross Club yesterday by President Harrell, of the Brunswick Club. The program for the convention will be mapped out at a conference of state leaders to be held in Brunswick early in January, it was announced.

Chancellor Sanford at Initiation of Phi Kappa Phi

Chancellor S. V. Sanford (left), of the University System of Georgia, was the principal speaker last night at initiation ceremonies staged by Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic honorary society, in the dining hall of Georgia Tech. He is shown here with Dr. M. L. Brittain (center), president of Tech, and Professor Roger Sheppard Howell, president of the Georgia Tech Phi Kappa Phi chapter. Staff photo by Turner Hiers.

SANFORD SPEAKER AT P. K. P. BANQUET

24 Initiated at Tech Into National Honorary Scholastic Society.

The demands of modern civilization for progressive thought and constructive action will be met largely by the honor students of the nation's colleges and universities, Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System of Georgia, last night told 22 senior students and two faculty members of Georgia Tech, who were being initiated into Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic society.

Chancellor Sanford, who was the honor guest and the principal speaker at the dinner tendered the initiates, used as his theme the demands of present civilization upon the higher institutions of learning and the opportunities of the colleges and universities in meeting the demand.

Professor Roger Sheppard Howell, president of the Georgia Tech chapter of the fraternity, presided and acted as toastmaster. He presented Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Tech, who in turn introduced the chancellor.

The ceremonies were held in the Georgia Tech dining hall and a banquet preceded the speaking. Forty-nine persons were present.

On the Air Today

WAR SITUATION—Sir Norman Angell, newspaperman, lecturer, author of books on politics and economics and holder of the Nobel peace prize, will discuss "The Neglected Aspects of the War Forces in Europe" when he speaks over WGST this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The talk is a condensed version of an address he will deliver tonight at the Pythian auditorium in New York under the auspices of Henri Barbusse Memorial committee.

"BROADWAY VARIETIES"—An old musical combination in a new setting will be revived on the "Broadway Varieties" program over WGST tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Victor Arden will desert his baton for the moment to play the piano accompaniment for Oscar Shaw in "Clap Yo' Hands" from "Oh, Kay," as he did in 1926 when they appeared together in the Gershwin musical comedy. At that time Arden was half of the two-piano team of Lehman and Arden, who had joined the "Oh, Kay" company

"TEA AT THE RITZ"—Tony Sarg, famous cartoonist and puppeteer and creator of the gargantua balloon models of the comic strip characters for the annual Thanksgiving parade in New York, will be interviewed on superstitions by Margaret Santry during her "Tea at the Ritz" program over WGST this afternoon at 3:45 o'clock.

Jerry Cooper, singing star of the program, will render song favorites of the celebrities sitting at adjoining tables.

SCHOOL OF THE AIR—Vocational guidance and current events will be the subjects to be broadcast by "The American School of the Air" over WGST this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. A dramatization of "New Avenues of Work for the Artist" will occupy the vocational guidance period, and Raymond Gram Swing, editor of the Nation, will be heard discussing "Behind the Foreign News of the Week."

RECREATION PROGRAM IS SET FOR SAVANNAH

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 12.—(UP) A recreational program for young men and women between 16 and 25 years of age will be opened in Savannah during the next few weeks as an experiment, Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator has announced.

The program, which will be under the direction of the National Youth Administration, and its organization will be supervised by R. R. Paty, state NYA director. Miss Shepperson made the announcement here while on an inspection visit to local WPA projects recently.

Miss Shepperson said the keynote of the program would be to furnish employment to boys and girls which would be primarily instructive and be designed to give them vocational training.

"We must do everything to maintain the morale of our boys and girls, she said.

Loath to abandon the fairways and the greens during the winter, members of the Conneaut (Ohio) Country Club have set up targets on the greens and use books and arrows to shoot the course.

HOFFMAN IS WARNED TO LET BRUNO DIE

Postal Card Threat Reaches Governor After Visit to Cell.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 12.—(UP) Threats against the life of Governor Harold G. Hoffman because of his intervention in the Lindbergh kidnaping case were received here tonight.

Out of mail bags, swollen by the fact that Hoffman revealed he had made a secret visit to Bruno Hauptmann in the death house, came a postcard that warned the governor to stay out of the case or suffer the consequences. The mailing point of the card was not revealed, nor was it announced whether the card was signed.

Hoffman's mail has increased tremendously since he announced last week that he had visited Hauptmann in October and that Ellis H. Parker, Burlington county detective, had entered the case in a search for new evidence. Many of the letters praised the governor for his interest, but others were vituperative. The postcard, it was understood, referred to Hauptmann as "that rat" and warned the governor to let justice take its course.

This was the second time that Hoffman has received threats. The first came soon after the trial and a special guard was posted outside his office in the statehouse. The guard was withdrawn later when interest in the case subsided. The writer of the postcard expressed the opinion that Hauptmann was guilty and that Hoffman had better let him be executed.

The legal machinery that will send Hauptmann to the chair began moving today. From the United States supreme court in Washington came official notice that Hauptmann's plea for a review of his case had been denied. A letter and a document arrived in the office of the New Jersey secretary of state.

The notice will be sent to the courthouse in Flemington where Hauptmann was convicted, and again the case will be back where it originated—Hunterdon county. With the notice will go the 14 fat volumes of the trial record—more than a million words.

On Saturday the papers will be put in final order in Flemington. Then, probably Monday, a representative of the attorney-general's office will go before Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who presided at the trial, and ask him to fix a new date for Hauptmann's execution.

The law specifies that the execution must be set for not less than four weeks or more than eight weeks hence. That means that unless Hauptmann obtains a reprieve or receives a commutation of sentence from the court of pardons, he probably will die late in January or early in February.

MERCHANTS' GROUP TO LOCATE IN MACON

MACON, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Officials of the Georgia Better Business Association, organization of independent retail and wholesale merchants, today were shaping plans for an active campaign in behalf of home-owned establishments.

The permanent executive committee of the association met here yesterday and decided to locate headquarters in Macon and launch its campaign January 1.

H. L. Chichester, of Macon, president, said a full-time secretary would be named as soon as a nomination is agreed upon by the members. Chichester said that the group was started at a meeting in October and now had grown until it includes 300 merchants from all parts of the state.

Men named as district chairmen to lead in organization of association units in all congressional districts were: Claude L. Whaley, Macon, sixth district; C. H. Hufstetler, Calhoun, seventh; M. L. Wheeler, Covington, ninth; A. H. Harvey, Thomaston, fourth; C. C. Oates, Columbus, third; F. D. Hollis, Pelham, second; J. W. McDonald, Augusta, tenth; R. W. Whirtle, Brunswick, eighth. Fifth and first district representathives are to be named later.

Fair Stock Reduced.

SANDERSVILLE, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Washington County's Fair Association stockholders have voted to reduce capital stock from $10 a share to $2.50.

MRS. ELIZA BERGMAN DIES IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Eliza J. Bergman, 63, pioneer resident of Tybee Island, Georgia coastal resort, died here today at the home of a son, Harmon A. Bergman.

The former Miss Jane McKinzie, she was the daughter of the first person to purchase land on the island. She was born and reared there.

Three other sons, John, Alfred and Robert Bergman, of Savannah, and a daughter, Mrs. John Neal, of Savannah, are among the survivors.

Fascist Soldiers Wait in Expectancy Of Attack by Frenzied Ethiopians

Ras Desta, Selassie's Son-in-Law, To Lead 150,000 'Near-Berserk' Tribesmen Against Italians on Southern Front.

By MARK BARRON.
(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press.)

WITH THE ITALIAN SOUTHERN ARMIES AT DOLO, ON THE SOMALILAND-ETHIOPIAN FRONTIER, Dec. 12.—Men and munitions were rolled up on the southern Italian front tonight to balk an expected attack by 150,000 frenzied Ethiopians.

Scouts returning to the fascist lines said warriors in those numbers were being massed at the head waters of the River Juba, which flows from Ethiopia into Italian Somaliland, by Ras Desta Demtu, son-in-law of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Desta, the scouts reported, has inspired his troops almost to the point of berserk rage.

Among the units being prepared for the front line was the "tevere" division, made up of foreign legion volunteers.

These soldiers are equipped with moveable refrigerators, ambulances and other equipment designed to combat the ravages of the desert, donated by New York Italians.

(Reports from Associated Press correspondents with the northern Italian army said the men of Marshal Pietro Badoglio eagerly were scanning radio news of the Anglo-French peace proposals, published in a newspaper at Asmara.

(The soldiers seized editions of the newspaper before the ink was dry, wondering whether they would have a chance to conduct their cherished advance on Amba Alaji, south of Makale.)

AAA COTTON DIRECTOR DEFENDS FARM POLICY

Cobb Tells Tennessee Farmers Foreign Markets Not Lost to Grower.

JACKSON, Tenn., Dec. 12.—(AP)—The American cotton grower, Cully A. Cobb, director of the AAA cotton division, said here today, has not lost his foreign markets "nor is there any prospect that we are going to lose them in the future."

Defending the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's control program, Cobb told 4,000 west Tennessee farmers that tariff barriers, exchange restrictions, quotas and trade agreements have handicapped the farmer in selling his product abroad.

He said that "there is a certain amount of cotton that the world will take at a fair price to those who produce it. We must either produce no more, or else accept the hardships of the past."

"Contrary to scary talks you have heard," Cobb continued, "we have not lost our foreign markets, nor is there any prospect that we are going to lose them in the future.

"There is no new threat and the old ones have been greatly exaggerated. There is nothing in the present cotton adjustment program or in the new program that gives foreign producing countries any advantages they haven't had.

WANG'S LAST OFFICE GIVEN TO ANOTHER

NANKING, China, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The political star of the wounded former Premier Wang Ching-wei, shot recently by an assassin, went into eclipse today with the appointment of Chang Chun, governor of Hupeh province, as his successor in the post of foreign minister.

Wang has been succeeded as dictator of the central China government by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

CANTOR B. SILVERMAN.

CANTORS TO SING

Father and Son To Give Concert Sunday.

Cantor Benjamin Silverman and his son, Cantor Savel Silverman, said to be the youngest cantor in America, will give a concert in the congregation Shearith Israel at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. At 3:30 o'clock this afternoon they may be heard in an all-Jewish program over station WGST.

The cantors have sung in many of the largest synagogs in the east, though this will be their first appearance here. They come to Atlanta from Chicago. Traditional Hebrew music will be featured at the concert Sunday. The concert will be open to the public.

GIRL TO FACE TRIAL IN KILLING OF MATE

Youthful Mother Admits She Slew Over Annulment Plea.

DENVER, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Seventeen-year-old Mary Elizabeth Smith was ordered to trial tonight for the "mistake" killing of the 19-year-old husband she feared would cloud her baby's name.

The pretty, auburn-haired girl was declared sane today by Colorado's Board of Psychiatrists. District Judge Otto Bock promptly directed that she stand trial for first degree murder.

Her husband, Robert D. Smith, whom she married after a Denver High school courtship, was slain November 23. The young woman told officers she shot him after she had been served with annulment papers.

Perplexed by the legal phraseology of the document, the girl said she thought the action meant "they will take Rodney's name away from him." Rodney is the couple's 8-month-old son.

She found an old target rifle, officers reported, and ran to the home of her sister-in-law. There police found her weeping near her husband's body. At his funeral she collapsed. Since then she has avoided all discussion of the case.

The girl pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity at the original arraignment.

Today's ruling came after two weeks' observation and she was returned to a jail cell to await trial—probably next month. Friends were attempting to obtain her release on bond.

M. J. VAN SWERINGEN, RAIL OPERATOR, DIES

Death Dissolves Partnership of Owners of Largest U. S. Rail Corporation.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Death dissolved a partnership today, which carried the brothers Van Sweringen from the obscurity of rural Ohio to the nation's largest private railroad operators.

Mantis James Van Sweringen, 54, the younger, succumbed to influenza and hypertensive myocarditis, an inflammation of the muscular portion of the heart wall.

His physicians announced influenza was a contributing factor, induced by "general exhaustion and mental and emotional strain," traceable to the tumultuous financial affairs of Van Sweringen interests subsequent to the 1929 market collapse.

Oris Paxton Van Sweringen kept vigil in the lonely hours before dawn beside his brother's deathbed in Lakeside hospital before his death at 7:15 a. m.

As they faced the world and won a nation's recognition, the brothers awaited the advent of death—together.

In keeping with a characteristic modesty, almost akin to timidity, funeral services Saturday at the brothers' secluded home will be private.

The place of burial had not been decided upon.

Van Sweringen was born July 8, 1881, at Wooster, Ohio. Oris was then two years old.

The inseparable brothers developed exclusive suburban Shaker Heights, the scene of their boyhood, after having failed in a previous venture.

Their first venture into transportation was the purchase of a rapid transit line to serve Shaker Heights residents.

In quick succession, they acquired the New York, Chicago & St. Louis railroad, the Toledo & Western, the Lake Erie & Western, the Detroit-Toledo Shore Line, the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Pere Marquette, the Hocking Valley, the Wheeling & Lake Erie and, finally, the Missouri Pacific and its subsidiaries.

Throughout their unprecedented expansion Mantis was the visionary, Oris the executor—yet associates assert they ranked equally in business acumen.

Neither married.

They shared a town house and a country home with their sisters, Edith and Carrie.

Neither had a hobby.

Acquaintances assert it was traditional that all business matters however trivial were settled by conferences between them.

Their unobtrusive personalities won the confidence of Wall Street's most powerful financiers.

After the collapse of the market in 1929 and the subsequent turning over by the Van Sweringens of a large part of their assets to New York bankers in an effort to keep their empire intact they were told by these financial interests to continue active operations of their widespread dynasty.

MOTHER TESTIFIES IN DEFENSE OF SON

J. W. Nelson Jr., Slayer of Father, Is Released On $3,000 Bond.

MATHEWS, Va., Dec. 12.—(AP)—J. Wesley Nelson Jr., 25, charged with killing his father at home last Sunday, was ordered held for grand jury action by a Virginia trial justice today after his mother testified her son shot as her "mean drunk" husband tried to choke her.

The young man, pictured by his mother as a firearms expert, was released under $3,000 bond by Trial Justice Catesby Jones for appearance at the opening of Mathews county circuit court January 20.

His mother said that her husband, 48-year-old Wesley Nelson, had been drinking when he came into the kitchen of their home here Sunday afternoon.

She said the elder man seized his son by the hair, and that when she intervened, he released his son and began choking her.

She said she felt her son's hand on her shoulder and the detonation of the pistol. Her husband slumped to the floor dead.

BLAZING SHIP LANDS WITHOUT MOTOR'S AID

WICHITA FALLS, Texas, Dec. 12. (AP)—A drama of the air—a dislodged motor tearing through the fuselage, the plane afire—was described tonight by a passenger.

The 12-passenger airliner, although badly damaged, was landed at 60 miles an hour by Pilot Lee Bishop, ripping through a fence to a stop on a plowed field near Childress today.

"First the motor slipped from its moorings and the propellor started cutting through the fuselage," recalled Ervin Burns, Los Angeles, a passenger with Walter Cline, of Wichita Falls, Texas, on the plane. Both are oil men.

"The propellor was so close that Co-Pilot George Farnham had to sit on his feet to keep from being cut, but he kept right on sending out radio messages to near-by airports.

"Then the left side caught fire. Bishop immediately cut in the build-in extinguishers and that difficulty was taken care of in fine shape."

SUICIDE ATTEMPTS TO INVOLVE DAUGHTER

UNKHANNOCK, Pa., Dec. 12.—(UP)—Frank Majovski, 46-year-old farmer, committed suicide today after attempting to leave circumstantial evidence which would pin the fatal shooting on his daughter, Sheriff William Shupp said tonight.

The intoxicated father forced his daughter, Tessie, 17, at the point of a butcher knife, to point a rifle at him as he attempted to pull a string attached to the trigger, police reported. The girl told officers Majovski told her to grip the rifle and "put your fingerprints on it."

"They'll find your fingerprints and you'll burn for this," the father allegedly shouted.

Majovski pulled the string and the shot went wild, the daughter said, and she ran into the yard of their home. Her father fired a second shot after her as she ran, she said, before shooting himself.

NORTHERN ALABAMA BLANKETED BY SNOW

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Snow blanketed North Alabama today in a mantle of white, with a forecast of more snow for the northern part of the state tonight.

Snow fell steadily through the forenoon with more than an inch covering the ground at Huntsville. At Decatur the ground was steadily being covered.

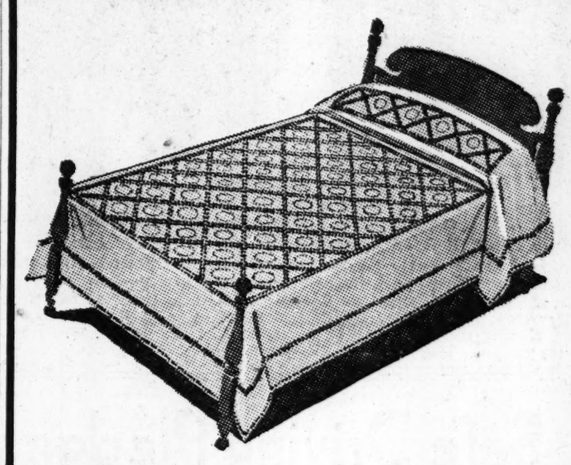

Birmingham was pelted by sleet at times from midnight until 9 a. m., when rain began falling and the sleet and snow melted away.

AIR KINGS SKIM PYLONS IN GUSTY MIAMI WINDS

4 Planes Felled by Pranky Breezes at Eighth Annual All-American Show.

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 12.—(AP)—In high, gusty winds that upset four ships during the day, sky speedsters of the nation roared around Miami's skies today to open the city's eighth annual All-American air racing program.

A four-place cabin ship, an army bomber and combat plane and the famed "Flying Flea," built by Ed Nirmaier, of Cincinnati, Ohio, all suffered in the pranky wind. No person was injurred.

Honors in the day's racing program, curtailed by weather conditions, went to Ben F. Stegall, of Savannah, Ga., and Tex Rankin, of Portland, Ore., and Cincinnati.

Stegall pushed his fast Travelair around the 25-mile closed course at 155.190 miles an hour to win the event for C class, 800-cubic-inch ships, while Rankin's Ryan monoplane outclassed the field to win the 15-mile race for C class, 550-cubic-inch ships at 104.548 miles an hour.

Two feature races, the free-for-all for open-cockpit or cabin planes of around 60 horsepower and the Shell trophy, high speed test for all, were postponed until tomorrow.

Crackups started even before the program got underway.

An army bomber nosed over as 92 ships of the army's general headquarters air force roared away to parade, in formation, over Miami. A combat plane tipped up on its propeller on landing.

Nirmaier's 316-pound, two-cylinder "Flying Flea," with which he hoped to set records where none existed, landed smoothly before the stands but ground-looped in turning. Propeller, tail assembly and engine mounting of the tiny ship were damaged.

Meanwhile in mid-town Miami, a cabin plane owned by Joe Cannon, of New York, and piloted by Bill Eddy, overshot the Viking airport in the high winds, settling in Biscayne bay. Eddy and a passenger were fished out, the pilot scratched.

Unhampered by the wind however, was the galaxy of stunt fliers.

The navy's three "hell divers," headed by Lieutenant Commander K. C. Gehres; the army's famed "three men on a flying trapeze," led by Major Claire Chenault, and Tex Rankin and Harold Neumann, Moline, Ill., all looped, barrell-rolled, snap-rolled and stunted to the entire satisfaction of the thousands—alternately dust and rain sprinkled—sitting in the stands.

Top thrills came in the exhibition put on by Lem Povey, head of the Cuban army air force, who spun his combat ship across the field time after time in nair-raising feats.

With 420 ships here for the show and more expected, city aviation officials expressed hope weather would favor tomorrow's program.

WRIGLEY DOLLARS ARE SANTA'S ONLY RIVAL

Search for Wrigley Gum Users Continues.

By MR. SPEAR
(The Wrigley Representative)

The Wrigley representatives have spread early Christmas cheer in all parts of city and suburbs in the past few weeks, and we are going to continue to pay new dollar bills for Wrigley opinions for several more weeks. Have your package of Double Mint, Spearmint, Juicy Fruit, or P. K. with you at all times. You can never tell when or where one of us will approach you with the question, "Have you an open package of Wrigley's Gum?" Just be prepared to show an open package of Wrigley's, and give your opinion of it; then, when you are approached, you will be paid a brand-new dollar bill.

EMORY STUDENT KNOWS.

EUGENE GILLESPIE, a student of journalism at Emory Univ., when approached by Miss Mint, gave this opinion, "Wrigley's Double Mint has the best peppermint flavor of any gum on the market."

I hope your name, or the name of a friend is in this partial list of prepared Wrigley users. There are hundreds of names which haven't been in the paper, but there is only space for these few: R. E. WILHAMS, 405 Arnold St.; C. P. AIKEN, 364 Tenth St.; S. P. DAVIS, 782 Kennedy St.; MISS BLANCHE PINYAN, 695 Durant Pl.; BETTY LAZENBY, 701 Grant St.; T. G. RAMPLEY, 451 Glenwood Ave.; W. T. CONYERS AND COVINGTON.

Wrigley dollars flowed freely in Conyers and Covington when we visited there. Here are just a few of the many prepared Wrigley users who received new dollar bills—GRADY ALMAND, Conyers, Ga.; LILLIE BLACK, Conyers, Ga.; JOE FARMER, Conyers, Ga.; ELEANOR PIPER, Covington, Ga.; ANNELLE BALLARD, Covington, Ga.; JULIUS LASETER, Covington, Ga.; MRS. HENRY ODUM, Covington, Ga.; C. J. GUNNELLS, Covington, Ga.

These are just a handful of the people we met in the last day or so who received a Wrigley dollar. We will be here for a long time, so have an open package of Wrigley's—any of the four flavors—at all times, and when you are approached, you, too, will be a dollar richer.—(adv.)

COMMITTEE TO PLAN JACKSON DAY DINNERS

Sponsorship of Jackson Day dinners in Georgia yesterday was turned over to the Georgia Roosevelt clubs by action of Mayor Key and Ralph L. Turner, of McDonough, president of the Georgia clubs, called a meeting of the steering committee for Tuesday night in Atlanta to lay plans for the celebration.

The meeting will be held at the Piedmont hotel with Georgia senators, congressmen and other leading democrats of the state in attendance.

In calling the session of the steering committee, Turner acted on a request by Major Trammell Scott and Colonel Gerald P. O'Keeffe.

Mrs. Boyd D. Quarles, of Decatur, director of the woman's division of the Georgia clubs, will have charge of all arrangements made by her group.

Chairman of district clubs, who will participate in planning the statewide program, are:

Jim Gillis, Soperton, first district; Royal Daniel, Quitman, second; R. W. Page, Columbus, third; W. S. Allen, Greenville, fourth; Mr. Scott, Atlanta, fifth; W. H. Lovett, Dublin, sixth; V. C. Pickering, Chatsworth, seventh; M. M. Belote, Valdosta, eighth; Hamilton McWhorter, Lexington, ninth, and Hugh Carithers, Winder, tenth.

P. E. JONES PRESIDENT POLICE RELIEF GROUP

Detective P. E. Jones was chosen president of the Atlanta Police Relief Association yesterday at the annual election of officers. He was unopposed and served as vice president last year.

In the race for vice president, Detective D. T. Barge, by a vote of 179 to 20, defeated Patrolman Arthur Dailey. Patrolman Virgil Whitley was re-elected secretary and treasurer. He was unopposed.

The balloting was done at boxes placed in police headquarters, members of the various watches voting before going on duty.

Safe Driving Pledge

In the interest of accident prevention and safer conditions on the highways and in co-operation with the Safety Council of The Atlanta Constitution, I am making the following pledge:

1. To drive at moderate speed and on own side of road.
2. Not to pass cars on curves or hills.
3. To stop at stop signs.
4. Not to jump traffic lights.
5. In city traffic to be particularly watchful for pedestrians stepping into the line of traffic from parked cars.
6. Always to give hand signals showing my intention of turning to the left, to the right, or stopping, and not to leave the curb from a parked position without giving a signal.
7. To be fair to other drivers in all respects and to refrain from reckless driving.

Education, Guidance, Placement Pictured by Vocational Experts

In an effort to present a comprehensive picture of the entire process of vocational education, guidance and placement, experts in these fields of public service appeared yesterday and Wednesday before the occupational conference in session at Atlanta University and outlined the procedure from the 'cradle to the grave.' Discussion of the work of educational training and guidance in the elementary and high schools was followed by a consideration of testing, the keeping of cumulative records, the interviewing of students and others and finally of the actual task of placing trained persons in jobs where they best fit.

Participating in Thursday afternoon's session, which concluded this phase of the conference's work, were three men who have made noteworthy contributions to the advancement of the science of educational guidance; Alphonse Heningburg, personnel director of Tuskegee Institute, who urged the necessity of keeping full and continued records of students and graduates and detailed plans for the maintenance of such cumulative records; R. O'Hara Lanier, dean, Houston College for Negroes, who discussed in detail the theory and practice of interviewing as a means of gathering information regarding the individual, and Lloyd M. Cofer, formerly personnel officer of Fisk University and now a member of the guidance staff of the Detroit public schools, who presented the problem of placement.

Public Responsibility.

The business of locating jobs and then placing the right person in the right job is the task of the placement officer, Dr. Cofer said. In his opinion this is a public responsibility. When placement is handled through labor unions there is politics involved, he said; when it is the work of social work agencies the element of sentiment enters in and when it is a private agencies' function, the commercial aspects are uppermost.

F. S. Beers, university examiner, University of Georgia System, in his talk at the first of the two general sessions on the guidance process, likened psychological testing to the diagnosis of a person by a physician. The physician, he said, assumes a scientific attitude toward the patient while the patient tells of his symptoms. The doctor matches this information against what he knows of physical behavior, determines the ailment, and attempts to remedy the condition. In the same way the testing of an individual to determine his educational needs and occupational possibilities must be built around a scientific diagnosis, he said. The art of diagnosis has been fairly well developed, but the remedial side of the process has been much neglected. Educational and vocational counseling must be regarded as an art that is based on scientific knowledge of the individual, Mr. Beers concluded.

50 Per Cent Wrong.

According to John T. Bobbitt, of the United States Employment Service, it has been found through a study of FERA cases that 50 per cent of those persons studied had followed vocation other than those for which they had prepared. To be able to counsel an individual successfully, he said, the guidance officer should know the individual's native and acquired capacities and aptitudes, his personal character, social and economic background, interests, and state of health.

In a consideration of the theory of testing individuals, H. G. Bishop, also of the United States Employment Service, stated it is to be assumed that everything of importance about an individual may be tested, and in any test all persons will vary.

The procedure of the Atlanta public schools in their vocational guidance program, according to Dr. Harold H. Bixler, director of research and guidance, is to offer a variety of shop courses, together with a general business course and a general mathematics course, so the student may accumulate a variety of experiences through his six high school years. In the Booker T. Washington High school for colored, he stated, vocational training is offered in woodworking, cooking, sewing, handicrafts, typing and shorthand, bookkeeping, auto mechanics, and tailoring. These experiences enable the student to make choices as to his future career.

Attend Debate.

On Thursday evening the members of the conference attended the debate between Morehouse College and Oxford University at Sale Hall chapel, Morehouse College, at which the matter of a written constitution as a safeguard to social progress was argued. Preceding the debate the Morehouse Glee Club, under the direction of Kemper Harreld, sang. President S. H. Archer, of Morehouse College, presided.

Friday morning the conferees will resume attendance at the series of "horizontal" group discussions, which are organized along the lines of professional interest with the following chairmen in charge: B. F. Hubert, president, Georgia State Industrial College, rural schools; F. R. Lampkin, principal, Spencer High school, Columbus, Ga., secondary schools; Dr. W. S. Nelson, president, Shaw University, colleges and universities; William C. Bowen, administrative assistant to the director of employment, Tennessee Valley Authority, commerce and industry. At these meetings these groups will formulate their recommendations as to future procedure and policies in vocational training and guidance, which will be presented at the closing session Saturday morning.

Personnel work in industry will form the subject of Friday afternoon's session. Kendall Weisiger, educational director of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, will serve as chairman at this gathering.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER; MAN GUILTY OF FRAUD

MORGANTON, N. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Judge H. Hoyle Sink, finding that nothing but circumstantial evidence had been produced in the trial of John Richardson for slaying I. N. McKinney, ordered a non-suit in the case today, but sentenced Richardson to 13 years in state's prison for forgery.

The state alleged Richardson, 40-year-old mountain farmer, killed McKinney, his 59-year-old landlord, and buried the body in a shallow grave, to cover up the fact that he had forged McKinney's name to checks totaling $75.

Richardson denied all knowledge of the slaying, and Judge Sink granted his non-suit motion at the close of state's evidence.

Richardson was in jail charged with the forgeries when McKinney's body was found last summer. On two counts in this case, in which evidence had been taken during the murder trial, Richardson was sentenced to serve non-concurrent terms of 6 to 10 years and 7 to 10 years.

CHICKENS, COOP TAKEN BY THOROUGH BURGLAR

Not satisfied with merely stealing eight hens, a burglar also walked off with the coop in which they were kept, Elwood Matthews, grocer, reported to police yesterday morning.

The theft occurred during the night from in front of Matthews' store at 559 Piedmont avenue, N. E. The hens were valued at $8, and the coop at $3, Matthews said.

COUNCILMAN HAIRE TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Councilman Howard Haire, ninth ward councilman and manager of the classified department of The Constitution, last night was taken to Georgia Baptist hospital, as a result of another serious heart attack.

He was stricken early in the week, and had been confined to his home, 1092 Colquitt avenue, N. E., but the attack yesterday caused doctors to order him transferred immediately to the hospital.

Burglars Seek in Vain To Open Unlocked Safe

Police had the laugh yesterday on a burglar who tampered with the combination of a safe in offices of Raley Brothers, wholesale grocers, 186 Peters street, S. W., because the safe was unlocked all the time!

The burglar, however, stole $25 from drawers in the office. The robbery occurred during the night, and was discovered by the janitor yesterday morning. The combination had been "fooled with," but detectives grinned when they learned the safe was unlocked.

It contained a small amount of cash.

Bureau of Accident Prevention Reduces Evanston Traffic Toll

The police department of Evanston (Ill.) operates a Bureau of Accident Prevention. Since the inception of the bureau, Evanston's rate of deaths from automobile accidents has been reduced to a point where it is far below the average for many other cities and the country as a whole.

Accident prevention is the aim of The Constitution Safety Council and its 100,000 safe driving pledge signers. And in stopping accidents the Safety Council is not interested merely in strict obedience of law. It is more than that. It is the saving of human life and the prevention of countless painful and maiming injuries that leave accident survivors incapicated for the enjoyment of life.

A bureau of accident prevention might not be a bad thing for the Atlanta police department. Or the state might establish such a department in lieu of a state driver's license law, which has proved highly successful in slowing up the killers who drive automobiles wherever it has been put into effect. It seems that Georgia cannot get a state drivers' license bill through her assembly. Georgians agree that something must be done to stop the slaughter on streets and highways. Perhaps a bureau of accident prevention will help.

But how does the bureau work?

How Plan Succeeds.

Let Lieutenant T. K. Kreml, director of Evanston's bureau, tell you how it works in the fight against the record of death-dealing carelessness:

"That this deplorable record can be improved—and quickly—has been demonstrated again and again by a score of American cities and several tates. That, moreover, the police must take a postive position of leadership in the movement for prevention, is beyond contradiction.

"Enforcement, that weapon peculiar to police, has proved to be the keenest and strongest weapon available in this fight. In those jurisdictions where enforcement is being used fairly and yet vigorously in combating this problem, the accident rate has decreased. Decreased, in fact, in almost direct but inverse ratio to the enforcement rate.

"Thus, the proof that 'accident' and 'act of God' are not synonymous lies in our hands, rusting from disuse, while we cast our eyes about in search of 'solutions' in the nature of a miraculous deliverance.

"With enforcement we must lead the offense on high speeds, reckless and drunken driving, admittedly among the leading factors in the repeating tragedy which we term our annual traffic accident toll.

Must Accept Challenge.

"We, the people of America, must accept this challenge if we are to perform our simple duty and if we are to continue our march forward to higher professional standards. The protection of human life on the street and highway is not only our responsibility but or opportunity."

That is Lieutenant Kreml's view on the horrible condition brought about by careless driving. It is the view of all right thinking Georgians. It is the view of the 100,000 persons who have signed the Safety Council's Safe Driving Pledge.

It means strict law enforcement, "cracking down" on reckless and drunken drivers. Only the guilty are afraid and howl against a desperate effort to make the automobile a useful implement instead of a weapon of destruction. The wise and thinking people of this state welcome any legislation, any law enforcement, any voluntary effort that will make streets and highways safer for themselves and their fellow citizens.

How to Help.

You can help personally in this necessary campaign against careless driving. Here's how:

Pledge yourself to observe the seven simple rules of safe driving and practice them every minute you are at the wheel of an automobile. Elsewhere in this issue appears a printed Safe Driving pledge blank. Clip it out, sign it and mail it to the Safety Council, Atlanta Constitution, with a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Two attractive red and white pledge signer stickers will be sent you. Their presence on the front and rear windows of your car reminds you that safe driving may mean a life saved and shows other motorists that you have joined in the fight against the greatest single menace to life in the country.

An irate motorist can tell you more about the necessity of using the correct traffic signals shown above than can be printed here. Do not brand yourself as a dangerous and discourteous driver by failing to use the simple traffic signals. They are the "gentlemen's agreement" of good drivers.

MURPHREE TO FACE LAND CHARGE TODAY

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Lieutenant Governor Dennis Murphree, whose official acts in signing 384 patents to state-owned tax forfeited lands on November 9 while acting governor inspired an investigation of the state land commission office, will testify before a senate committee tomorrow.

The lieutenant governor has charged that his political enemy, Governor Sennett Conner, instigated the charges of "irregularity" against him and Land Commissioner R. D. Moore. A house of representatives resolution charged that the patents were signed at the instance of Murphree's associates in an effort to run up the price on lands embraced in a proposed federal forestry project.

Land Commissioner Moore was still on the witness stand today.

CAR OF MISSING CUBAN IS FOUND IN HAVANA

HAVANA, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The automobile of Nicolas Castano, kidnaped Cuban millionaire, who is being held for $500,000 ransom, was discovered today in a public garage. The garage owner, who turned the car over to police, said two unidentified men had left the car with him Monday to be greased. The men tried to conceal their faces, he added. Later the garage man was notified by phone that illness had prevented the owner from calling for the car, he said. Castano was kidnaped while driving on a highway near here last Monday.

NEW TRIAL IS DENIED TO EDITH MAXWELL

Girl Must Serve Sentence Unless High Court Intervenes.

WISE, Va., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Edith Maxwell must serve a sentence of 25 years in the penitentiary for the murder of her father unless the supreme court of Virginia interferes.

The silver-haired, diminutive Judge H. A. W. Skeen today upheld the verdict of first-degree murder and overruled a motion for a new trial after listening to more than three hours of argument in behalf of the 21-year-old school teacher.

Edith, who contended she struck with a slipper in self-defense when her father, Trigg Maxwell, village blacksmith at Pound, tried to beat her for staying out late at night, wept as the elderly judge announced his decision in crisp, short sentences.

"There is evidence upon which the verdict can stand; I rule that the verdict of the jury be carried out as provided by law," Judge Skeen said, as the girl, neatly attired in a green dress and a brown hat, lost control of her emotions and sobbed audibly.

The defense contended that the state had failed utterly in its effort to show the girl has murdered her father, argued the justice of the verdict, and asserted that defense testimony not contradicted by witnesses and circumstances must be accepted as true. It was likewise contended that the court erred in not instructing the jury as to the degrees of guilt in homicide other than first-degree murder.

Edith had regained her composure by the time she was led back to her cell in the red brick jail. Judge Skeen granted a 60-day stay of the sentence to permit attorneys to file a petition for a writ of error in the supreme court of appeals.

BOUNTY FOR MILLS URGED BY SPINNER

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—New England cotton manufacturers were urged today to back a movement to establish a federal export "bounty" as a means of aiding the depressed industry, suffering from foreign competition.

The proposal was outlined to cotton men here by Samuel C. Lamport, of New York, who described it as a plan to pay American manufacturers a bounty on goods exported with funds derived from customs duties on imports.

Lamport is chairman of a committee of the textile export association set up to press for the plan.

Painful Piles
Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves
If you think an operation is always the only way to escape the misery of torturing Piles, it's because you haven't heard of HEM-ROID, the harmless internal medicine discovered by a western physician.
After years of study Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was convinced that the cause of Piles was internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel—the hemorrhoidal veins filled with stagnant blood—and that the right and safe way to get freedom from Pile agony was to remove the cause with an internal medicine. Immediately the doctor set to work to find the remedy. He succeeded and called his prescription HEM-ROID.
Pile sufferers everywhere are benefitting by Dr. Leonhardt's discovery, so why doubt or delay longer when Jacobs Drug Stores, and all druggists say, "No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe clean way to get rid of your pile misery or money back."—(adv.)

BIG BROTHERS MEET AT CHAMBER TONIGHT

tenth, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth wards, Decatur, Haynes Manor, Oakhurst, Peachtree Hills, Peachtree Heights, College Park, Hapeville and the Emory section announced yesterday that details for the sale in their districts have been worked out.

Tonight Chairman Hall and Barfield will announce distribution points for the papers in every ward and section.

Two more church organizations volunteered yesterday to co-operate with the Big Brothers wholeheartedly. They were the men's class of the Edgewood Baptist church and the Morningside Baptist church, where Anthony Duggan will be in charge of the sale.

Touching Request.

Barfield said Big Brothers are more enthusiastic this year than they have ever been and that they are determined not to let a single child go without presents Christmas Day. Their determination is engendered by such letters as the authentic sad request made to the Big Brother Club, which follows:

"Dear Big Brothers, (writes a sorrowing mother),

"I am wondering it you will help me with something for my children on Christmas.

"I have five little girls and their daddy has forsaken them. A relief agency gives us a grocery order each week, but I don't see any means of paying Santa to come to see my little girls this Christmas.

"Don't think I am trying to get ahead of anyone, I'm only concerned about my children as any mother would be who hasn't any money whatsoever. My children are Frances, 13; Nellie, 12; Milderd, 9; Vivian, 6, and Bernice, 4. Thanking you all very much, I will appreciate anything you can do for them."

Founded 3 Years Ago.

That is the kind of family the Big Brothers Club was organized three years ago to help at Christmastime. The Constitution and the American Legion Post No. 1 founded the club and every year conducts its campaign to raise money for the poor children.

After reading that letter from the heartbroken mother, can any Atlantan fail to help give happiness to her five little girls? No Big Brother could, that's why they are so enthusiastic.

But the Big Brother paper sale isn't the only work the club does. It sponsors the grandest charity ball of the year also. This Christmas ball will be held at the Shrine Mosque on the night of December 18, and it is scheduled to be the gayest social affair of the winter season.

Pictures of Queens.

Pretty young women are now selling tickets to the ball in the queen contest. The one who sells the most will be crowned in a scene of splendor at the ball. Look for pictures of the queens in The Constitution of Sunday.

Tomorrow night the Big Brothers will be on the air over station WGST at 9 o'clock. Chairman Hall, Chairman Barfield and Frank R. Fling, chairman of the speaker's committee, will tell Atlanta about the Big Brother Club and about the poor children it helps have a bright and cheerful Christmas every year.

Sidney Wooten, C. W. Hall, G. W. Grant, A. W. Evans, J. T Hoffman, W. W. Bateman, Edward Bray and Edward Anchors will sing as a double quartet on the Big Brothers radio program.

W. L. Van Dyke and Mrs. Katherine Connerat, cochairman of the charity ball committee, said yesterday more than 2,000 persons will attend the ball next Wednesday night at which many of the most prominent Georgians will be present.

The great paper sale comes Sunday morning, and all Atlantans who wish

Decatur Residents Rally To Cause of Big Brothers

Decatur residents rallied to the Big Brother campaign yesterday as Major Scott Candler organized the club to sell Big Brother papers Sunday morning. If you cannot attend the big meeting tonight, call Walnut 6857 and tell Mrs. George L. Baker, club secretary, that you want to help sell the Big Brother Constitution to your friends and neighbors in your ward. She will direct you where to go Sunday morning to get your papers.

Big Brothers are looking forward to lots of fun when they become newsboys for the sake of charity. They will ring your doorbell Sunday, so give them a hearty welcome. Donate all you can for your special Big Brother edition of The Constitution because whatever you give will buy a bit of happiness for a poor child.

'OPPORTUNITIES' FACE BLEAK CHRISTMAS DAY

Food, Clothing Needed.

Children pinched for want of the food that growing young bodies need, cold for lack of simple clothes and, in many cases, kept outo f school because they haven't the warm clothing essential on cold winter days.

Bedridden fathers, unable to work and provide themselves for their loved ones, tortured unbearably as they see their babies suffer.

These are the ones who appeal, through these opportunities, to Atlanta. It is not The Constitution, the columns of this paper are merely the medium through which their stories are told. The appeal is direct from the most vital human need to you, and you, and you. We can do no more than lay the cases before you. Success or failure of the prayer is your responsibility alone.

Facts About Appeal.

Some facts regarding the need of the Ten Opportunities appeal and of the manner in which we act as your contact to these needy ones can be told, however.

In the first place, all contributions to the Ten Opportunities are used in full, without one cent of deduction, for the families to which they are given. There are no expenses of operation, no overhead in this appeal. If you give one dollar you may be assured that 100 cents go to the cause for which you give it—if you give $500 then you may know the objects of your gift get full 50,000 cents.

The need is real and the cases are worthy. The 10 families chosen as beneficiaries of the opportunities appeal are chosen as the 10 which stand in greatest need of this help and, at the same time, the 10 who hold out greatest promise of ultimate rehabilitation, of future self-dependence. The 10 whose younger members, the children, promise, if given this chance, to grow up into worthy men and women, into citizens who will be genuine assets to their community, to our city and your city.

Hundreds Investigated.

Hundreds of cases have been investigated by trained workers who give their services in the cause. And, from these hundreds, 10 have been chosen. We would like to provide for them all, but until the appeal for these 10 is answered in full, we can hold out no hope to others, no matter how pitiful their need, how urgent their plea.

Atlantans are prosperous, this year, we know. Stocks have paid good dividends, retail and wholesale trade has been good. The income of many of us has increased largely during the past year and there are scores who could, if they would, assume the responsibility for one, at least, of these families without undue effort, alone. Many a man in Atlanta could take care of an Opportunity family for the entire year by the sacrifice of one fishing trip next summer. Many a woman could furnish the small sum necessary to save a mother and children from seperation and despair, by doing without something she really doesn't need.

The entire year's necessities of many of these families has been won or lost on many an evening over many an Atlanta bridge table.

There are hundreds of organized groups in Atlanta who could, just by saying so, adopt one of these families for a year. Any club or class or group or society that has, say, 60 members, can provide the $240 needed by Opportunities Two or Four by a gift of only $4 each, spread over the entire year, less than 35 cents a month per member. And even Opportunity One whose need, measured by dollars, is greatest of all those yet told, would require only 60 cents a month from that same group of 60.

Send Your Contributions.

There is, however, yet another way in which you can help in this great cause. If you cannot take an entire opportunity single-handed, if you belong to no group that can be interested, you can send your contribution, in whatever amount your own financial situation permits, to the Ten Opportunities Fund. This general fund will, when the final story is written for Christmas Day, undoubtedly be enough to take care of some of the opportunities. Let your five, or ten, or fifty or hundred-dollar gift be one of those that swelled this accumulation of money, devoted to this great cause. Send your check today to Hugh Trotti, treasurer of the Ten Opportunities Fund, care of The Constitution.

Your contribution, great or small, will be acknowledged here. Either in your proper name or, if you prefer, under some anonymous designation. Just state your preference in your letter.

The five opportunities whose cases have now been laid before you and their needs, follow:

Number One, presented last Monday, Mrs. M., widow with three children, needs $36 a month.

Number Two, presented Tuesday, three orphaned children and their aged grandmother, need is $20 a month.

Number Three, presented Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Y. and three children, must have $25 a month.

Number Four, presented yesterday, Mrs. E., widow with six children, needs $20 a month.

Number Five, presented today, Mrs. B. and two very young sons, needs $30 a month.

Five Opportunities have knocked. Five little families are waiting for your response. Will your conscience and your heart permit you to let them wait in vain?

Opportunity No. 5

faced life with her two babies, alone, in a state of nervous collapse. Physicians said her physical condition was "dangerously rundown" and her mental condition, "highly nervous." The babies, Billy and little Joan, had malaria and were already showing personality effects from their abnormal home life.

Now, the Family Welfare Society is assisting Mrs. B. to rebuild her home and has worked out a program of health treatment, child guidance and economic assistance that, if it is possible to carry it out, will cultivate for the community worth-while and eventually independent citizens $30 Monthly Needed.

To keep this home together, to give those two children a chance and leave them under the care of their own mother—a woman splendidly equipped for motherhood, if she herself can be relieved of worry and anxiety—will require $30 a month.

The man or woman or group that can furnish $30 a month to Mrs. B. and her two babies may know that the money is readjusting a little family that, during the last four years, has known unhappiness, privation and sorrow that few have to face. It will wipe away the dark clouds, bring a wholesome, adjusted contented and slowly erase from the record of two young lives the pitiful memories that fate scrawled upon their baby minds.

Two baby lives and a mother on the auction block of destiny. Will you outbid Dispair? Thirty dollars a month, $360 for the year, will do it.

Negro Killed.

MT. DORA, Fla., Dec. 12.—(AP)—One negro was killed and six others injured today when a truck in which they were riding collided with another truck. A man listed as Paul Austin, of Winter Garden, driver of the second vehicle, was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

SCIENTIST EXPLORES SUSPENSION OF LIFE

been demonstrated and the principal points in favor of this claim.

"The importance of the facts on which such speculations are based cannot be denied," he said, "but the interpretation of the experimental results seem to be incorrect. The spiritists neglect the fact of the existence of clairvoyance.

"Nevertheless, we know positively that clairvoyants are capable of perceiving past and future events. Therefore it is not possible to make a distinction between the survival of a psychic principle and a phenomenon of clairvoyance.

"There is no scientific proof, at present, of the survival after death of the mind, but no one has the right to say that such survival is impossible.

"It is far from being unreasonable to believe some part of human personality may escape death."

He said some day almost every individual may die of old age only.

Three Avenues Open.

"Can we progress further?" he asked. "Perhaps, if we learn more about these mechanisms of life that bring about death. The problem can be attacked in different ways.

"The first one consists of analyzing the conditions responsible for the aging tissues.

"A second manner of opposing death is the search for the physiological factors that determine longevity."

These he explained as heredity, diet and mode of living, the latter two already in early stages of practicability.

"Death could also be retarded," he said, "by a rejuvenation operation. Through this operation the subject would be carried back to a previous stage of his life."

Dr. Carrel cited the rejuvenation operations of Steinach, in ligation of a duct, and Voronoff in transplanting chimpanzee glands and said:

Rejuvenation's Obstacles.

"The problem of rejuvenation is far more complex. It cannot be settled in this simple manner. Old age is due to simultaneous alterations of the tissues and the humors, and not to the deficiency of a single gland.

"If an old man was given the endocrine glands of a still-born infant, and his serum replaced frequently by a synthetic serum of proper composition, he perhaps would be rejuvenated.

"It is not impossible that, in the course of the next two or three centuries, rejuvenation procedures will be brought within the reach of medicine.

"There is a fourth, although very remote, possibility of postponing for a long period of time the death of a few individuals.

"It is known that certain animals, such as the small arthropod, tardigradum, stop their metabolism when they are dried. A condition of latent life is thus induced. If after a lapse of several weeks, one moistens these desiccated animals, they revive and are capable of leading normal like again.

Rat's Tail "Revived."

"Although a tardigradum contains highly differentiated cells, such as nervous cells, it is capable of standing the rough treatment of being dried. Long ago it was reported by Paul Bert that the tail of a rat, after being dried, had been transplanted with success to another rat.

"More recently, Alexandre Lipschutz grafted into guinea pigs ovaries that had been partly dessicated. Strange to say, these ovaries resumed their endocrine secretion and maintained their normal structure. Less dangerous methods of placing mammalian tissues in a condition of latent life will probably be discovered.

"Some individuals could be put into storage for long periods of time, brought back to normal existence for other periods, and permitted in this manner to live for several centuries. We should remember the Utopias of today are sometimes the realities of tomorrow."

INJUNCTION REFUSED ON LABOR ELECTION

board is an illegal interference with the individual freedom of action of employes under the fifth amendment; that the labor act binds only the employer and deprives him of "bargaining equality," and that the board's action would deprive the employer of his property without due process.

Thomas I. Emerson, attorney for the Atlanta regional offices of the labor board, and Frank Alan Constangy, attorney for the United Textile Workers, came into court practically unprepared. They had been notified of the injunction suits at 10 a. m. and the hearing was set for noon, but their extemporaneous arguments resulted in Judge Pomeroy's quick decision.

Reports yesterday were that with the denial of the injunction plea in Fulton courts, another attempt would be made to obtain an injunction in the supreme court of the District of Columbia before the election is held Saturday. This suit will be against the national board, which ordered the election last Sunday.

MORGENTHAU BARES HEAVY SILVER BUYING

treasury is authorized and directed to purchase silver at home or abroad for present or future delivery with any direct obligation, coin, or currency of the United States authorized by law, or with any funds in the treasury not otherwise appropriated—'"

He paused for emphasis.

"Now get this—'At such rates and at such times and upon such terms and conditions as he may deem reasonable and most advantageous to the public interest.'

"I have bought silver every day this week—on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in many different places."

Sources Are Shielded.

This, he conceded, marked a departure from past practice. He would not say what markets had been utilized, nor whether, as speculation immediately had it, he had made direct purchases from the government of China, now anxious to replace its silver with gold.

The secretary's seeming unconcern was obvious from his manner. Once before when the price of silver was rising, the treasury was at some pains to shake out what some termed the speculative fringe. There was at least a hint today that the same motive might have been involved in the operations of recent days.

It was suggested, too, that when purchases are made in London, the brokers, by a process of elimination and deduction, determine with fair accuracy how much the treasury has been buying and thus seek to evaluate the intentions of the silver market's principal customer.

For the first time since the silver buying began, nearly two years ago, the treasury today compiled figures on its acquisitions. These showed a total of 761,744,000 ounces, bought at varying prices, supposedly ranging from 35 cents to 77.5 cents. The coinage value of silver is $1.29 cents an ounce.

Purchases in Two Years.

Since December 28, 1933, the treasury has been buying newly mined domestic silver at a price fixed by itself which has been advanced from an original quotation of 64 cents to the present 77.5. By this avenue, it acquired 56,943,000 ounces.

The silver purchase act of June, 1934, to which Morgenthau referred, directed the treasury to purchase silver until the value of its holdings reaches one-third of the value of the treasury's gold holdings, or the world price advances to $1.29 an ounce.

Under this authorization, the treasury bought 591,800,000 ounces of silver, but made little or no progress toward the 1-to-3 ratio because of the tremendous imports of gold during the last two years. A rough calculation today showed the ratio was about one to seven.

Under the purchase act, also, the treasury in August last year took title to all the silver privately held within the United States, with exemptions for industrial purposes, and compelled its delivery. By this method, it acquired 113,031 ounces.

London Silver Mart.

London brokers experienced much difficulty in setting a price on silver again today. After several hours' consultation the quotation was 26 7-8 pence (59.6 cents) or 5-8 penny lower than yesterday. The brokers expressed interest in Morgenthau's statement, but thought its results highly uncertain as to an indication of how much buying the treasury intends to do.

In New York, silver was quoted at 61 3-4 cents an ounce, one cent less than yesterday and two cents less than Tuesday.

In Montreal, where the decline had been more precipitate than in other centers, March future contracts were stronger, up nearly a cent to 51. May futures sagged about a half cent, however, to 49.5, while spot silver was firm, rising .03 cents to 53.3.

WORK TO BE SPEEDED ON SEWERS PROGRAM

as Atlanta's share of the cost of the most extensive sewer program ever initiated in Georgia.

Completion of the sanitary and storm water schedules calls for an outlay in excess of $8,000,000, according to ngineers' estimates.

In the interim, the Atlanta bond commission has been called into session for 10 o'clock this morning to approve bids for grading on three of the largest disposal plants, which will be constructed by contract through WPA.

Grading Bids Opened.

Bids on the grading jobs were opened yesterday and were tabulated during the afternoon.

The MacDougall Construction Company was the low bidder on the R. M. Clayton (Chattahoochee river) plant, the largest of the three. The firm bid $25,348. W. L. Florence was second lowest with a bid of $25,693.80.

W. L. Florence was low on the Utoy creek plant, his bid being $4,445 and MacDougall was second with $5,900.

A. P. Milam was low on the South river disposal plant at a bid of $8,990, while Florence was second lowest with $9,090.

There was some talk of a special meeting of city council for Saturday to approve the disposal unit grading bids, but such a move was regarded as unlikely since city council meets Monday.

Sewers' Weekly Pay Roll.

The sewer projects' weekly pay roll will total more than $50,000 when the program gets well under way, it was estimated yesterday. Federal and city officials announced "ready" to begin immediately and asserted they are ready to stay with the sewer work until it is completed.

Following is the schedule of requisitions for men, which Hansell will file today with Watkins' office:

Utoy creek line, 800; South river, 600; federal prison line on South river, 400; Sugar creek line, 400; Peachtree No. 2, extending from the Fulton-DeKalb county line to the Bobby Jones golf course, 1,000; Peachtree creek No. 3, extending from the Fulton-DeKalb county lines towards Druid Hills, 600; Beaver creek, 800. Total, 4,600.

The 800 men now employed on the skeleton organization working on the sewers are distributed between the South river, Peachtree No. 3 and Sugar creek projects.

YOKE OF BRITISH RULE IS CAST OFF BY EGYPT

pended December 1, 1934, and although Egypt was nominally an independent kingdom, it was under British domination. Because of this the students instigated frequent riots in the past few weeks. Egypt once was a British protectorate.

Sir Miles Lampson, British high commissioner, a highly reliable source said, called upon Premier Tewfik Nessin Pasha last night and told him Britain had withdrawn its objection to bringing the constitution back to life.

Cabinet Remains.

The political situation had become so threatening that yesterday Premier Nessin had to resign with his cabinet today. Restoration of the constitution, however, prevented this necessity—for the time being at least.

Students yesterday had visited all prospective candidates for the new cabinet and told them reinstitution of the constitution was necessary, otherwise rioting would continue; and it did continue last night—crowds smashing 10 street cars and wrecking street lamps. They also tried to burn the main railway station.

One angle in the troubled situation was the Italo-Ethiopian war because of increased tension in the Mediterranean. Egypt, although not a member of the League of Nations, under British guidance is applying sanctions against Italy—with which the country has had close economic and blood ties for centuries.

There was a small disorder at Alexandria today when students stoned motorbuses and damaged lampposts. Police arrested several of them.

(In responsible London quarters the belief was expressed that King Faud's decision was inadvisable, but it was said Great Britain would not oppose the action.)

ATLANTA, GA., DEC. 13, 1935.

THE SCHOOL BOARD'S RECORD

The address delivered by President Ernest J. Brewer before the last meeting of the school board contains frank criticism of numerous unhealthy conditions existing in the administration of the affairs of Atlanta's school system, but it reveals that the present board has accomplished many constructive reforms.

President Brewer cites as chief among these reforms the more general co-operation between the board, the teachers, patrons and school employes; the readjustment of salaries which made it possible to give raises to approximately 1,000 of the employes receiving the lowest pay, and the standardization of the pay scale for non-instructional employes; improvements in the cafeteria system making it possible for students to buy better food at cheaper cost; and approval of the $1,000,000 bond issue to be used in making badly needed expansions and repairs on school buildings.

Each of these accomplishments, and especially the new spirit of co-operation between the board, the employes of the school system and its patrons, is a major step toward perfecting the service being rendered by the Atlanta public schools. That they have been effected is a tribute to the earnest and able manner in which the board has gone about its responsible duties.

On the other side of the picture, President Brewer severely criticizes the "general" practice of nepotism, to which he attributes "90 per cent of the dissension in the board." If such a condition exists, it should be eliminated promptly and thoroughly. There is no greater evil connected with government than the padding of pay rolls with relatives of officeholders, and its inevitable result is decrease in efficiency and increase in operating costs.

Discussing the business affairs of the system, President Brewer comments:

I am more convinced than ever, that under present conditions the business department of the schools should be divorced from the instructional department, and in making this recommendation it is no reflection upon our superintendent, but in my opinion would leave him free to devote his entire time to this particular duty, for which he is so well qualified, and the business manager would be free to give the board all facts regarding the financial operation of our school department.

Expressing strong support of the movement to consolidate the county and city school systems, President Brewer cites that the question of the elimination of unnecessary and duplicated government is paramount in the minds of the public, and urges that the board "recognize this fact with regard to the public school systems in the community, and together with the capable and intelligent personnel of this system blaze the way as leaders in thought and progress."

Unquestionably the consolidation of the two systems would tend to increase efficiency and reduce expenses. There is no sound reason why the city and county schools should be in separate systems, requiring a large amount of unnecessary duplication both in personnel and effort.

The address of President Brewer to the board is an innovation, such messages, succinctly outlining the accomplishments of the year and pointing to the reforms still to be effected, not having been delivered by any of his predecessors. It is a step for which he should be warmly commended, since only beneficial results can come from acquainting the taxpayers with the exact administrative condition of the schools.

While there is much still to be done to bring the Atlanta system to the efficient and economical plane on which it should be operated, the report of President Brewer reveals that few boards in the past have more efficiently discharged their duties.

PENNINO OPTIMISTIC

In the opinion of Jose Pennino, outstanding Cuban business leader who is well known in Atlanta due to his frequent visits to the city for more than a decade, there is little likelihood of violence in the island republic following the resignation of President Mendieta.

This well-informed Cuban points out in an interview in The Constitution that the change is in no way revolutionary, emphasizing this statement with the comment that "Mendieta is Mendieta, not Machado; he has brought prosperity to the country and, with the aid of his close ally, Colonel Fulgencio Batista, has given the people a peace and happiness which they all appreciate."

The resignation of Mendieta is termed an "unselfish and generous gesture," and Senor Pennino predicts that either of the two candidates who will oppose each other in the January elections—General Menocal and General Gomez—"will make a wise, honest president and will carry on the progress which President Mendieta has started."

The people of no section of the United States are closer, both in business and social relations, to those of Cuba than are the citizens of Georgia, and there will be universal gratification in the statement that the resignation of President Mendieta carries no threat of the development of political conditions that would endanger the progress made under his able and patriotic leadership.

TO AID TENANT FARMERS

As a part of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration work, Rexford G. Tugwell, chief of the Resettlement Administration, announces an attack on the south's tenant farmer problem, involving the removal of 1,000 tenants onto small farms of their own, as an experiment in developing a farm-ownership program that will eventually put the better class of tenants on a better plane for carrying on the industry of farming.

The plan calls for the administration to buy land and resell it to the tenants under a long-term agreement, probably less than 40 years. Farms sold to tenants would remain under supervision of extension service and resettlement officials during the period of the loans, and administrative help would be given to assist tenants to gain a self-supporting basis.

North and South Carolina and Georgia are among the states mentioned as being on the list where the experiment would be started in time to have tenants on farms to plant next spring's crops. They will be chosen by local extension workers and local rehabilitation committees in order that the selections may be farmers of the type who will not only appreciate the opportunity to secure a farm of their own on easy terms, but who can be expected to succeed under extension service advice.

The movement is soundly constructive and should be expanded as rapidly as possible. The Bankhead-Jones plan, proposed during the last session of congress, would set up a $50,000,000 fund for long-term loans to finance farm purchases by tenants, and while it carried some objectionable features, these could be changed, making it a measure of vast benefit to the tenants who are ambitious to acquire homes of their own and make a success of farming.

With the all-cotton plan rapidly becoming obsolete, diversification increasing and the live-at-home program becoming a part of farm activities, the farm owner now has a real opportunity to prosper and eventually become independent. Of course there always will be tenants and croppers who are irresponsible and shift from place to place with the seasons, but with the government for the first time in history coming to the aid of the ambitious, the ranks of the tenants can be greatly reduced and the new home owners become of real worth to the sections in which they live and carry on farming activities.

Side-Events.

KOBBO—At last somebody has remembered me in my isolation. The last airplane brought me a package of books from a German friend. In a pure burst of gratitude I intoned the German anthem, "Deutschland Ueber Alles," and would have followed with the Horst Wessel hymn had I known the tune. You will probably say that I could have sung that song to the tune of "Yes, Sir, She's Ma Babee!" That's true, but I don't know the words of the Horst Wessel hymn either, except that first line about "Die Reihen fest geschlossen," and that word "geschlossen" might bring back the asthma of which I have been suffering lately.

And what was the first book I opened from that Santa Claus package? It was a firmly bound copy of Dr. Rosenberg's "Myth of the XXth Century." Boy, what a delight! That's the great attack against Christianity, the church, and Judaism. In the name of science and sober impartiality, at that. I reveled in it. I forgot all about my quinine dose and about the rain and my boy Boul-Boul's sores and my donkey's cough. Wonderful book! Wonderfully stupid, I mean. That man Rosenberg has analyzed the Old Testament, for instance. He has understood less of it than a six-year-old school-child. He takes legends for historic chronicles and mythological figures such as Jacob and Abraham for historical figures. He has never heard, he a doctor philosophiae in Germany, has never heard about three or four traditions in the Bible, which have become almost inextricably interwoven. And that parades as a scientist. No, the nazis are easily satisfied. I roared with laughter. The hills of primitive Ethiopia rocked with my joy.

Baltic Mr. Rosenberg is telling us that all the early Germans, the Nordics, you know, were paragons of virtue and zeal. And on the other side the Jewish patriarchs dishonest, adulterers, quarrelsome people. That the Old Testament stories are written with an intensity of life, with a clear, psychological perception and with devastating truthfulness, escaped the Baltic "scholar" entirely. I suppose the ancient Hebrews should have written about their ancestors and great figures with the same saccharine sweetness as Dr. Rosenberg writes of the early Teutonic tribes, whom he tries to portray as slightly damaged saints, trapped into mumbling the Lord's Prayer by non-existent Jesuit missionaries.

Another Book.

There was another fine book in the package. It was a composition of Ilya Ehrenbourg on the "Life of Lasik Roitschwantz." Very amusing and instructive. Then one about "The Church and the Social Revolution," by a number of Anglican scholars. Certainly worth reading and especially by our dominees, who are still wandering in the woods in so far as the social question is concerned. I will not quote from the book. Quotations from the Regius professor of divinity at Oxford and other savants from Cambridge might land me in jail, or give the would-be censors, who lurk in every corner in our glorious land of freedom, the three-days' shiver.

Never mind, the spirit bloweth where it listeth, aye and sometimes that blow becomes a storm. And a storm is what we need. A good shaking to wake us out of that agreeable torpor of self-satisfaction and pompous inanity. Sometimes it seems to me that we live in a time of universal civic cowardice. Any fellow with a big voice and a hobnailed heel needs to start shouting and dancing and yelling and clenching his fists to left and right and we are ready to proclaim him a genius and bow down in the dust before him. What we need is a little independence of thought, a little tonic to revive our critical faculties, a little lifting of the eyes to new horizons. We have a President who does these things. Why not follow Roosevelt's example?

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

PRESSURE WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—An ex-minister called on the head of a ladies' welfare organization of a Presbyterian church in a large Pennsylvania city a few days back. He announced he had been sent by the Townsend people to address that organization. The lady in charge informed him her organization would not receive Townsend speakers.

After all she had done to build up a happy morale within her flock, she would not permit him to start them off chasing $200-a-month rainbows, she said.

The good ex-minister insisted. He pointed out his cause "is the greatest humanitarian movement since Lincoln's proclamation." He said life was short and the lady would have a good deal to answer for if she denied this boon to her people. The lady nevertheless decided to run that chance. Her church later sanctioned her gamble.

FERVOR This sub-surface incident is known to have been duplicated daily, with opposite results, in most of the large and small church communities throughout the country. It is the latest unobserved trend of Townsend organization tactics. Also is explains why politico-statesmen hereabouts have become increasingly apprehensive about it within the past few weeks.

The Townsend appeal is clearly catching on more and more with the good quiet people whose hearts are larger than their opportunities for economic study.

Their meetings are not nationally observed. People identified with them seldom have national reputations which attract national dramatic interest. The class involved is not basically that which formed the bulk of the Long share-the-wealth idea, the Utopian, Epic or Coughlin movements, but rather the kind of welfare-minded persons who put over prohibition.

They have built up something approximating a non-sectarian national religious zeal. The timid politicians are scared stiff. Sincere statesmen also seem to be doubtful about how to face a growing onrush of such a noble but impractical purpose.

FIGURES The basis for the zeal appears to be plausible but careless Townsend arithmetic. A printed circular of Townsend Club No. 1, Peoria, Ill., is the same as used nationally.

Upon figures cited there, the Peoria club claims to represent one out of every three citizens of the city. Claimed membership is above 40,000. The 1930 census showed Peoria's population to be 105,000. It has increased considerably since.

The circular tells the people of Peoria that Dr. Townsend wants $200 a month for each of 8,000,000 persons over 60. The cost, it says, will be $1,600,000,000 a month. This is to be raised by a sales tax of 1 2-3 per cent on $1,300,000,000,000, which is specified as the "sales turnover of 1929." The tax is computed at $20,000,000,000 a year, the pension need at $19,200,000,000.

Thus, Dr. Townsend is able to show a paper excess of $800,000,000 above his needs.

AGED Official 1930 Census Bureau figures show 10,385,000 persons, then over 60 years of age, instead of 8,000,000. The number has grown since, probably to 11,000,000. The census also showed that 4,156,000 of those over 60 were then gainfully employed. They were supporting themselves. This number has probably decreased. How many were being cared for by sons and daughters, or, like J. D. Rockefeller Sr., living from their own income, the figures do not show.

A liberal assumption would be that there are no more than 2,000,000 in theoretical need of public assistance and none not now receiving it.

TAXES That is only the initial error of Dr. Townsend's charitable purpose. His "total sales" figure is not a sales figure at all. It is based on the bank turnover in 1929, estimated by the Federal Reserve Board at $1,000,000,000,000 for 268 cities. Dr. Townsend has added 10 per cent for other cities, 10 per cent for cash, and apparently another billion for good luck. That is how he gets his $1,300,000,000,000, which really should be nearer $1,200,000,000,000.

His figures, therefore, are not based on a sales tax proposition. If they were, he would not be within reach of the astronomical revenue he is talking about raising. His tax is a transactions tax, meaning it is a pyramided tax.

For instance, a flat sales tax on automobiles would be a realtively minor thing, collected only once on the sale of the car. But a transactions tax would lay possibly as many as six or eight consecutive taxes of 2 per cent each on some materials going into the car. This would lift the price of automobiles far more than the glibly stated 2 per cent figure indicates.

The iron for your car's steel body is mined, say, by one firm. It is transferred to another for manufacture into pig iron, then to a billeter, then to a sheeter, then to a body maker, then to an auto manufacturer, then to a dealer, then to the public. Each one of these transactions would be nicked by Dr. Townsend for 2 per cent to get his money.

So also with cotton, which involves transactions to the dealer, middleman, textile manufacturer, and others before it becomes the upholstery in your car.

EFFECTS It is easy to suspect from this that the first economic effect of Dr. Townsend's plan would be to drive most of the middlemen of all businesses out into the cold. Practical businessmen would immediately begin to cut down on transactions in order to avoid taxes, and Dr. Townsend would have to look elsewhere to make up this deficit in anticipated revenue.

Likewise it is reasonable to expect that the effect on all prices would be incalculably heavy, that the entire existing business system would have to be upset and reorganized.

SILHOUETTES

BY RALPH T. JONES.

We'd wrapped all the presents and trimmed the Yule tree,
When I grinned at the wife and she smiled back at me,
So we tiptoed together, as quiet as could be,
To the bedroom where slept our juveniles three.

As we stood just outside the part open door
We were shocked to find out they were sleeping no more,
We heard ten-year-old Jane sagely say, "I implore
You, keep it a secret," to Mary, aged four.

Then Jimmy, aged eight, our thoughtful young son,
Said "of course we all know that Daddy's the one
Who acts as Old Santa—that's how it's done—
Don't tell him we know, it would spoil all his fun!"

A Naughty Book.

One of the most notorious books, of the class that can only be described as pornographic, is entitled "Memoirs of Fanny Hill." Please don't think that what is said here is intended as an advertisement for the naughty volume. It is told just because it is interesting. Not the story told in the book itself, but the story behind the book and its writing.

Entombed in Debtors' Prison.

"Memoirs of Fanny Hill" was written soon after the art of printing had been brought to England by William Caxton. Few printed books had been published at the time, when a London book publisher and dealer thought up the grand idea of securing some author to write a book exactly according to the publisher's ideas. His only purpose was a book that would sell. And the author must be one he could hire cheaply.

So the publisher visited the old Debtors' Prison and there found an unfortunate scribbler, hopelessly enmeshed in debt who, unless a miracle occurred, would never be free again. The publisher proposed to impersonate the miracle. He offered to pay the poor writer's debts and thus restore his liberty, provided the man would write the book just as the publisher desired.

The author agreed, wrote the book and was liberated. The book was "Memoirs of Fanny Hill."

Forgot
The Moral.

The book is the utterly frank life story of a professional lady of pleasure in the London of that day. She comes to London as a girl in her teens, seeking employment as a domestic, and is promptly tricked into what we would today call a house of ill-fame.

According to her story, however, she didn't lead an unhappy life at all and at the end she retires with a comfortable income to a pleasant little country estate, marries, and spends a happy old age, dying at last highly respected by all who knew her. In fact, the book points no moral lesson at all.

Parliament
Takes a Hand.

Success of the book was all the publisher had wished. In fact, it attracted so much comment the house of commons turned its official attention on the volume. And the worthy members of that august body were horrified—not at the excessive frankness of the writing, but at that utter lack of moralizing. They said as much, declaring the book would have performed a valuable service if the author had made his heroine die in poverty, sickness, loneliness and repentant sorrow for her evil life.

So parliament ordered all copies of the work seized and burned and they voted a life annuity to the author if he would agree never again to put pen to paper. He agreed and took the annuity.

All copies of the volume, except half a dozen or so that had crossed the channel into France, were duly burned by the public hangman.

Scene Shifts
To France.

Many years later, in the latter half of the nineteenth century, a Parisian publisher found one of those surviving copies of "Fanny Hill." He had it translated and published it in French. And the French government promptly outlawed it and, in turn, ordered all copies destroyed.

A few of the French edition, however, had gotten into England and the order of sanctuary was reversed. They survived. Most of the copies of "Fanny Hill" that are bootlegged in America and England today are retranslations into English from that French edition.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

With two complete drum and bugle corps, each numbering thirty men, and a splendid band composed of fifteen musicians, and with a hundred or more horns and whirligig noisemakers in the hands of the advertising men, it is a certainty that the opening of Atlanta's Great White Way, at 8 o'clock Thursday night will be an event long to be remembered.

And Fifty Years Ago.

The Atlanta Dramatic Association have arranged to produce "The Social Glass" at Marietta on the 17th. The popularity of this play and the sensation it produced in Atlanta is guarantee enough that it will receive a full house in Marietta.

FAIR ENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Innocent Inanities. ROME.—It would clarify the situation for the Americans who have been giving occasional thought to a war in Europe if they would first realize that all ideals which Woodrow Wilson expounded are innocent foolishness in the present case and only tend to obscure realities.

Nations take what they can get and hold what they can defend, and they send delegations to the Palace of Peace in Geneva not to prevent wars but to make trades, generally by means of bribery.

The Illinois state legislature in the rottenest hour of its smelly history is a sewing circle by comparison with the statesmen of the League of Nations gathered at Geneva to uphold the covenant. They include all kinds, from the low-grade hoodlum politician representing a strong-arm government which rules by the firing squad and every invention of persecution to the high-minded, fine-mannered Englishman whose job is to manipulate the League for protection of the lands which England took in years gone by in precisely the same way that Italy is now attempting to take Ethiopia.

Romantic Moments. Italians have their romantic moments when they speak of the 600,000 Italian men and boys who died for Belgium's sake, knowing damn well that wasn't what they died for at all, or weeping over the plight of the lepers and slaves of Ethiopia whose condition is a matter of complete indifference to them. But basically Italians have been the realists in this row.

They went into the war to end war for a price. At first they were pledged to the central powers, but the allies topped Germany's bid, and as soon as the Italian government could turn public sentiment around and steer it the other way Italy hopped on Austria. It was a business war, and Italy's price for her 600,000 dead patriots was a share of German colonies.

Then France and England gypped her. Since then, under Mussolini, Italians have been building planes and submarines, breeding rapidly and whipping themselves into a lather of patriotism.

Even little boys wear uniforms and march with junior size muskets and sometimes fire real machine guns in patriotic demonstrations to acquire the feel of weapons. But as they multiplied and learned discipline, patriotism and hatred and build up the physical properties of their country, the Italians lost ground economically.

They have a pretty country and a well-known background, but they couldn't eat the scenery or cut the background into overcoats. So Mussolini decided to go into Ethiopia, which is a terrible country inhabited by terrible people and has no government, and develop a branch store, so to speak.

Only Thing Left To Grab. It's reasonable to ask why Mussolini wanted Ethiopia if it's such a Godforsaken land, and the answer is that it was all there was left to grab. The British had looked it over a long time ago with the idea of doing exactly as the Italians are doing today, but they decided the task wouldn't show profits. But the Italians were up against it, and, anyway, they can raise more than the British and get along on less, thanks to long experience with poverty, so they took the chance.

Now, this was a violation of Italy's written contract with the League. The contract had been arranged with marvelous foresight, by Englishmen to keep Italy out of Africa. Although Ethiopia has no real government, the country was put into the League as a member in good standing, so that her sovereignty would be recognized. Then, if Italy should move in, the League as a whole, not England alone, would have the job of keeping Italy out of Africa. While Italians were training themselves up to this fight, however, the Japanese were good enough to violate every treaty they had ever signed, tell the League of Nations, England and the United States to go to hell and take whatever they wanted. This gave Italy an embarrassing talking point, and nobody has ever given a satisfactory answer to the Italian suggestion that the League of Nations ought to deal with violations of law in the order in which they occur.

Violation Just Revision. Moreover, before they set the League of Nations to the sacred task of protecting Ethiopia, the British talked to Mussolini and made him a proposition which in itself was a violation of the beautiful pledge. They were willing to let him take over some of Ethiopia, but not as much as he wanted, and subject it to their police work on the theory that a pledge violated under British supervision is not broken but revised, not damaged but improved.

The time has now come when the Italian people think they can blockade and destroy the British fleet off the toe of the boot in the Mediterranean. They speak of Sicily and Sardinia as their unsinkable dreadnoughts, and they know their submarines and planes outnumber England's, in addition to which England must fight on Italy's home grounds.

They take no orders from England now, and there is no doubt that the upper classes and politicians are ready to fight, although a foreigner has no way of knowing how the farmers and laborers would respond or how long they would retain their war fervor if the English, after their fashion, should shake the blood out of their eyes, get up off the floor and maul them around the ring in a three or four-year war.

With their lack of money and everything else that war requires, except hysterical rage and reckless courage, Italians might lack the stamina to give or take it after a couple of fast, furious rounds.

Talmudic Tales

BY DAVID MORANTZ.

Number 202.

(Based upon the legends and philosophy found in the Talmud, which work contains the civil and canonical laws and traditions of the Jewish people, dating back as far as 3,000 years.)

TRUTH.

"Truth," says the Talmud, "has always a fast bottom."

"Utter not as true that which you cannot as truth vouch for."

"Truth is heavy, therefore few care to carry it."

"The liar is not believed even when he tells the truth; this is his worst punishment."

"Truth is its own witness."

"Learn from every man and accept the truth from all who speak it."

Due to the extensive interest in Talmudic Tales, 128 of the legends and over 500 pearls of wisdom have been collected in an attractive book of 195 pages, handsomely bound in grained blue vellum cloth, with gold stamped title. The Boys Who Borrow Till Pay Day Always Hate the Office Tight-Wad

BY ROBERT QUILLEN.

You read in your newspaper that so-called radicals in Brazil are trying to overthrow the government, with the hope and intention of "socializing" the banks and seizing all alien property.

They call themselves patriots, but their motive is not patriotism.

It is the motive that causes all hatred of foreigners.

It is the motive that has caused the age-long persecution of the Jews.

It is the motive that prompted the second man on earth to kill his brother.

It is envy.

The natives of an undeveloped land, indolent, ignorant, content with little, live in the midst of golden opportunities and have neither the wit nor the ambition to develop their natural resources.

Then foreigners appear—keen, intelligent, trained men with ample capital, and these build railroads and bridges, open mines, drill oil wells and establish industries. Because they have no competition and because they perform super-human labors, they make great profits and get their just reward.

Then the sight of their prosperity enrages the native and fills his soul with envy.

He doesn't consider the fact that he would not and could not do what the foreigners have done. He sees nothing but his own poverty and the foreigner's wealth, and he resolves to take what he could not earn.

You need not go abroad to see such a drama. We have its mate here at home. You can find it everywhere on earth.

Some of us wish to loaf while others work. We spend our wages having a good time while others deny themselves pleasures and luxuries and save every nickel they can. We spend our nights making merry while others study. We "get something out of life" while they grub and pinch pennies.

And then, when the seed we have sown bears its harvest and we are out-at-elbow while they ride in limousines, the same old envy embitters our souls, and we cry: "What right have they to have so much while we have so little? Make them share it."

It is a natural feeling, as old as the human race, but let us not kid ourselves. Let us call it by the right name.

HEALTH TALKS

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

Only four out of 136 overweight adults whose hearts Drs. Harry L. Smith and Frederick A. Williams studied and weighed when the fat folk were through with them had attained the age of 70 years. The average length of life of these 136 overweight adults was 52.1 years, and the oldest one of them was only 75.

So cut your cake accordingly, my hearties.

The 136 fattish ones who didn't live long were on the average 45 per cent overweight. Some of them were only 13 to 18 per cent too heavy, one of them was 170 per cent too heavy.

Their hearts were all more or less fat smothered. That is, excessive deposits of fat under the smooth covering membrane of the heart and smaller masses of fat between the muscle bundles and between the muscle fibres of the heart wall. That, of course, handicaps the heart of the overweight individual; explains the breathlessness on slight exertion. In part explains the tendency to shorten life.

Once in a great while we hear of some one who has lived to be 75 or 80 years old in spite of overweight. But these exceptional cases do not seem to impress the hardheaded insurance people. They still frown on even moderate overweight in an adult over 30 years of age. They know the moderately stout adult of mature age is not so good a life risk as the adult of normal weight.

Women are rather too conscious of overweight, meaning moderate accumulation of flesh above the standard for age and height. But they are concerned mainly with figure and fashion, and little or not at all with health.

Men are not sufficiently conscious of overweight. They try to conceal from the world and from themselves the insidious accumulation of slacker flesh after 30, by the cut of their clothes. Not until the condition defies disguise in that way does the average mature adult male become conscious of his sorry state.

This is another argument in favor of nudism.

For health, comfort, efficiency and longevity, every man should watch his weight after 30 and if he finds a gradual increase creeping upon him after this age he should institute whatever change of his living regimen or habits may be necessary to correct the trouble. Now is the time to prevent arteriosclerosis, cardiovascular degeneration, premature senility. But aside from these more remote considerations, the man ought to try to keep fit to fight or run away as long as he plays the game of living.

The insidious accumulation of slacker flesh is one sign you are slipping. Another sign is unaccustomed breathlessness on exertion. Neither sign is difficult to recognize if you are fair with yourself; either may be ignored for a few years if you choose to procrastinate. Clothes help to conceal the first sign; the automobile and other conveyances conspire to conceal the second. Besides an annual physical examination, every one past thirty should try once a year to run a mile.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Pore to Pimple.

You say there are no pores in the skin, yet we are told that enlarged pores lead to pimples. (Miss H. C.)

Answer—Pores are openings or spaces through which something is absorbed. Nothing is ever absorbed through the skin. It is absurd to imagine the direction of flow through the sebaceous and sweat glands and their ducts or outlets can be reversed, as certain subsidized medical writers and many nostrum makers would have you believe. Send a three-cent-stamped envelope bearing your address, for monograph on Blackheads and Pimples (Acne), which tells you how to correct what you call "enlarged pores," blackheads or whiteheads.

Vitamin B.

Please give list of foods containing vitamin B. I have diabetes and have to take insulin. . . . (Mrs. J. S.)

Answer—Eggs, cabbage, lettuce, spinach, bran, wheat germ, brewer's yeast, are good sources for one with diabetes.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

(Mollie Merrick presents W. C. Fields, your favorite comedian, as guest columnist today. After an absence of nearly a year from the screen, Mr. Fields' fans will be happy to know he'll make a new picture early next spring).

By W. C. FIELDS.

(Copyright, 1935, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12.—Being pretty well recovered from my late lamented illness (at least it seems to be losing its hold on me), I have had a bit of time now to reflect upon one thing and another without arriving at any very definite conclusions.

For six months I have been forced, by my physician, to do nothing but reflect. I couldn't walk. I couldn't sleep, I couldn't do anything. I did manage to get a little exercise, however.

I've learned to shoot buckshot through my teeth with typical Fields accuracy and aplomb, and I can now puncture a playing card at 10 paces. That was my exercise, and I must say that such a procedure is soothing to the nerves and mind.

When you've got nothing to do but just lie down, or sit, for hours on end, you start thinking. I thought about my past, my present and my future, and the whole thing looked pretty dismal, let me tell you.

But the thing that bothered me more than anything else was the inactivity. I've been pretty busy all my life, minding my own business or somebody else's, and I got pretty tired of just doing nothing.

I did catch up on a lot of reading. I like to read. I read the dictionary, and even my thesaurus. I buy new ones every year, and I get to know a lot of words that might otherwise have escaped these old eagle eyes.

For instance, I'll bet you didn't know that the Romans had penthouses. 'Sfact. They called them "pleteus." I really don't know what difference it makes, but nevertheless, there it is in my dictionary, and I can prove it.

Eddie Cantor was out to see me one day, and we both felt pretty sad. You see, Eddie, Will Rogers, Sam Hardy and I were all in the "Follies" together at one time. And now Will and Sam are gone.

I thought for a while the old Grim Reaper was going to cut me down, but I outfoxed him. There's life in the old boy yet—and plenty of it.

Lately I've been getting ready to go back to work. I'm going to make a picture called "Poppy," some time after the first of the year. I did it on the stage in New York some years ago, and I'm convinced it will make a great picture. Having this to think about has helped me more than anything else.

One thing about being sick is revealing. A man really finds out just how many friends he has. I got letters from all over the world during my illness, from people wishing me a speedy recovery. Some were friends, some were people I had worked with, but most of them were just people who had liked me on the screen. It was mighty soul-satisfying to get so many nice letters, and so unexpectedly, too, I only wish I could have answered each one of them personally.

But there really are a number of compensations to being ill. My doctors wouldn't permit me to have visitors, for one thing. That kept all the insurance and bond salesmen away.

I was on a diet, so I couldn't go to any insufferable banquets, or dinner parties.

I couldn't exercise, so I didn't have to play golf or tennis with a lot of people I don't care about.

I couldn't work, so I didn't have to listen to any long-winded so-called writers butchering my ideas on how a comedy should be made.

I couldn't go for walks, so the customary troupe of dogs around my neighborhood wasn't nipping at my heels.

But will I be glad to get back to work? Oh, boy!

CHILD DIES, FATHER BOOKED FOR MURDER

JENKINS, Ky., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Thomas Mahan, nine-month-old baby whose father is charged with having burned and otherwise mistreated him, died in a hospital here today.

The tow-headed, blue-eyed boy was brought here Sunday by his mother. She said the father, Robert Mahan, 25, a coal mine loader, had held it to the fire to discipline it. The hospital physician said two teeth were missing from the child's lower jaw and there were evidences of burns. It had been expected to recover, but pneumonia developed.

Mahan, who denied the charges, was taken to jail in Whitesburg. Upon the baby's death today, Deputy Sheriff Arthur Dixon said the warrant charging cruel and inhuman treatment had been changed to one charging murder.

Mother of Gloria Vanderbilt Renounces Fortune of Daughter

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The New York Evening Journal said today in a copyrighted story that Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt "has renounced the Vanderbilt millions and no longer will accept one penny of the income from her daughter's fortune."

Mrs. Vanderbilt, the Journal said, called on Surrogate James A. Foley in his chambers late yesterday and informed him of her decision.

The move, the Journal says, is Mrs. Vanderbilt's latest in her fight to wrest custody of her daughter, Gloria, from the child's aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, who is the child's personal guardian under a ruling of Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, the Journal said, in giving up the family fortune made clear that she is not relinquishing her right to have her daughter with her over week-ends and for the month of July under the court ruling.

Curse of Money.

She also declared, the Journal said, that she will continue her fight for complete custody of the child "as long as there is a breath of life in her body."

Mrs. Vanderbilt's move, the Journal interprets as an effort to free herself of Mrs. Whitney's charge that she was more interested in the money that goes with little Gloria's custody than in the child herself.

"I will no longer live under the curse of the Vanderbilt money," she was quoted by the Journal as having told friends.

"For there is a curse on it. No Vanderbilt has ever had anything but unhappiness."

Mrs. Vanderbilt, who is preparing an appeal to the United States supreme court following refusal by New York state's highest courts to review the case, has recently established a dress shop in an effort to support herself.

Only $9,000 for Self.

Before the end of this week, the Journal said, she plans to move out of her town house, selling its contents at auction, and move to a small apartment near her shop.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was made an allowance of $48,000 a year from her daughter's estate for the support and maintenance of the young heiress.

Of this amount, the Journal quotes Mrs. Vanderbilt as saying, she was allowed only $9,000 for herself and that only after repeated arguments and protests from Thomas B. Gilchrist, guardian of the estate.

M'CORMICK FIGHTS RFC BANK LOAN SUIT

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Charging $50,000,000 of an $80,000,000 RFC loan to the Central Republic Bank & Trust Company was advanced illegally, Col. R. R. McCormick today filed answer in federal court to the RFC's suit to collect $14,500,000 from stockholders.

Col. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, owned 55 shares of the bank's stock, carrying liability of $5,500 under the law making stockholders liable to creditors for the par value.

The bank, of which Gen. Charles G. Dawes was chairman, obtained the RFC loans paid depositors and closed in 1932. Gen. Dawes became chairman of a new bank, the City National Bank & Trust Company.

The publisher's answer said the RFC money loaned to the Central Republic actually went to the City National, and asked the RFC account for collateral relinquished by the bank. The answer valued the collateral for the loan at $125,000,000.

COMMISSION APPROVES LEE HENDRIX PAROLE

The Georgia Prison Commission yesterday recommended parole of Lee Hendrix, former special officer of the Atlanta sanitary department, serving an 18-to-20-year term for manslaughter. On a previous hearing in 1934 the commission declined to recommend clemency.

Hendrix was convicted of slaying Howard Ellis in an attempt to arrest him. He claimed self-defense. The trial was held in Fulton superior court in 1932.

Clemency was recommended by the trial judge, prison camp wardens, and Public Service Commissioner Ben T. Huiet. Solicitor-General John A. Boykin opposed the petition.

TELEVISION SEEN AS SOUNDPROOFING

Similar Waves in Inverses Intensity to Muffle Noise of City.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 12. (AP)—Television may bring with it "sound-conditioning" apparatus capable of throwing a shroud of silence about homes, factories and other buildings, a Department of Commerce executive said at a meeting of engineers here tonight.

Andrew W. Cruse, chief of the electrical division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, described other developments that may follow in the wake of television. He said, however, that the plans are far from the practical stage.

Besides "sound-conditioned" buildings, he foresaw the perfection of various kinds of apparatus for revealing an enemy's war maneuvers, for vastly speeding up commercial transmission of messages and for aiding science.

He described the "sound condition" phase as a system of "picturing" the sound waves on the screen of a television pickup "iconoscope" and developing opposite sound waves to absorb the original forces.

"This would involve the design of equipment that would attack the sound at the point or along the line of its origin or entrance by the muffling waves so that their spread would exactly accompany the original sound waves as long as they persisted," he said. "It would be necessary that the muffling waves be identical with the original sound waves in every respect, but with reversed maximum and minimum points and, in the absence of the original sound, would constitute an exactly similar sound."

"The fitting together of these sound sequences would result in absolute neutralization with consequent utter silence," Cruse continued.

"This development could be extended to the silencing of machinery without sacrifice of mechanical efficiency; to hospital rooms with windows raised or closed; to conference rooms and lecture halls."

CUTCLIFFE CLEMENCY HEARING POSTPONED

A hearing on the clemency petition of Walter Cutcliffe, serving 12 months for operation of a lottery in Atlanta, was postponed yesterday at the request of defense counsel.

Cutcliffe's application was declined by the prison commission some time ago, but was to have been heard by Governor Talmadge yesterday.

Clerks in the state executive department said a letter had been received from Swift Tyler, Cutcliffe's attorney, saying he was in court and requesting postponement until a later date to be fixed shortly.

20 ARRESTS PROMISED IN FLOGGING MURDER

Green's Threat Spurs Tampa Labor in Move for Probe of Case.

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Arrest of "15 or 20 persons" for the flogging torture death of Joseph Shoemaker was promised today by State Attorney J. Rex Farior but the time of the arrests was left indefinite.

Farrior said the suspects would not be picked up one at a time, but would be taken into custody when information against them is complete, probably next week. He said he was convinced 15 or 20 persons were involved in the crime.

Meanwhile, various investigations by city and county officers of the mistreatment of Shoemaker, E. F. Poulnot and S. D. Rigers, moved toward a special grand jury session starting Monday. The men were unemployed workers' organizers.

There has been no announcement of identity of witnesses to be called before the grand jury, to which State Attorney Farrior is legal adviser. The session probably will require several days.

In advance of the grand jury, organized labor took up the investigating cudgel following a threat from President William Green that the American Federation of Labor will withdraw its 1936 convention from Tampa unless the criminals are brought to justice.

Wendell C. Heaton, president of the State Labor Federation, requested the Central Trades and Labor Assembly of Tampa to look into the flogging. The trend of this inquiry was indefinite, however, as the assembly has no authority to summon witnesses or require testimony under oath.

As Shoemaker was buried today, an inspection showed his personal effects contained a letter from President Roosevelt when the latter was governor of New York state. It was written April 28, 1932, and contained an expresison of thanks for material which Shoemaker had submitted on his political views.

Governor Roosevelt said he was "in fundamental accord" with a plan Shoemaker advanced on "production for use instead of profit." At the time, Shoemaker was a state committeeman of the socialist party in Vermont.

IRISH FREE STATE ABOLISHES SENATE

DUBLIN, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Abolition of the Irish Free State senate, requested by President Eamon De Valera, was voted tonight by the dail eireann.

De Valera's motion, after a long campaign, was carried by a vote of 76 to 57. He proposes to replace the present parliamentary system with a one-chamber one.

As matters now stand, the measure, when signed by De Valera, becomes law within 60 days, regardless of what action the senate may take.

The dail eireann, equivalent to a chamber of deputies, passed a similar bill last year abolishing the senate, but the measure was thrown out by the senate.

Under the constitution, however, the senate cannot delay action on measures for more than 18 months, a period which expired in November.

Millions of Seedlings Planted in Woodlands

Georgia woodlands have been restocked with 3,500,000 seedling pines, black walnuts and black locusts during the past year.

B. M. Lufburrow, state forester, said this distribution is more than double that of last year and that another increase is expected next year.

He said the forestry department's stock of slash pine, walnut and locust stock is exhausted and that the only seedlings remaining for distribution are 463,000 long-leaf and 850,000 loblolly pines. These were grown at the Albany nursery.

Lufburrow said a record of 82 per cent survival was established in seedling plantings last year. The stock is distributed at approximate cost to landowners—long-leaf pine, for example, at $2.50 per 1,000 f.o.b., including planting supervision by a district forester.

N.CAROLINA TO TEST AUTO SAFETY GLASS

Rigid Enforcement to Insure Car Drivers Ample Protection if Need Arises.

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 12.—North Carolina, which has decreed that all new automobiles sold within the state after January 1 must be equipped with safety glass, has devised a test to assure that the glass will really live up to its name.

Manufacturers doing business in the state must equip their machines with glass which, after being subjected to ultra violet rays for 100 hours, soaked in sodium nitrate for two weeks and then boiled for two hours, will:

When placed over a frame, withstand the dropping of a half-pound iron ball.

Stop, without damage to the glass, an 11-pound bag of shot dropped from eight feet.

When finally broken by severer tests, not produce pieces weighing more than 15 one-hundredths of an ounce.

When pierced by a seven-ounce metal dart, not splatter glass at all.

Glass which passes these tests, along with a few others, all of which are to be made by the United States Bureau of Standards at Washington, will be certfied as meeting the requirements of the new law.

Why not get your 1936 Ford V-8 in time for Christmas?

THE Ford V-8 for 1936 is the finest Ford car ever built. It is a car that goes farther than ever beyond the accepted standards of its price class. In engine performance, riding comfort, roominess—feature after feature—it may be compared with cars costing many hundreds of dollars more. Today's Ford V-8 is backed by more than two million Ford V-8's now on the road in America alone. Here are its most outstanding values—many of them brand new this year.

V-8 ENGINE PERFORMANCE—smoothness, pick-up, power, proved V-8 economy.

25% EASIER STEERING—the result of two new roller-type bearings, a longer steering knuckle arm and an increased steering ratio.

SUPER-SAFETY BRAKES—with exceptionally large braking surface (186 square inches).

EASIER, SYNCHRONIZED SHIFTING—QUIETER GEARS—silent, helical gears for all speeds.

NEW FREEDOM FROM NOISE—specially insulated, welded-steel body, steel reinforced.

NEW DRAWN-STEEL WHEELS—add comfort to riding—are easier on tires.

SAXON HITS TALMADGE ON SCHOOL FUND PLAN

Scaling of Appropriation To Be Discussed at Camilla Monday.

QUITMAN, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—A controversy within the ranks of Georgia educational leaders over handling of school funds by Governor Talmadge flared into the open today.

J. Harold Saxon, Quitman school superintendent, announced a meeting would be held in Camilla Monday of second district school leaders to discuss what Saxon described as unjust handling of school appropriations by Talmadge.

The dispute is over whether schools will get 80 per cent of their appropriations, or get them in full.

In Atlanta, Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the University System of Georgia, and president of the Georgia Education Association, said he had been asked to call a series of "protest" meetings, but had discouraged the proposal because:

"I have no criticism to make of the way the Governor has paid money to schools, both the public schools and the university system. The money has been paid promptly, and faster than under any previous governor in my recollection."

He said also that he "thought it better to wait and see if funds in the treasury would amount to 80 per cent, and to see if there was any occasion to exert pressure on the Governor."

Dr. Sanford said he had been advised by Kyle Alfriend, secretary of the association, that a "member of the association had asked him (Alfriend) to call the meetings to exert pressure on the Governor for payment of more than 80 per cent of appropriations to schools this year."

Under Georgia law, appropriations are pared to meet revenues. This year the payment has been fixed at 80 per cent by Talmadge.

Sanford said also he "thought any request for such meetings might properly come from the state superintendent of education since he would be in position to know a great deal about it, and since his department would be vitally affected, perhaps more vitally than anyone else."

He said also that no request had come for such a meeting from the State Association of School Superintendents.

Saxon, who frequently has assailed Governor Talmadge's handling of school funds, said a recent statement attributed to the state auditor indicated that "sufficient money will be collected by December 31 to pay all legislative appropriations in full for the current year 1935."

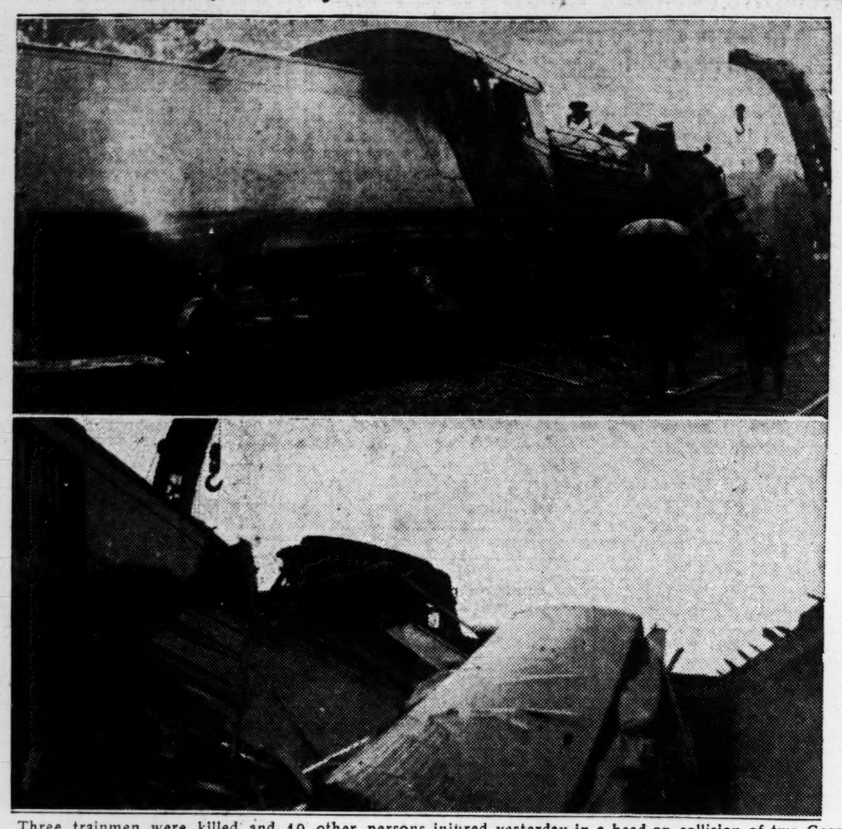

He said that "in case sufficient funds are available there is no legal basis for 'scaling down' common school funds for the current year 1935." His statement, addressed to a group of educators, urged them to "exert" their influence to get full payment.

"This is written in order that the smokescreen of national issues may not becloud school conditions in Georgia," Saxon said.

A meeting similar to the one reported for Camilla has been called for Moultrie Thursday, Saxon said he was told.

Saxon said that 1934 appropriations to schools were scaled down to a figure 11 per cent below actual revenues.

3 Are Killed, 10 Injured in Train Crash at Dearing

Three trainmen were killed and 10 other persons injured yesterday in a head-on collision of two Georgia railroad passenger trains at Dearing, near Augusta. The two engines, smashed together, are seen at the top, while a view of the wrecked cars is shown below. The train bound from Augusta to Atlanta overran a switch and plowed into the other en route from Atlanta to Augusta, which was standing at the station. Traffic was resumed within a few hours. Four-Trips-a-Week Airway Service Over Atlantic Envisaged for 1937

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Regular trans-Atlantic air service for 1937 with four round trips a week by giant passenger-mail planes was projected today as the "confident hope" of officials of four governments.

A formal statement issued at the close of a week of conferences between American, British, Irish and Canadian government representatives said "understandings" reached on a reciprocal basis had raised the "hope" for the 1937 objective.

"It is expected that experimental flights will be begun early in the summer of 1936," said R. Walton Moore, assistant secretary of state and chairman of the conference, "and it is hoped that scheduled services will begin by the summer of 1937.

"When the full regular service is inaugurated, it is provided that there will be four round trips per week."

Moore said the Department of Commerce has approved establishment of trans-Atlantic airways by way of Canada, Newfoundland and the Irish Free State to England—the northern route, and by way of Bermuda to England—the southern.

In addition, a route from Bermuda to Puerto Rico "to be extended by mutual consent" was sanctioned. Persons close to the conferees suggested this could be a "spur" line which would connect the regular trans-Atlantic route with the Pan-American airways line now in operation between the United States and South America. Puerto Rico is one of the stations on Pan-American route south of Miami.

The provision for extension of the "spur" was believed to have been intended to leave the way open for expansion of the trans-Atlantic service to the South American-African airway over which French seaplanes and German dirigibles now operate.

New York, Baltimore, Cape Charles or Norfolk, Va., and Charleston, S. C., were listed in the statement as possible American termini of the trans-Atlantic service, although it was said no final determination has been made.

"It is recognized that the northern route is much shorter than the southern route," Moore continued, "and therefore will have the advantage of more economical operation, but this fact does not preclude the possibility of considerable use being made of the southern route."

The statement made no mention of what companies will undertake the service, but it is known that preliminary plans have been made by Pan-American and the British Imperial Airways, Ltd.

STATE BRIEFS

Whelchel Speaks.

DAWSONVILLE, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Congressman B. Frank Whelchel, of the ninth Georgia district, addressed a public meeting of the Dawsonville Parent-Teacher Association today. An audience of 600 students and patrons heard his address. The school string band and girls' chorus presented a program.

The congressman was introduced by Mrs. B. H. Howard, P.-T. A. president.

Supervisor for WPA.

TENNILLE, Ga., Dec. 12.—Mrs. Polly Stephens, of Tennille, who was special investigator for FERA has been named supervisor of women's work in Washington county under the WPA. This includes sewing rooms, schools for illiterates and underprivileged children. There are 90 women on the work-relief rolls of the county and on the beautification project soon to start, 20 more will be employed, it is stated.

Secret Ballot Sought.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 12.—The use of the Australian ballot system and voting by wards in the city limits of Waycross will be asked as a recommendation by the Ware county grand jury, now in session, by a joint committee representing the Waycross Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs. The system is sought for all future elections and primaries.

3 KILLED AS TRAINS COLLIDE AT DEARING

death of the other two trainmen, he was badly crushed.

Both locomotives were derailed, but the remainder of the trains remained on the tracks. The steel coaches and cars were not buckled by the terrific impact. This caused injuries among the other 10 persons to be relatively slight. They were treated at the University hospital here. None of them was reported in serious condition.

Service Resumed.

Service was resumed over the line within a few hours after the accident. Except for the two trains involved, service was not interrupted. Passengers on the Augusta-bound train were taken on in buses sent out from Augusta, and those on the Atlanta-bound train were carried in on a train made up at Dearing. About 60 persons were on the two trains, said J. H. Chapman, chief dispatcher at Atlanta.

The injured were H. D. Ivey, baggagemaster of the Atlanta-Augusta train, slight hurts; Mrs. Edwin Rose, Chicago, chest injuries; Mrs. S. J. Spiney, Tabor City, N. C., head injuries; Davis Spiney, Tabor City, slight injuries; Mrs. Stanford Stith, Memphis, Tenn., shoulder injuries.

George Hanson, Decatur, face and head injuries; J. W. Brannen, Atlanta, face and head wounds; J. B. Waters, Stone Mountain, head injuries; E. E. Birdsong, baggagemaster of the Augusta-bound train, arm injuries; M. G. Sheftall, Augusta, fireman, bruises.

LIFE TERM GIVEN MRS. HARGREAVES

Woman Is Convicted at Waycross in Husband's Slaying.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Paul Hargreaves was convicted in the slaying of her husband tonight by a jury that recommended mercy and she was sentenced to life imprisonment.

In a previous trial, last week, a jury failed to agree and a mistrial was declared.

Wilson Spikes, jointly indicted with Mrs. Hargreaves for her husband's death, was convicted and sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Spikes was the state's chief witness in both trials for Mrs. Hargreaves.

The state charged that Hargreaves' death was a "love triangle" murder, contending that Mrs. Hargreaves led her husband to a secluded wooded spot where Spikes shot him to death.

Spikes had worked as a farm hand on the Hargreaves farm, in Ware county.

GEORGIA CANDIDATES FACE RUN-OFF RACES

Heavy Voting Is Feature of Elections Held Over State.

By the Associated Press.

Two more Georgia cities and three counties yesterday had elected officials, but it appeared run-offs would be necessary in two of the counties. Heavy votes were cast in all of the primaries.

Mayor D. C. Harris, of Vidalia, retained his office without opposition, while Vienna voters moved L. N. Mobley into the mayor's chair over the incumbent, J. D. Rinef.

O. L. Arnold and S. M. Thompson were elected Vienna councilmen without opposition.

In county elections:

Voting Wednesday forced three Emanuel incumbents into run-off primaries, one was defeated, four unopposed and two offices were not resought by their holders.

Sheriff P. L. Youmans led a field of five candidates with a margin of more than 2 to 1 over H. H. Gay, runner-up. But his total was not a majority and he will meet Gay December 18 to decide the post.

A. W. Lawson, incumbent tax collector, also headed a field of nine aspirants. He also was far from a majority and faces N. D. Moore in the run-off. Lawson's margin was about 160 votes.

School Head Defeated.

County School Superintendent R. E. Rountree lost to A. W. Blackman by a narrow margin in a heavy vote. R. H. Humphrey was named judge of the Emanuel city court, with G. L. Smith winning the solicitor's post. Each defeated a single rival.

Ordinary S. J. Flanders, Court Clerk J. L. Lewis, Surveyor E. Warren and Coroner C. A. Coleman were unopposed.

Official returns from Toombs county's primary voting showed Sheriff C. W. Culpepper defeated by R. E. Gray, Lyons police chief, by 1,640 to 781. T. B. McLeod, second man, polled 950.

T. P. Spell defeated J. M. Partin, school superintendent, 1,806 to 1,574, and C. P. McCorkle defeated D. P. Jackson, incumbent city court solicitor, 1,750 to 1,624.

County Commissioner E. F. Parker was re-elected over E. W. Clifton and J. Z. McKinley. Parker received 2,103 votes, Clifton 861 and McKinley 392.

The only woman candidate in the race, Mrs. Lurene Curtis, lost in the race for ordinary to P. S. Hagan, incumbent, 2,568 to 587.

Judge George Lankford was re-elected ot preside over city court defeating L. J. Cowart, 2,389 to 980.

R. Q. Wilkes, retiring tax receiver, was named clerk of superior court over W. H. Harrison, 2,446 to 928. Wilkes will suceed C. B. Newton in his office.

Joe Mann, tax collector, was re-elected over L. A. Thompson, 2,381 to 998. J. L. Thompson won the race for tax receiver. He got 1,908 votes to 974 for John Anderson and 480 for T. M. Odom.

Official consolidation in the Dodge county primary shows several run-offs will be necessary.

Sheriff G. C. Rogers, defeated by J. D. Lewis, may file a contest, which probably would be heard next week.

Present plans are to hold a run-over next Wednesday.

D. S. Stokes was high man for superior court clerk but must run over against E. S. Moon. Clerk R. C. Jones did not seek re-election.

Ordinary S. B. Bowen likewise was not a candidate for re-election, and the office went to J. W. Jones Sr., who defeated J. L. Cravey, 3,434 to 1,888. Road Commissioner W. D. McCranie defeated Lawton Parkerson, while School Superintedent M. W. Harrell must run over against W. L. Bowen, high man.

Smith Named Judge.

Judge O. J. Franklin, of Eastman city court, was defeated by D. D. Smith. Solicitor W. A. Wooten winning unopposed, as did Surveyor J. T. Harrell.

Coroner N. L. Joiner Sr. won over R. L. Revels. Offices of tax collector and receiver have been combined in Dodge county, effective next year, and both Collector I. N. Parkerson and Receiver J. E. Butler were candidates for the new post. But the high men who will enter the run-off are Fred Jones and A. C. Mizell.

Official vote in Merwiether county's election for commissioners of roads and revenues showed the five commissioners were re-elected. The sixth man in the race, Otis Humphries, received 440 vots. Chairman I. H. Davis, of Manchester, received 1,010 votes.

Other commissioners elected and their votes: A. J. Keith, of Gay, 978; D. O. Phillips, Greenville, 1,046; J. R. Powell, Woodbury, 976, and B. E. Wise, Lone Oak, 977.

HAHIRA, Ga., Dec. 12.—Mrs. Grover A. Lawson, 47, died at her home here Tuesday night following a brief illness. She was a member of a prominent Lowndes county family and was an active worker in the Baptist church.

Funeral and interment services were held yesterday, Rev. Charles Martin officiating.

She is survived by her husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. McDonald, of Hahira, and by the following brothers and sisters: Bob McDonald, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; Jim McDonald, of Valdosta; Frank McDonald and Brewer McDonald, of Hahira, and Mrs. J. H. O'Dell, of Russellville, Ky.; Mrs. Clayton Massey, Pompano, Fla.; Mrs. Walter Thomas, Plant City, Fla.; Mrs. J. B. Downing, Hahira, and Mrs. Ottis Webb, Hahira.

W. B. MATTHEWS.

CORDELE, Ga., Dec. 12.—W. B. Matthews, 78, retired farmer and cotton warehouseman, died at his home near here yesterday. He was a member of the Methodist church and a Mason.

Among survivors is a son, J. B. Matthews, chief of police at LaGrange.

2D CULTIST ON TRIAL IN POLYGAMY CHARGE

Defendant Declares He Will Rely on Protection of 'Holy Priesthood.'

KINGMAN, Ariz., Dec. 12.—(AP)—The trial of Price Johnson, polygamy cultist accused of taking a barefoot 15-year-old girl for his "plural wife," moved quickly today along the road that led to the conviction yesterday of I. C. Spencer.

Johnson, like Spencer, was charged with "open and notorious cohabitation," a legal weapon invoked by the state in its attempt to stamp out polygamous practices of the Sandhedrin cult in isolated Short Creek, Arizona, north of the Grand Canyon.

Howard Roarke, federal relief investigator, produced birth certificates and relief applications showing the 40-year-old Johnson and his young "plural wife," Helen Hull, were the parents of two children.

Roarke also testified Johnson still was legally married to Esther Johnson, who had borne him seven sons since their union in 1912.

The relief officer testified it was common knowledge that Johnson and the Hull girl had lived together in the socialistic colony of the Sandhedrin cult, whose members cling to the belief in plural wives despite the fact their forebears, the Mormons, dropped it.

Officers said the Hull girl disappeared while they were proceeding against other colonists last summer.

A veteran Indian trader, Buck Lowrey, identified Johnson as the leader of a polygamy cult at Lee's Ferry, Arizona, in 1927 and 1928.

The Hull girl, barefoot and poorly clothed, was living in the colony at the time, Lowrey testified, and soon became Johnson's plural wife.

Before his trial started Johnson said he would rely on the protection of his "holy priesthood."

"The Lord will defend us, not Iscariot," he added.

DR. LINWOOD TAFT DIES AT SAVANNAH

Rites Will Be Held Today for Director of Bicentennial Pageants.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Dr. Linwood Taft, 58, a leading advocate of putting history into pageant form, died in a hospital here today. Death followed a brief illness of influenza and pneumonia.

He also was a widely known educator, having been principal of Savannah High school, and recently, on the faculty of Drexel Institute of Arts and Sciences.

A winter home at Cedar Hammock had been under construction recently for Dr. Taft. He spent his summers in Vermont and also had resided in Pasadena, Cal.

He was a director of the American Pageant Association. Among pageants he authored or directed were bicentennials of Savannah and Augusta; sailing of the S. S. Savannah, first steamship to cross the Atlantic ocean; the Brocktown, Mass., pageant in 1921 and University of Arkansas pageant.

He was born in Thompson, Conn. Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Josephine Ballou, Mapleville, R. I., and Mrs. Harry B. Graham, Boston, Mass.; four brothers, A. S. Taft, Oakland, R. I.; Walter S. Taft, Pasadena, Cal.; Edgar M. Taft, Providence, R. I., and Herbert E. Taft, Bedham, Mass.

Funeral services will be held here tomorrow and interment will be in Providence, R. I.

YOUTH, 19, PLEADS GUILTY TO KILLINGS

California College Student On Trial in Death of Great-Uncle, Aunt.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Leroy Drake, 19, unexpectedly pleaded guilty today to charges of murdering his great-uncle and aunt.

The emotionless youth was accused of poisoning Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinhuer, with whom he lived.

LEROY DRAKE.

Judge Joseph Vickers dismissed the jury and said he would continue to hear evidence before passing sentence.

Judge Vickers said the plea was accepted on the full understanding of Drake and his father, Leroy Drake Sr., Newark, N. J., bus driver, that there was no agreement to sentence the youth to a term other than death.

BLUE RIDGE THEATER IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

BLUE RIDGE, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP) The Blue Ridge theater was destroyed by fire yesterday and the Hampton Hardware building and stock were damaged.

The theater, owned and operated by T. F. Thompson, of Cedartown, was in a new building, and had been operated for only a few months. The fire apparently started near a flue in the theater and spread to the hardware building, 10 feet away.

JACKSON COMMITTEE FAVORS COTTON PLAN

JEFFERSON, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—The Jackson county cotton committee is on record as approving unanimously the AAA's new four-year cotton contracts.

J. W. Jackson, county farm agent, said today an election will be held December 19 to select a committee to supervise the signing of a new contract. He also predicted more farmers would sign these new contracts than ever before.

MRS. McHATTON HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. T. H. McHatton, president of the Garden Clubs of Georgia and wife of Dr. T. H. McHatton, of the University of Georgia, and her daughter, Miss Marie McHatton, were injured in an automobile accident at Winder today.

They were returned to a hospital here, where Miss McHatton was dismissed after treatment. Mrs. McHatton will remain for treatment for a day or two longer, her husband said. Injuries of both were described as cuts and bruises. They were en route to Atlanta.

Dr. McHatton said the car, driven by his chauffeur, was jammed into a ditch but did not turn over, in an effort to avoid a collision with another vehicle. The chauffeur escaped injury.

MACON COTTON BUYER DIES ON HUNTING TRIP

MACON, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Edward H. Rand, Macon cotton buyer, died of a heart ailment on a hunting trip near Bolingbroke yesterday.

Keenan Rand, his eldest son, brought his father to a hospital here but the stricken man was pronounced dead on arrival. The son said he had been suffering from high blood pressure for some time.

Funeral services will be held here at 3 p. m. eastern standard time, tomorrow.

Lee Langley Improves.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 12. (AP)—Lee Langley, former Georgia legislator who was seriously ill at a local hospital for some time, was removed to his home at Lakeview, Ga. today. His condition was described as improved.

MACON IS FAVORED AS MARKET CENTER

Linder Says City Ideally Located To Be Farm Produce Hub.

MACON, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Macon today came definitely in line to become the largest agricultural marketing center in Georgia.

City and county officials received a statement from Moultrie by Tom Linder, state commissioner of agriculture, that plans will go forward immediately if his terms are accepted by them.

The Macon Chamber of Commerce market committee, headed by W. T. Anderson, Macon publisher, decided definitely to accept the state's proposition.

Following today's conference at which former Senator Guy Jackson, of Cochran, represented Linder and outlined plans for the market, it was announced there is no doubt an agreement will be made at an early date after official action by city council and the Bibb county board of commissioners and that work will begin at once.

Secretary Linder said the "hub of the state system" will be located here if the city and county provide approximately $7,000 in labor, materials or money for construction.

The commissioner said in part:

"The state agricultural department, through its Market Bureau, wishes to establish in Macon a market for farm produce.

"We wish to establish there under state operation the largest market for farm produce, because Macon is in the center of the state, has a large and flourishing agriculture; 60 per cent of the trucks that reach Atlanta now come through Macon and by placing a large distributing market at Macon, farmers and truckers would meet the buyers nearer the point of production, saving money in transportation and time in marketing."

BRITONS AND GEORGIA TO DEBATE TONIGHT

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—A debate between the University of Georgia and Oxford University Union Society of England tomorrow night is to feature forensic activity of the year here.

Walter Wise, of Fayetteville, and Arnold Shulman, of Athens, will compose the Georgia team. British speakers will be A. W. J. Greenwood and Richard U. P. Kay-Shuttleworth.

The subject is "Resolved: That the Written Constitution Is a Hindrance Rather Than a Safeguard To Progress."

GILCHRIST ELECTED NEW HIGHWAY HEAD

Texas Engineer Named President as Association Ends Meet.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Gibb Gilchrist, Austin, Texas, was elected president of the American Association of State Highway Officials as it closed its 21st annual convention here today.

Gilchrist, Texas state highway engineer, succeeded A. W. Brandt, state highway commissioner of New York.

Named as vice presidents of the association were W. F. Callahan, Springfield, Mass.; Gaston Scott, Montgomery, Ala., and James D. Adams, Indianapolis, Ind.

W. W. Mack, Dover, Del., was reelected treasurer, while W. C. Markham, Washington, D. C., was reappointed secretary.

Three state highway officials were given places on the organization's executive committee. They were Preston Peterson, Salt Lake City, Utah; John A. MacDonald, Hartford, Conn., and T. H. Cutler, Jefferson City, Mo.

WIFE TO DIE ON ROPE FOR KILLING HUSBAND

PEMBROKE, Ont., Dec. 12.—(AP) Mary Cowan tonight was convicted of the murder of her husband, Albert, and was sentenced to be hanged February 27. Allan Cowan, 17-year-old brother-in-law of Mrs. Cowan, was sentenced yesterday to be hanged on the same date for the killing of his brother, Albert, 10 years his senior. Allan confessed to firing the shot that killed his brother while he slept July 21 at Barry's bay. The youth said he did it because Mrs. Cowan wanted him to.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS.

Noted Baby Specialists Hold Meeting Here

Possibility of Polio Cure Predicted At Meeting of Pediatricians Here

Predicting the possibility of a virtual end to dread infantile paralysis, Dr. John A. Kolmer, professor of medicine at Temple University, Philadelphia, closed the afternoon session yesterday at the third annual scientific meeting of the Georgia Pediatric Society.

Dr. Kolmer, widely known as the inventor of an anti-polio serum, showed the 100 physicians and surgeons assembled at the Biltmore hotel a motion picture record of the development of the serum and its practical application.

Dr. Willis William Anderson, president of the society, presided at the opening luncheon and at the meeting following when several prominent speakers were presented.

Dr. Charles E. Bills, laboratory research director of Evansville, Ind., opened the program of addresses with a talk on "The Medicinal Fish Oils." He outlined the findings of laboratory workers in investigating the sources of the most potent and productive vitamin-containing oils found in marine life.

Slack Diagnoses Hit.

Dr. Lovett Morse, emeritus professor of pediatrics at Harvard University medical school, spoke on "The Thymus Delusions," attacking slack and unintelligent diagnoses which lay the death of children at the door of thymus affection when the real cause is elsewhere. He declared autopsies useless in investigating thymus trouble as the gland can change in size within a short time.

"Actually, the thymus is rarely the cause of death in children," he said. "But too many doctors take this easy way of explaining death when the real cause is far removed. In one case, thymus trouble was written in as the cause of a child's death and it was later found that the victim was accidentally electrocuted.

"Look for something else when the 'symptoms' point to the thymus," he advised the physicians.

Abt Talks on Feeding.

Dr. Isaac A. Abt, professor of pediatrics at Northwestern University medical school, made his subject, "The Progress of Infant Feeding," highly entertaining and enlightening. Dr. Abt outlined the recorded history of feeding babies from the 16th century B. C., to the present date, dwelling on the English methods of the 17th century in mixing castile soap with milk and of feeding babies a pap composed of flour, water and beer.

"After centuries of practice and study we now know that what the baby needs is—enough to eat," he said.

The speaker declared that the greatest benefit to babies is gained by purifying milk by heat and by furnishing the right amount of vitamins.

The evening session of the meeting was held last night at the Academy of Medicine. The speakers were Dr. Edgar D. Shanks, president of the Fulton County Medical Society; Dr. Mercer Blanchard, president-elect of the Georgia Pediatric Society; Dr. Kolmer, Dr. Morse, Dr. Bills and Dr. Abt.

Besides the members of the state society, visiting physicians attended the meeting from Alabama, Tennessee, New York, Indiana and North and South Carolina.

FOUR POWERS REJECT JAPS' NAVAL DEMANDS

Washington treaty. This fitted the British position.

Both powers declared the Nipponese demands for equality of fleet and armament were inconsistent with Japan's position in favor of equality of security.

The difference cited by both nations was that the defense obligations and requirements of Great Britain and the United States are so much greater than those of Japan that larger fleets are needed.

These fleets, it was contended, would in no way jeopardize the security of Japan.

Japanese Adamant.

Despite repeated efforts to pin them down on this and other points, the Japanese refused to name the "common upper" tonnage figure at which they want the three navies pegged.

Full definition of the Japanese position, therefore, had not yet been presented to the conference.

Tomorrow, however, the Japanese are expected to disclose further details of what they want. Informed sources said they have not yet issued any ultimatum that they will not continue in the conference in the event the quality issue is finally rejected or uncompromised.

The British delegates hope that once the security issue is thoroughly threshed out, a situation will be created whereby present navies can be held at status quo strength for a number of years.

After that, another conference would be called, possibly in the light of an improved and clarified international political situation.

Three-Power Unity.

France, insisting on her full rights, objected to the idea of limiting a tonnage agreement to Japan, the United States and Great Britain. Italy was understood to have joined in this opposition to a three-power common upper tonnage limit.

All powers should have a voice and rights under any general agreement, the French insisted. It was understood they also asked whether a common upper tonnage limit would apply only to ships which the Japanese consider aggressive, and not to defensive vessels.

A French spokesman, however, said the outlook could not be looked upon as black and that "from our point of view, nothing very serious happened today."

Davis, the American envoy, also was reported to have objected to the Japanese plan on the ground it would cause an enormous increase in naval construction, rather than the desired decrease.

CHIPLEY CLUB SENDS BOOK TO PRESIDENT

CHIPLEY, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—The Roosevelt Club of Chipley was organized here this week and the members voted to send a message of appreciation to the President.

The message will be written into a leather-bound booklet. It will say: "In sincere appreciation of what the New Deal has meant to our community, Harris county, Georgia, and to the nation, and as an expression of deep affection for our neighbor and great national leader, we . . . do pledge ourselves to do all we can toward keeping Franklin Delano Roosevelt in the White House during another four-year term beginning January 1, 1937."

A number of prominent citizens signed the message, including H. C. Kimbrough, M. F. Haygood, Stuart M. Stout, C. D. Horton, John C. Hasty and many others.

SANCTIONS QUESTION IS THROWN TO LEAGUE

no complaint. Indeed, we should cordially welcome any suggestions for their improvement." Laval spoke in a similar vein.

"Only a vague outline of the peace plan was given to the committee, which sat privately.

The insistence of Poland that no new sanctions be imposed at this time apparently was acceptable to other delegates who said privately after the session that the entire question can now be threshed out by the council.

To Await Replies.

In British circles it was said that it was out of the question to impose new boycotts before replies are received from Rome and Addis Ababa and before the council can examine the situation. Meanwhile, present sanctions remain rigidly in force.

Privately, the British told officials they are anxious to see an end of the war in order to avoid more complications. One unconfirmed report circulating in Geneva was that Laval told Sir Samuel Hoare in Paris that if Premier Mussolini is pushed too hard Il Duce would bombard the British fleet and attack France.

Laval told the committee France and Britain had worked "conscientiously and loyally" to "bring an end to the conflict by working within the framework of the League of Nations. Our goal is to end the war which is weighing heavily upon the entire world."

The committee of 18 will meet again tomorrow, probably to review the effect of sanctions.

DUCE HINTS APPROVAL OF FRANCO-BRITISH PLAN

ROME, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Benito Mussolini, intent on driving a good bargain for Ethiopian peace, was represented in responsible quarters tonight as satisfied with the main outlines of a Franco-British proposal to end the conflict.

It is quite probable he will accept it as a basis for discussions, these sources said, because he is confident he can get favorable modification of several "unsatisfactory" details.

Despite a spokesman's warning against "excessive optimism," popular feeling was reflected in higher stock and bond prices. Government securities advanced another point today. Since Monday, state bonds have gone up an average of our points.

The Mussolini spokesman was careful to point out that the peace proposals are merely 'bases for negotiations" on settlement of the African war.

Il Duce may want to "ask some questions" before he replies, the spokesman said; and when he does reply, it will be to the authors of the peace plan and not to the League of Nations.

Mussolini went on with his war and his resistance to sanctions, and even found time to sign an accord with Belgium for the settlement of commercial debts during the economic siege.

The sidetracked proposal for a League of Nations oil embargo and its possible threat of a European war faded. The fascist on the street considered the peace offer a great victory for Italy.

He never has been told officially just what Il Duce wants in Ethiopia, but he contrasted the offer of Italian sovereignty or control over nearly half of Ethiopia with the League's world siege to prevent any conquest.

The average man hoped the offer would be considered adequate. Few urged its acceptance simply to obtain peace. Most said they were willing to let Mussolini decide.

Oficials said Il Duce might reply tomorrow or "the first of next week."

PROPOSED PEACE PLAN REJECTED BY SELASSIE

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Ethiopia's venerable religious ruler, the Abuna Cyril, today called the Franco-British peace proposals "words of God," but from his field headquarters at Dessye Emperor Haile Selassie was quoted as rejecting them.

Havas (French) News Agency advices said the King of Kings reiterated he was "bound to defend our soil which Italy has violated," and declared: "We cannot submit to force which we never provoked, because that would be rewarding violence."

The Abuna Cyril, head of the Ethiopian church for seven years, invoked divine guidance for "acceptable conditions" and said he was "happy" to see that the peace plans recognized Ethiopia's right to the Holy City of Aksum, now in Italian hands.

Thus the bearded bishop, dressed in black robe and turban, indicated at least tacit approval of the proposals, which government officials have viewed with open disapproval.

The Buna also said he regretted that Selassie had prevailed upon him to remain in Addis Ababa instead of going to the front.

"If his majesty should ask me," he added, "I should personally disapprove of his going."

PARIS DISSATISFIED WITH LAVAL AGREEMENT

PARIS, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Left-wing discontent with Premier Laval's agreement with Great Britain to offer Premier Mussolini territorial concessions in Ethiopia was reported tonight to be growing in lobbies of the chamber of deputies.

It was likely Laval would be forced to defend his action when he returns from Geneva. Discord within the cabinet itself was reported. Friends of Edouard Herriot, minister of state and former premier, admitted he had disagreed with Laval on the territorial grants.

Left wing members of Herriot's radical socialist party, as well as socialists and communists, are blaming Laval for taking the initiative in the settlement proposal and accuse him of weakening the League by offering a "premium to the aggressor."

The possibility that sanctions against Italy might be abandoned if Ethiopia rejects the peace plan was raised today in other French quarters.

Officials indicated Britain and France would try to persuade Emperor Haile Selassie to enter peace negotiation on the basis of their plan.

An informed writer, Madame Genevieve Tabouis, said in the newspaper L'Oeuvre that she understands both Britain and France "secretly desire" to drop sanctions and let Italy's African war become "a simple colonial expedition." They realize however, she said, that such a course would be protested at Geneva.

KING GEORGE FEARS SPREAD OF AFRICAN WAR

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Unofficial reports that King George intervened to force through to completion the Anglo-French-African peace formula circulated today in diplomatic circles.

The monarch, it was said, was deeply concerned over the possibility that the war in Africa might spread to Europe unless a quick peace were insured.

Despite bitter opposition in the house of commons on the ground that Italy was being allowed to dictate its own terms, the cabinet went ahead with the peace program.

Only one hour before the cabinet acted on the formula Monday King George received Anthony Eden, minister for League of Nations affairs. He also had granted audiences to other leaders recently.

King George has the prerogative to act when he feels that Britain's security is endangeredd, but only rarely has taken advantage of it.

Simultaneously, reports were revived that George and King Victor Emmanuel, of Italy, are in touch on the Italo-Ethiopian situation.

S. C. SENATE BALKS AT JOHNSTON DEMAND

Rhodes, of Estill, fourteenth district; J. C. Long, of Charleston, ninth district, and Frampton W. Toole, of Aiken, second district.

Johnston adherents said the five would become commissioners as soon as the senate confirmed them and would be the only existing control board under the executive's interpretation of the law. The Governor said all holdover commissioners were suspended.

Stilley was appointed July 6 to succeed the late W. H. Andrews, of Andrews, and served as a commissioner. The others were appointed early in September under a legal opinion saying the seats of their predecessors expired April 15, 1935, and the refusal of the commission to accept them was one cause of the Governor's proclaiming the commission in a "state of insurrection."

Impeachment Talked.

Stilley was enjoined from "interfering" in highway affairs as a member of the Governor's road board and the other four were enjoined in another court decision which held the Governor could not make recess appointments.

Refusal of the Governor to suspend troop control until permanent highway legislation was passed earlier today aroused two senators to suggest impeachment if he refused a formal request to withdraw the militia.

Senators Harvey, of Beaufort, and Griffith, of Saluda, both advocating Harvey's plan for a special legislative committee to assume temporary charge of the department, made the impeachment suggestions.

Their statements came during a day-long debate in which three senators said they believed "the people" were behind the Governor in his ousting of the road commission and two of them charged the commission with heading "a political ring."

Counter charges of a "ring" were made by Senator Cotesworth P. Means, who asserted the Governor was "dominated by the evil genius" of John P. Grace, of Charleston, former highway commissioner, with J. C. Long, of Charleston, Means' predecessor in the senate, and Representative Ben E. Adams, of Richmand. Means likened the Governor to "200 pounds of putty or ox meat" in their hands.

Demobilization Sought.

Harvey and Griffith made their statements after Senator Thurmond, of Edgefield, said the Governor "stated he was not willing to withdraw his troops unless he first had assurance the legislature would pass permanent legislation on the highway department."

The matter before the senate was a resolution calling for demobilization of militia, and pledging the chamber against any highway legislation in the meantime.

Harvey, suggesting that the legislature step in to run the road bureau since the Governor held it and the supreme court said the commission he ousted was reinstated, said: "I believe there is something wrong with the Governor's mental processes that he should violate the state constitution and court order as flagrantly as he does.

"But if we ask him to return the highway department to the legislature that created it, and he refuses, then I say the house should vote impeachment proceedings and this senate should try him."

FINAL BANK MEETING IS SET FOR WAYCROSS

ALBANY, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Another of the group meetings of the Georgia Bankers Associations was held here today at a local hotel.

The program was identical with those at Athens Monday, Gainesville Tuesday and Griffin Wednesday, the last of the meetings is scheduled to be held at Waycross tomorrow.

Among the speakers were H. Grady Langford, of Meansville, president of the Georgia Bankers' Association; Robert S. Parker, general counsel of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, and J. T. Haley, of Albany.

Langford discussed "Revision or Abolition of the Postal Savings System." Parker outlined the principal features of the banking act of 1935.

Haley, discussing the government's cotton program, said "Our salvation from the standpoint of future production lies in continued control."

W. S. Cothran, of Rome, Ga., said the bankers should "help the government get out of those businesses which compete with sound banking."

LAGRANGE MAN DIES OF AUTO INJURIES

LAGRANGE, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Jack Hogg, 42, gasoline station operator, died in a hospital here of injuries received in an automobile accident Tuesday.

A report of the accident said Hogg's car was in a collision with a wagon and a truck carrying WPA workers, in a dense fog, on the Chipley road.

FAY LLOYD NELSON, 45, RAIL OFFICIAL, PASSES

Popular Resident of Atlanta Victim of Heart Attack. Last Services Today.

Fay Lloyd Nelson, one of the most prominent railroad men of the southeast, and a resident of Atlanta for many years, died suddenly Wednesday night en route to a hospital a few minutes after he had been stricken with a heart attack while attending a dinner.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Blanchard Brothers' chapel, with the Rev. Hoke Shirley officiating. Burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery.

Pallbearers will be J. C. Manning, Dr. Rayford Thorpe, Collins Bird, Reeves Carey, Lewis A. Huey and Joe Ray.

Honorary pallbearers will consist of officers and employes of the West Point Route and Georgia railroad and all other railroad and steamship lines in Atlanta, members of the Atlanta Passenger Club, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and "The Club."

Rail Official Succumbs

FAY LLOYD NELSON.

Mr. Nelson at the time of his death was district passenger agent of the Atlanta & West Point railroad, having risen to that position from a clerk in the mail room. He had been associated with the railroad for nearly 30 years. He had occupied his last position since 1920.

He was active in church and civic affairs, being a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and prominent in the Agoga Bible Class of the Kirkwood Baptist church. He was a Mason and a member of Yaarab Temple of the Shrine. He is the father of Mildred Nelson, radio star.

A native of Shelby, N. C., where he was born February 5, 1890, Mr. Nelson entered the employ of the railroad as clerk in the mail room of the Atlanta Terminal Company. A short time later he was promoted to clerk of the information bureau in the Terminal station.

He was promoted to the position of ticket seller in 1909 and in 1911 was made assistant city ticket agent. In January, 1917, he became city passenger and ticket agent and in 1918 he became city passenger agent.

Following the end of government control of railroads in 1920 he became traveling passenger agent and in August he was promoted to the position he held at the time of his death.

Mr. Nelson lived at 255 Matthews avenue, N. E. He is survived by his wife; three daughters, the Misses Mildred, Miriam and Martha Anne Nelson, and four brothers, J. H. Nelson, Mayport, Fla.; W. C. Nelson, Miami; H. H. Nelson, Montgomery, Ala., and T. H. Nelson, Atlanta.

PUBLIC HEALTH GROUP IN CONVENTION TODAY

Malaria and Typhoid Control To Be Discussed at Two-Day Meeting.

Plans were completed last night for the two-day convention of the Georgia Public Health Association in the state capitol today and tomorrow.

Highlights of the first day's program are scheduled discussion by health officers of malaria and typhoid control in Georgia.

A banquet tonight holds the entertainment splotlight. Dr. J. D. Applewhite, of Macon, is scheduled to be toastmaster. Speakers on the program are Robert F. Maddox, chairman of the Georgia State Board of Health, and Dr. J. G. Williams, chairman of the health education committee of the Georgia Dental Association.

Dr. Hugo Robinson, Dougherty county health officer, is president of the association. His address is scheduled for the noon hour today.

Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, director of the Georgia State Board of Health, is to make the first address of the convention, with discussion by Dr. S. C. Rutland and Dr. L. Rogers. Dr. J E. Paullin, of Atlanta, president of the Georgia Medical Association, will speak on "The Practicing Physician and the Public Health Program."

Dr. M. V. Ziegler, of the United States Pubic Health Service, will tell of health work under the social security act. Dr. C. D. Bowdoin, chief of the division of epidemology of the State Health Department, will make an address on epidemology, with discussions led by Dr. W. W. Brown and Dr. M. A. Fort.

Dr T. F. Sellers, chief of the laboratory division of the state department, will lead the typhoid control discussion, and L. M. Clarkson, chief of the division of sanitary engineering in the state department, will speak on the state's sanitation and malaria control program.

G-MEN JOIN SEARCH FOR DWIGHT BEARD

'Flight to Avoid Prosecution' Fugitive Under U. S. Jurisdiction.

Federal government G-men set out yesterday to search for a man listed as Dwight Beard who, officers say, is wanted in connection with crimes in North Carolina, Minnesota and Georgia.

The government entered the widespread hunt being conducted by state officers when Federal District Attorney Lawrence S. Camp, of Atlanta, announced a warrant was being sworn out here charging the man with "flight to avoid prosecution," a federal offense.

Among the escapades ascribed by police to the man are:

Escaping from the North Carolina state prison where he was serving a life term for murder.

Two holdups in Atlanta.

A gun battle with Atlanta police.

A string of robberies in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

An automobile theft at Decatur, Ga.

Escaping from a trap set by the sheriff at Greenville, S. C., where he was "slightly wounded" by police.

A warrant charging Beard with assault with intent to murder was sworn out in municipal court here by Detectives Nabik and Chester, and last week the DeKalb county grand jury indicted him on two counts of auto theft.

The Fulton county grand jury this week indicted the fugitive on two counts of assault with intent to murder, two counts of robbery and one count of carrying a pistol.

MISS MAGGIE GORDON PASSES AT AGE OF 82

Miss Maggie Lathrop Gordon, member of a pioneer Perry, Ga., family and a sister of Major W. M. Gordon, U. S. A., died yesterday at her home, 1708 Jonesboro road, at the age of 82. She had been in failing health for more than a year.

Her brother was a Spanish-American War veteran and was promoted to the rank of major for gallantry in action.

In addition to her brother, she is survived by several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes with the Rev. H. H. Dillard officiating. The body will be taken to Perry for burial.

LIQUOR CAR CAPTURED AFTER 10-MILE CHASE

After a 10-mile chase, county police yesterday captured Bill Walker, white man, and confiscated 140 gallons of corn whisky.

Policemen Curtis Neal and W. L. Duncan said they "jumped" the liquor car in the south end of the county yesterday morning en route to Atlanta. Another machine was accompanying it as a 'blocker' and the officers said the car almost forced them from the slippery roads several times during the wild chase.

However, they succeeded in catching up with the heavily loaded liquor car and crowded it to a stop. Walker ran but was caught after a chase on foot. The man posted $500 bond.

W. M. GILBERT DIES AT HOME IN TEXAS

W. M. Gilbert, formerly of Atlanta, died Wednesday night at his home in Mount Enterprise, Texas, following an attack of pneumonia. He was 62. He lived here before moving to Texas about 30 years ago to farm.

Surviving him are his wife, his mother, Mrs. I. H. Gilbert, of Atlanta; two brothers, J. L. Gilbert, of San Antonio, Texas, and Wilson Gilbert, of Atlanta; four sisters, Mrs. E. L. Adamson, of West Palm Beach, Fla.; Mrs. F. F. Edwards, Misses Katie Mae and Vennie Lou Gilbert, all of Atlanta.

Machine-Gun Bullet Killed Liggett; Suspicion Swings Back to Gangland

Discovery Revives Possibilities of Intervention by 'G-Men' in Mysterious Slaying of Minneapolis Publisher; Cummings To Get Plea from Governor Olson.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 12.—(AP)—A tell-tale pellet of death—a submachine gun bullet—swung suspicion back to gangland today in the Walter Liggett assassination.

It served also to revive possibility of federal government intervention in the investigation requested by Governor Floyd B. Olson, Attorney-General H. H. Peterson and Chief of Police Frank Forestal.

The governor and attorney-general telegraphed their plea direct to United States Attorney General Homer Cummings.

Forestal added he was "hampered by circumstances and conditions" in the city Cummings a year ago termed "a poison spot of crime."

To Washington, Forestal sent one of the five bullets that mowed Liggett down before the eyes of his widow and daughter Monday night. Two members of his department said it was fired from a submachine gun.

Pointing out that use or possession of a machine gun is a federal offense, Forestal said if Washington tests also found the pellet to be from a machine gun, he expected consideration for his request for "G" men's assistance.

The announcement regarding the bullet called up anew rumors, backed by an officially expressed belief, that Howard Guilford, victim of a similar slaying more than a year ago, was killed by racketeers. Guilford, also a weekly newspaper publisher, like Liggett, his companion in profession and in death, had fought what they termed "crime syndicates" here. Guilford's slayers have never been apprehended.

As the grand jury pondered the evidence in the Liggett death, three theories were advanced by police investigators as motivating the crime.

They were: The publisher was killed as reprisal for his editorial assaults on a liquor syndicate; a gambling and slot machine gang might have inspired his slaying; or it might have been connected with his trial on a statutory charge involving a minor girl last month. Liggett won acquittal at the trial.

Still in police custody was Isadore Blumenfeld whom Mrs. Liggett identified, police said, as the grinning gunman who fired the fatal shots. But police said Blumenfeld's "barber shop" alibi had withstood every check they had made against it.

The investigators dug up one possible clue in an automobile stolen shortly before the slaying Monday. In it were two shotgun shells, the owner said were not his. They examined the machine carefully for fingerprints.

OFFICIAL OF MISSOURI LOSES INSURANCE SUIT

Efforts of R. Emmet O'Malley, superintendent of the Missouri insurance department, to obtain supervisory control of Georgia assets of the Missouri State Life Insurance Company were blocked by the Georgia supreme court yesterday.

John R. Wilson and George Harwell Bond filed equity suits in Fulton superior court asking appointment of receivers for the company several years ago. In 1933 O'Malley had himself substituted as party defendant.

O'Malley then filed demurrer against the suit of Wilson and Bond but was overruled. Later he filed a single bill of exceptions in the state supreme court.

The high court ruled that it "is without jurisdiction of the case brought by a single bill of exceptions."

Policies of that company have been reinsured by another company and are not affected by the litigation.

OLD AGE PENSION CLUB WILL GATHER TONIGHT

Postponed last night on account of inclement weather, a meeting of the Townsend Old-Age Pension Club will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in Taft hall of the city auditorium. George Winniman, of Jacksonville, director of state extension of the old-age pension, will speak.

Georgia offices of the Townsend Club were opened yesterday at Room 26, Peachtree Arcade, it was announced. Books of the club will be open beginning today for registration of persons eligible for pensions under the Townsend plan.

Miss Elizabeth J. Lee Becomes Bride of Wallace Williams

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Jackson Lee and Wallace Sherman Williams was impressively solemnized yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lee on Seventh street. Rev. W. W. Memminger, rector of All Saints Episcopal church performed the ceremony in the presence members of the families and a few intimate friends. In the living room where the ceremony was performed, the improvised altar was formed of stately palms augmented by baskets filled with Easter lilies and seven-branched candelabra held white tapers.

The beautiful brunet bride was given in marriage by her father, E. W. Lee, with whom she entered the room. She was gowned in shimmering white satin, the gown fashioned upon princess lines, the bodice introducing graceful draping and a corded neckline. The long sleeves were slightly puffed at the elbow and ended in points over the hands and were trimmed with tiny satin buttons. At the back of the skirt the built-in long train extended several yards in length. Her lace and tulle cap was fastened to her wavy hair with clusters of orange blossoms, and the tulle veil covered the bride's lovely face and extended to the length of her train. She carried a white satin prayer book showered with valley lilies.

Mrs. Lee, mother of the bride, was gowned in wine velvet made along modish lines with a shoulder corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Williams, mother of the groom, wore a gown of black crepe and a cluster of gardenias on her shoulder.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lee entertained at an informal reception, and the table in the dining room was overlaid with a lace cover and beautified with a Spode bowl filled with roses and delphinium. Presiding at the tea table were Misses Judy Beers, Jean Williams, Charlotte Sage, Emily Timmerman and Elizabeth L'Engle. Mrs. Sims Bray assisted in entertaining.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams left for a wedding trip, the bride traveling in a handsome ensemble of Dubonnet wool with a fox collar. Her accessories were brown and she wore orchids on her shoulder.

Out-of-town guests were Miss Lucille Dulin, of Charlotte, N. C.; Miss Margaret Jackson, of Asheville, N. C.; Miss Cecelia Nuchols and Laurence Nuchols, of Nashville, Tenn.

Meeting Postponed.

North Atlanta Chapter No. 36, O. E. S., has postponed its installation from December 13 until December 23, at 8 o'clock in Masonic temple at 1002 1-2 Hemphill avenue.

Miss Dilbeck Weds John W. Walton

The marriage of Miss Alice Dilbeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Dilbeck, and John Weyman Walton took place yesterday at the home of Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Knight, on North avenue, in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

The bride's sister, Miss Kathryn Dilbeck, was her only attendant. She wore a model of emerald green crepe with close-fitting hat of brown and accessories to match. Her flowers were pink rose buds and valley lilies. Mr. Walton's best man was D. C. Kirkland.

The bride was attired in a brown traveling suit with a collar of fox fur, with hat and accessories to match. Her shoulder spray was of talisman rose buds and valley lilies.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Walton left for Jacksonville and other points in Florida. Upon their return they will reside at 897 Rose circle, S. W.

College Park Club Plans Christmas Party.

A Christmas party will be featured at the meeting of the garden division of the College Park Woman's Club next Tuesday at 10 o'clock with Mrs. D. R. Nesbitt as chairman. Each member is requested to bring a package of bulbs, worth at least 10 cents, wrapped in holiday style, for planting next spring. In case a member cannot attend she is requested to send her package.

Members are urged to bring an arrangement of something apropos of the season which will serve as decorations. An interesting program has been arranged. Chairmen are Mesdames Walter Taylor and Raymond Williams, assisted by Mesdames Charles Lynn, W. L. Crout, Hugh Couch, L. O. Freeman, B. D. Gray, E. F. Gibson, Peter Haden and E. G. Harris.

Arts and crafts division of the club realized a substantial sum from the bridge party held at the clubhouse last Tuesday with Mrs. Peter Haden as chairman.

Members of the College Park Woman's Club members have in store a genuine treat for their program next Wednesday at 3 o'clock when the subject of "Citizenship," of which Mrs. L. M. Lester is chairman, will be handled by Tarleton Collier, of the Georgian-American, whose reputation precedes him. Mrs. Raymond Williams, the music chairman, will present Mrs. Florence Golson Bateman and Miss Avis Patterson will accompany Mrs. Bateman on the piano. Mrs. Fred Waters, social chairman, will be assisted by Mesdames E. M. Upshaw and F. C. Doss. Mrs. Charles Center will preside. Friends are invited.

Mrs. Smith Honors Brides, Bride-Elect.

One of the most interesting events of yesterday's social calendar was the luncheon at which Mrs. Alex Smith Jr. was hostess at her home on Tuxedo road in compliment to a duo of lovely recent brides, Mrs. Lamar Ellis and Mrs. Kells Boland Jr., and to a popular bride-elect, Miss Anne Alston. Mrs. Ellis is the former Miss Sara Hewlett and Mrs. Boland was before her recent marriage Miss Octavia Riley. Miss Alston's marriage to John Fitten Glenn will be an important event of December 18.

The guests were seated for luncheon at three tables adorned in a color motif of red, white and silver. Red and crystal compotes filled with fruit and silver leaves formed the effective centerpieces.

Miss Kenan Weds Mr. Loomis At Quiet Ceremony at Home

MRS. FRANK ERNEST LOOMIS.

The marriage of Miss Sarah Cowles Kenan and Frank Ernest Loomis was quietly solemnized last evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Kenan Jr., on Fifteenth street. The ceremony was performed in the library in the presence of the immediate families with the Rev. John Moore Walker, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Thomas S. Kenan Jr. She was lovely in a becoming model of blue crepe fashioned with large sleeves and trimmed with brown caracul fur around the neck and sleeves. She wore a shoulder spray of orchids.

As Miss Kenan, the bride was a popular member of the social contingent. She was formally presented to society recently at a brilliant ball given by her parents at the Piedmont Driving Club. She received her education at Ashley Hall in Charleston, S. C. Miss Anne Hill Kenan is her only sister, and her brothers are James Kenan and Frank Kenan.

The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Loomis, who resided in New York city until 1925, when they moved to Atlanta. He attended the Repton school in Tarrytown, N. Y., the public schools of Atlanta, and the Peacock School for Boys. He is a member of the K. D. K. fraternity, and is connected with a local bank.

Mrs. Loomis is the first member of the Debutante Club of 1935-36 to plight her troth, and, although no formal announcement of the engagement was made, sincere interest of hosts of personal and inherited friends of the bride and groom is attached to their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Loomis will reside temporarily with the bride's parents on Fifteenth street.

Miss Mary Hurt Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. Mark Pentecost was hostess at bridge, followed by luncheon, yesterday at her home on Palisades road, the occasion honoring her debutante cousin, Miss Mary Hurt, popular young daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John S. Hurt.

Yellow rosebuds and white snapdragons centered the tables where luncheon was served, assisting Mrs. Pentecost in entertaining were her mother, Mrs. Charles Hurt; her sister, Mrs. Charles Hurt Jr., and her daughter, Miss Jean Pentecost.

The guests included Misses Hurt, Frances Austin, Jane Adair, Roberta Crew, Claudia Smaw, Frances Lyle, Eugenia Snow, Margaret Walker, Mrs. Frank Loomis and her guest, Miss Mary Berry, of Baltimore, Md.; Marjorie Carmichael, Dixie Woolford, Elizabeth Wilmot, Sue Hippey, Marian Clarke, Ellen Fleming, Elizabeth Spalding, Eleanor Spalding, Virginia Merry, Belle Scott Meador, Judy Beers, Bright Bickerstaff, Rosebud Leide, Sarah Simms, Mesdames Charles Hurt Jr., Charles Hurt Sr., John S. Hurt and Miss Jean Pentecost.

Twilight Vespers At Y. W. C. A.

A Christmas morality play of the twentieth century, songs, a litany and carol singing will feature the twilight vespers arranged by the Y. W. C. A. religious education committee for this afternoon at 5:15 o'clock.

Miss Dorothy Ellis will play the leading role as the waif, Miss Margaret Sims will portray greed, Miss Patricia Mankinson, sorrow; Miss Irene Brewer, vanity; Miss Mary Mitchell, pleasure; Miss Becky Morgan, service. Mary, the mother of Jesus, will be played by Miss Eleanor Miles. Directed by Miss Anne Pridmore, the play will show the talent developed in the Wednesday leisure time dramatics group. Mrs. Robert Church Jr. will be the reader for the litany.

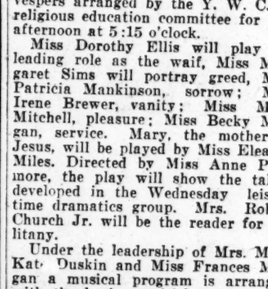

Under the leadership of Mrs. Mary Kat Ouskin and Miss Frances Morgan a musical program is arranged, with the business girls' choir singing the processional. This choir is composed of girls from all clubs, as follows: Bernice Bennett, Sara McKinney, Naomi Myers, Idolene Kimbrell, Eleanor Stone, Ruth Barron, Alice Devens, Ruth Leas, Frances Morgan, Sue Hill, Marcelia Street, Annie Black.

Rev. Marvin Pharr, graduate of Mercer University and leader in young people's groups, spoke to the Business Girls' League Thursday evening on "Does the World Need Religion?"

St. John Circle

Recently members of Circle No. 1 of which Mrs. H. M. Pennington is chairman, of the St. John Methodist church entertained their husbands. The circle had a splendid year and it is with regret that members realize the year is ending. Rev. A. B. Wilson, the former pastor, and his wife, were presented a lovely lamp in appreciation of what they meant to the circle and church. The president, Mrs. W. T. Goodman, and the chairman of the circle, and Mrs. Pennington were presented gifts.

A token of the circle's appreciation, a life membership and pin, representing a cost of $26, was given Mrs. H. M. Mann, who is one of the very youngest adult life members. Mrs. Mann worked tirelessly during the four years she has been a member, having served as president of the missionary society one year, and always put her whole heart in the work. Her son, Edward, was made a baby life member three years ago by the missionary society, when he was only a month old.

Description of China Clipper Features Letter to Atlantan

By Sally Forth.

TIME records with amazing rapidity the ever-changing mode of travel, and along with this, of course, are the historical and interesting mementoes of the initial trips. The recent epoch-making flight of the China Clipper was not without its share of souvenirs, and many Atlantans are now the proud owners of letters mailed on the plane's return trip to this country. Each bears trans-Pacific air mail stamps, in addition to the stamps which record the fact that the letter was included in the first trans-Pacific flight from Manila to Alameda field in San Francisco.

One of these letters, which in time to come will be of untold historical value, was received by Reverdy Clarke from his brother, Lieutenant Christian H. Clarke Jr., who is stationed at Schofield barracks in the Hawaiian Islands. His description of the China Clipper is highly interesting for, in addition to the wonder of its flight, its arrival had real significance for the people residing on the islands in the Pacific. At best, the mail service to the mainland is slow and infrequent, but this recent flight marked the opening of a new and quick means of mail and passenger travel that brings New York within 36 hours of Honolulu, and that's 5,000 miles!

But back to the letter. Chris, as Lieutenant Clarke is known to his many friends, writes in his letter of November 25 as follows: "Saturday afternoon I went sailing with a friend of mine who owns a boat. We sailed in Pearl harbor and went alongside the China Clipper, which had just arrived that morning from California. She is a beautiful thing. It's hard to believe that such a large plane could ever get off the water, but her four engines do it easily.

"No one was allowed to go aboard, but we sailed back and forth and looked her all over. She was tied to a pier near the shore and the coconut palms made a lovely background for this glittering queen of the Pacific. The crowds were still there and, if anything, getting larger as the time passed. There was a commemoration program to celebrate her arrival, including an "aloha" (welcome) flight by army and navy planes, which flew out to sea and escorted her into Pearl harbor. She left on Sunday for Wake, Guam and Manila en route to the orient."

In his letter Chris also said that he had bought some of the new trans-Pacific air mail stamps and would mail a letter via the China Clipper upon her return to the States from the orient. It was this letter that Reverdy received this week and, in addition to the historical interest of the manner by which it was received here, it contains many highlights incident to the life in the Hawaiian Islands. It all reads like a travelogue.

The young army man writes with a colorful and descriptive pen the fact that the clipper's arrival was news in itself, but the eruption of Mauna Loa, one of the largest volcanoes in Hawaii, almost moved the clipper off the front page. Mauna Loa is one of the snow-topped volcanoes on the Island of Hawaii, 200 miles from Honolulu, and erupted a week ago, and as the letter was written on November 25, was still going at full blast. The islands of Hawaii and Maui are separated by only about 10 miles, and from all accounts the volcanic actions of Mother Earth must have been a thrilling and beautiful sight.

The enormous mountain towers nearly 1,400 feet, is snow-capped, and stretches smoothly down to the Pacific ocean over 100 miles at the base. Picture that, in addition to a spectacular eruption with all the molten lava, the tongue of flame 1,000 feet long, 200 feet thick and 500 feet high, and the dense clouds of smoke overhead, which, as Chris says, "is a never-to-be-forgotten sight." The strangest thing to the young lieutenant is the universal lack of fear of the volcano's actions, for the people almost seem to love the periodic eruptions.

The natives talk and write about the god of the volcano named "Pete" in a familiar and friendly manner, as though "Pete" were a person instead of an active bed of fire. As an example of their attitude, an editor of one of the papers there sums it up as follows: "Here in Hawaii we run to our volcanoes when they erupt, whereas, in all other parts of the world, they run away." Apparently the explanation is that in all of the many eruptions recorded during the past hundred years or so there has never been anyone killed or injured.

Lieutenant Clarke is "blond and handsome," and following his graduation at West Point he was stationed here at Fort McPherson and resided at the garrison, as did his father, Christian H. Clarke, and his brother, Reverdy. He was a popular figure among affairs of the younger and military set of society, as he was during his college days at the University of Georgia. He played polo, and an interesting incident regarding the sport form an interesting conclusion to his letter to Reverdy. He says: "We have started the final polo tournament of the season. My team plays in the finals next Sunday for the 'General Smith' cup, donated by General William R. Smith when he was in command over here 10 years or more ago. Incidentally, he was superintendent at West Point when I graduated, but has since retired."

THERE is a charming sentiment connected with the forthcoming visit here of Mrs. Sumner Williams, of Greenville, S. C. She arrives early next week to visit her lifelong friend, Mrs. Philip Alston. The visitor is coming especially for the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Alston's daughter, Anne, to John Fitten Glenn, which takes place December 18.

Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Alston were born and reared in Greenville, S. C., and each acted as attendant in the other's wedding. When the former May Lewis married Philip Alston 25 years ago in Old Christ church at Greenville, Mrs. Williams, the former Elizabeth Beattie, acted as her maid of honor. Three years later, Mrs. Alston returned to Greenville to stand beside her dearest friend when she became the bride of the late Sumner Williams in the same historic church.

For Miss Smith.

Miss Joyce Smith, lovely debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. C. Smith and vice president of the season's Debutante Club, was central figure at the tea at which Mrs. Frank O. Walsh was hostess yesterday at her home on Peachtree road.

Members of the Debutante Club were invited to meet Miss Smith. The honor guest's mother, Mrs. W. R. C. Smith, and her sister, Miss Elinor Smith, assisted in entertaining. The tea table was centered with pink roses and snapdragons arranged in a silver bowl.

Miss Sara Hopkins Becomes Bride of Mr. Ludwig At Impressive Home Ceremony at Miami Beach, Fla.

MRS. ROBERT PAUL LUDWIG.

The marriage of Miss Sara Hopkins, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Hopkins, of Miami and Atlanta, to Robert Paul Ludwig, of Miami and Atlanta, took place Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins on Alton road at Miami Beach, in the presence only of the immediate families.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Dr. L. O. Bricker, pastor emeritus of the Peachtree Christian church, of Atlanta. The marriage of the young couple comes as no great surprise to their hosts of friends in Miami and Atlanta, for it had been rumored for some time as being an event to be expected in the early spring.

The bride, a brunet beauty possessing great charm, is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins. She was educated at Washington Seminary, where she was a member of Phi Pi sorority, and completed her schooling at the fashionable Finch school in New York last year. During the past summer, with her parents, she spent several months in touring continental Europe, which she had visited with Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins in 1930.

Mrs. Ludwig's mother is the former Miss Leonora Balsley, of Greensboro, N. C. Her father, Lindsey Hopkins, has for many years been prominently identified with the leading industrial and capitalistic interests of the southeast, maintaining homes in Miami, Fla., Atlanta and Lakemont, Ga.

Mr. Ludwig, formerly from Erie, Pa., was educated at the Georgia Military College, at College Park, where he prepared for the University of Georgia, from which institution he was graduated with the class of 19[illegible]. While at the University of Georgia he was an outstanding athlete, playing center on the famous football teams of 1932 and 1933, and guard on the basketball teams of those two years.

He was a popular member of the S. A. E. fraternity and the "G" Club of the University of Georgia. On leaving college, he became associated with Rich, Inc., of Atlanta, until the late summer, when he joined the well-known Reynolds Corporation, in their housing division, maintaining offices and headquarters in Miami and Atlanta. Mr. Ludwig is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fred Ludwig, of Erie, Pa.

Among the family present, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Hopkins Sr., were Mr. and Mrs. John Fred Ludwig, parents of the groom, of Erie, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Hopkins Jr., brother and sister of the bride; Walter Hopkins and John Hopkins, of Miami, uncles of the bride; Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Grubb, of Coral Gables, Fla., aunt and uncle of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Thornton M. Fincher, and Mrs. L. O. Bricker.

After a honeymoon, spent in Cuba and the West Indies, the young couple will return to Coral Gables, Fla., where they have an apartment in the San Sebastian hotel.

Stollen Is a Delicious Sweet Fruit Bread for the Holidays.

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

In Mrs. Lacey's family the serving of the Christmas fruit bread called Stollen was taken quite as a matter of course. In discussing this sweet bread with some of her club members Mrs. Lacy found that every one of the women made a specialty of some specially good bread for Christmas breakfast. It might be the German kitchen, the Bohemian kolatchen, the Pennsylvania Dutch hitzelbrod, or the streusel coffee cake. Nancy said that she had read that every nation had its own special bread, but that, basically, the recipes were alike. All the members listened while Mrs. Lacey gave her recipe.

Crumble 2 cakes of yeast in 1-4 cup luke warm water. Scald 1 3-4 cups milk. When luke warm add the foaming yeast and 1 cup of bread flour to make a sponge. Cover the sponge and set in a warm place to rise. In the meantime cream one pound of butte. with one cup of sugar and add four eggs, one at a time. Beat well between each addition. Add the grated rind of one lemon, one-fourth teaspoon grated nutmeg, and seven cups of flour. Knead until smooth and elastic. Wash and dry one cup seedless raisins, one cup dried currants, and add one-half cup orange peel and citron cut fine. Add one cup blanched, chopped almonds. Add these to the dough. Cover, let rise until double in bulk. Knead. Divide in thirds. Roll each thir slightly, spread top with melted butter, make a depression down the center with a rolling pin, fold over double into one long loaf. Brush with melted butter, let rise till double in bulk, and bake in a 350-degree oven for 45 minutes. When slightly cooled, brush with icing made of confectioner's sugar and water stirred together. A little lemon juice may be added to the icing.

The leaflet on "Yeast Breads" has other good recipes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Nancy Page," care of The Atlanta Constitution.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

The impression is usually gathered from history books that the first negroes taken to America were taken there as slaves. The truth is, many of them came as explorers or with exploration parties, of their own free will. Alonzo Pietra, a negro, piloted the Nina for Columbus. Negroes were with Balboa when he discovered the Pacific; and they accompanied Cortez as he explored Mexico. Likewise, Estivanico, who led the party that explored much of Arizona and New Mexico, was a negro. The first slaves did not arrive till much later, about 1619. The part played by the negro in early American exploration is an important one.

Lillian Mae Patterns

JUNIOR MODEL SMART FOR SCHOOL OR PARTYING
Pattern 2492.

Whether she's in the fourth grade or the eighth, this little in-be-teen age miss knows the sort of frocks that rates high at school—or parties. And doesn't that perky little bow right under her chin give her frock a crisply tailored air? The over-the-shoulder yoke that fits so smoothly, has the puff of sleeves and the piquancy of bodice gathers, to set it off, while a flat pleat in front, and an inverted one 'round back is all she needs for hurdling fences, or winning the 50-yard dash. Take her along when you select the material—for perchance she'd rather have jersey or printed challis for her school frock—a figured silk or satin-finish broadcloth if it's for after-school socials, little parties, or "Sunday best."

Pattern 2492 is available in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 10 takes 2 1-2 yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coin. Stamps not accepted, for this Lillian Mae pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

Don't wait! Send now for the winter pattern book! You need all the advice Lillian Mae gives you on keeping the family thriftily and attractively dressed. You need to know more about clothes etiquette, more about fabrics and fashions, more about glorifying your type! You'll welcome the timely tips on Christmas gift problems, too. Price of book 15 cents.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Since I have been a widow I have had it pretty hard. In fact, I lived on credit until I got my present job. Through love or pity, I don't know which, a man gave me work in his office. He is a splendid businessman but every few months he goes on a big spree. When he is sober he makes big money and when he is drunk he loses most of it. About a year ago he asked if I could give him his dinner each evening since he was living at restaurants. He pays me what he paid at the restaurant and it practically feeds my family. Besides he is always bringing in something extra. He is swell when he isn't drinking but disgusting and nerve-racking when he is. When he sobers up he is terribly sorry but this doesn't mean he has quit. If I were to give up my position and give him up as a boarder I would be destitute. He wants me to marry him. I love him. On the other hand I don't believe I could be happy as his wife. What shall I do?

DISTRACTED.

Answer: Perhaps you can persuade the man to take a drink cure. The fact that he is generous and kind to you and your children shows he has a golden heart and the fact that he gets on benders with clock-like regularity shows he is weak. Marriage won't make him strong nor will your disgust with him and humiliation at his drinking help him one iota. Then tell him frankly how the matter lies in your mind; explain to him that you owe him a debt of gratitude which you can never pay, tell him that you love him and want to marry him but fear that his habit will keep you from being the sort of a wife to him that you would like to be.

No drink cure is worthy the money, the time, or the mental anguish it costs if the patient hasn't the desire to take it. William Seabrook's book "Asylum" sets forth in interesting fashion how the cure may be effected if the patient goes into an institution of his own free will and accord.

Of course no woman has the moral right to marry a man for a meal ticket for herself and her children, unless she is in such a frame of heart and mind toward him that she can give value received. A widow with dependents is not likely to find the perfect husband if she is lucky enough to be courted by a man who has proved his interest in and his affection for her and her children she had better think twice before she turns him down, although he has a "disgusting" habit.

By MIGNON.

It takes the French to think up names to capture the imagination. They love doing it for their perfumes, and one manufacturer, who by the way, has some of the most subtle scents I've ever encounteredd, has three perfumes called by names that sound, one like a front-page headliner, one like a secret whispered at a party when a beautiful woman walks in, and one like something revealed only in a confessional. The names intrigue you and make you want to buy the perfumes, once they have been introduced to you.

Incidentally this same manufacturer used to send over one of the finest of toilet waters, strong enough to use as a perfume. Haven't been able to find it for ages and a few weeks ago ran across a bottle in New York and bought it. I was told it was the last bottle, as they were not importing any more. So, while you can't get the toilet water you can get the perfumes and they are worth sniffing so that you can decide for yourself whether or not you like them. Most stores have samples and you are permitted to sniff the glass stopper that reaches down into the 'fumery. When they haven't samples they loosen the cork a bit and let you smell of that, which, after all, is a good way of getting the true scent. Often it's too strong when you smell the open bottle.

If you want to know where you can purchase any article mentioned in this column phone Mignon at The Constitution. Please do not write unless you live outside the city, in which case enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

EROSION ENDANGERS U. S. LAND FERTILITY

CINCINNATI, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Dr. John L. Rich, associate professor of economic geology of the University of Cincinnati, said tonight that nearly one-fourth of the tillable land in the United States had been either destroyed or seriously damaged by soil erosion.

Lecturing on the subject, he added that "in many regions destruction is so rapid that all the fertile topsoil will be removed in from 20 to 75 years.

Barbara Bell Patterns

Pattern No. 1779-B.
PRINT MAKES A WOMAN'S SMART FROCK.

Eyes are being cast towards the counters piled high with fresh, new prints. New collections have come from Paris, American designers are obsessed with new ideas for printed fabrics, and women are beginning to clamor for them.

This frock is one of those lovely, simple, print affairs that are much liked for these last days of winter, and to start the spring. The blouse is treated in a most interesting way. There is a yoke in front, one side of which ends in a soft, wide loop, pulled through ring, or fastened with a long clip. The belt has the same idea repeated in a minute scale. In back, the yoke is continued into a panel which ends at the waistline. Sleeves are wide from shoulder to wrist, the sort of sleeve that is vastly becoming, and very smart. There is a panel in the back of the skirt, the same lines that you see in the blouse.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1779-B is designed in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material.

Price of pattern 15 cents in coin. Do not send stamps.

Send for the fall and winter Barbara Bell Pattern Book. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming clothes selecting designs from the one hundred and nineteen Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Interesting and exclusive fashions for little children and the difficult junior age; slenderizing, well-cut patterns for the mature figure, afternoon dresses for the most particular young women and matrons, and other patterns for special occasions are all to be found in the Barbara Bell Pattern Book. Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

(Mr. Culbertson continues his description of a "friendly game" he recently watched. The first hand in this series appeared Tuesday of this week.)

A tender hearted soul (despite my forbidding exterior), I earnestly hoped that the tide of battle would at least give poor West a breathing spell. Even granting that he had made an egregious blunder in doubling his opponents into game on the previous hand, it seemed to me that he had been rather unlucky to date.

My wish was granted in the next hand, which produced some fantastic but excellent bidding.

East, dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

SOUTH

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 spade	2 spades	3 spades
4 spades	5 spades	Pass!	Pass
6 hearts	6 spades	Pass!	Pass
6 no tr'p	Double [final bid]

In many years I never have heard a more remarkable sequence of bids, yet on careful examination I don't think that any of them is open to criticism. Certainly South must open the bidding, although whether or not he should have pre-empted with four spades is a moot point—on many occasions his one spade approach would be strategically correct. West's forcing overcall of two spades is proper, as is North's obvious attempt to shut out with three spades. East, on his strong holding, cannot content himself with merely bidding four hearts when a slam is clearly in sight. Hence his answering cue bid, showing that he can win the first spade trick. South, with a five-spade bid, tries to coax a double rather than a slam bid from the opponents, but West is wary of this trap and makes an excellent forcing pass.

Now East finally declares a suit other than spades, bidding six hearts, and South dare not allow this contract to stand—it is too likely to be successful. His six-spade bid is an excellent attempt at a sacrifice. West's second forcing pass over this last bid deserves high praise—almost all players would be irresistibly tempted to double. East solves a ticklish situation with the one correct bid—six no trump. It is hard to censure South for his double—the possible gain, if his partner can stop either red suit, is enormous. And, so far as he can tell, if thes ix no-trump can be made, a seven-spade sacrifice might cost 1,100 points.

Obviously the contract was made without difficulty.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: How should the tricks acquired through a revoke be scored?

Answer: They should be scored exactly as though won in the play.

HENDERSONVILLE ASKS U. S. RECEIVERSHIP

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 12.—(AP) The town of Hendersonville, once a thriving mountain resort, today admitted insolvency and asked the western North Carolina district court to take charge of its financial affairs.

The town's statement was made in an answer filed in federal court here to a $595,101.28 bond default suit brought by a bondholders protective committee.

Hendersonville's population was 5,070 in 1930.

CHAPARIETA NAMED TO SPANISH CABINET

MADRID, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Joaquin Chaparieta, whose cabinet resigned Monday, was designated by President Alcala Zamora tonight to attempt to form a new government—a task at which several leaders have failed.

FORMER U. S. WORKERS CONVICTED OF FRAUD

Ex-Treasury Employes, New York Tax Consultant Are Found Guilty.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Two former treasury employes and a New York tax consultant were convicted by a District of Columbia supreme court jury today of conspiring to defraud the government in connection with an income tax assessment against Thomas N. McCarter, New Jersey utilities magnate.

Those found "guilty" were John W. Hardgrove, former official of the Internal Revenue Bureau; Henning R. Nelson, former auditor of the bureau, and Frank B. McElhill, income tax accountant of New York city.

The government had charged a plot to "settle" for a $10,000 fee a $149,000 assessment against McCarter. The president of the New Jersey public service corporation informed Secretary Morgenthau of the situation and investigators were put on the job.

McCarter, at the government's request, pretended to go through with the offer so the Treasury could assemble evidence.

The jury of 11 men and one woman debated three hours. Justice F. Dickinson Letts denied bond and ordered the convicted men committed to the district jail.

STEPIN FETCHIT LOSES LETHARGY

Negro Comedian Beats Process Server and Charge Served Upon Him.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Two men were hit on the head, one with a statue and the other with a club, and both blamed it on Stepin Fetchit, negro film comedian.

Fetchit went to court twice today, first to face the man who charged him with bouncing a club off his skull. That was Philip Krauchers, a process server.

Krauchers said he went to a Harlem theater where Fetchit was appearing last night and served the listless comedian with a summons that charged him with smashing a statue over the other man's head.

Fetchit came suddenly alive, Krauchers said, and whacked him with a club.

That case was postponed until later and Fetchit was released on $1,000 bail.

From there he went to another court in response to the summons that Krauchers said he had so painfully served.

This time Fetchit was exonerated. He did not, he said, break a statue over the head of James Madison Parker, another negro actor, during a row over an alarm clock. He said Louise Watkins, a negro woman, did it and she corroborated him.

CORAL GABLES BONDS ARE DECLARED VALID

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Rejecting the city's plea the bonds were issued by "collusion and conspiracy" of former city commissioners, Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter today upheld the validity of $7,000,000 in Coral Gables municipal securities.

The city, demurring to a suit by bondholders to recover $3,000,000, contended the securities were issued, without election, by commissioners who at the same time were officers of the Coral Gables Corporation, developer of the area that later became the city.

The city alleged the bonds were void, claiming they were issued to raise funds to enable the firm to comply with promises of extensive improvements to lot purchasers.

Judge Ritter found the question of the bonds' validity had not been raised during the 10 years following their issuance, during which period succeeding city commissions had recognized the debt.

KENTUCKIAN IS HELD IN DEATH OF CHILD

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Brought secretly to the Pike county jail for safekeeping, Robert Mahan, 22-year-old coal miner, stoutly insisted tonight he was innocent of burning or otherwise mistreating his 9-month-old son, Thomas, whose death at Jenkins today resulted in a murder charge against Mahan.

The tow-headed, blue-eyed youngster died in a Jenkins hospital where it was taken Sunday for treatment of what a physician said were ulcers on its feet, back and head and other injuries. It had been expected to recover until yesterday when it was announced pneumonia developed. An autopsy was ordered.

The mother, Mrs. Helen Mahan, scarcely 20, accused her husband of having held the child's feet to the fire to discipline it. Mahan was arrested on a warrant charging cruel and inhuman treatment and was brought to Pikeville as a precaution against violence. The charge was changed to murder today.

Barkeeps' Wives Seek To Oust Girl Helpers

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(AP)—A new enemy took the bar path against tavern hostesses today—the saloonkeepers' wives.

A group of 40 decided to campaign for elimination of the spangled gowned employes from their husbands' bright spots. They called themselves the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Liquor Retailers' Local No. 6 and asserted they aimed to "stimulate a clean business without the employment of hostesses."

It is not that they fear for their husbands, they made it clear, but rather for their husbands' business.

Condition Your Skin With Golden Peacock Bleach Creme And Use Fewer Cosmetics

With increasing years, one's skin becomes stale, is colored and wrinkled, and loses its freshness, due to sun, wind, air and dirt from without, and constant chemical changes from within, developing a coarser texture, large pores, blackheads, pimples, freckles and other surface spots. The only way these beauty-marring defects can be satisfactorily overcome, is with a basic skin treatment, such as Golden Peacock Bleach Creme.

Golden Peacock Bleach Creme is not a "cover-up" cosmetic, but a basic, penetrating, skin treatment (the formula of one of the most able Cosmetic Chemists in the United States) that actually removes that coarse, scrubby skin, and begins where nature leaves off to form a new skin foundation; finer, softer, clearer, lighter and free of blackheads, spots and pimples due to outward causes—and does it quickly. Use Golden Peacock Bleach Creme to get the texture of your skin right before applying cosmetic, then you will have a fresh looking complexion, requiring fewer cosmetics. Golden Peacock Bleach Creme is in such demand by ladies in all walks of life that it may be had wherever cosmetics are sold, in 25c and 50c jars. Golden Peacock, Inc., Paris, Tenn.—(adv.)

Southeastern To Consider Subsidization Proposal at Meeting

Grantland Rice's All-America football team is announced today with Riley Smith, of Alabama, as quarterback.

The Smith boys do very well indeed on this team, which is the most important All-America selection of the year.

There are three of them on the team. Minnesota's Smith wins a tackle position and Ohio State's Smith wins a place at guard. Riley Smith is the lone Smith in the backfield.

Selection of Riley Smith will meet with unanimous approval. He probably is the finest quarterback developed in the south in a decade. He did all things well.

The Southeastern conference places two men and Southwestern football moves to the forefront with three players on the team.

Gaynell Tinsley, L. S. U.'s big end, is the second Southeastern conference player on the team. It is very doubtful if there was as good an end in football last season as Tinsley.

Southern Methodist places two players and Texas Christian one.

Rice's team is intelligently selected. It is not made up, as are most of the All-America teams, so that each section places a man. It is carefully and thoroughly arranged and represents, for that reason, the team the boys want to make.

Southeastern conference football, with two men on the team, again ranks on a par with the best football played in the nation.

COACHES HERE FOR MEETING.

Most of the coaches in our set will be in Atlanta today.

The important minds of our conference are to meet here today and tomorrow, letting their thinking gears mesh on various athletic problems.

They will come up with the very sensible rule that an athlete may receive scholarships because of his athletic ability. This need not cause any surprise as it has been done right along but this year the gentlemen seem determined to make an honest woman of the problem, so to speak. They will have it legal. This is expected to cause several newspaper headlines to the effect the Southeastern conference now permits its athletes to receive remuneration for their play. It should be kept in mind that this will not mean a single change in the customs now in vogue.

The ruling will be nicely done up in exquisite verbiage and the meaning concealed as well as possible. But it will be there. And, as aforesaid, it merely legalizes the present methods.

It will do away with subterfuge and will permit the various faculty chairmen of athletics to sleep with an easy conscience and not have to wince within as they think of how they have had to dodge the issue on their reports.

The scholarships will not be more than the amount of money required for room, board, tuition and fees. There is no valid reason why an athlete should not receive any available scholarship so long as it is available on the same basis to other students.

THE HUMAN CLAY PIGEONS.

The coaches, the human clay pigeons for alumni, will hold a meeting here. They really have little to do in the way of business.

The boys meet on a very even basis. Only Bernie Moore, at L. S. U., won all his conference games and he dropped one of the non-conference tilts to Rice. No coach is undefeated or untied. All of which makes for pleasanter meetings. Years in which one coach dominates the scene finds him a little inclined to try and teach the boys a little football at the annual meetings. There will be none of that this year.

Coaching is generally good. There is really very little poor coaching being done. Poor results mean, inevitably, inadequate material.

Red Drew, Alabama's very fine end coach and assistant to Frank Thomas, summed up the coaching situation at the Alabama banquet in Birmingham Wednesday night. He had been introduced as a man who had done a great job of coaching ends at Alabama.

"I won't be nearly as good a coach next year as I was this past year," said Drew. "We lose Jimmy Walker, Hillsman Walker and Paul Bryant. So that means I won't be nearly as good a coach next fall."

BOSTON BRAVES GET AL LOPEZ FROM BROOKLYN

Quinn Sends Brandt, Moore to Dodgers as Majors Close Session.

By Leland L. Chesley.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12. — (UP)—While major league baseball club owners were closing their eventful mid-winter conference, Bob Quinn today obtained a much-needed catcher, Al Lopez, to strengthen his newly-acquired Boston Braves.

In the final trade of the meeting, Quinn sent Pitcher Ed Brandt and Infielder Randy Moore to the Brooklyn Dodgers in exchange for Lopez, Infielder Tony Cuccinello and Pitchers Ray Benge and Robert Reis.

At the same time, Quinn announced he had sent Pitchers Flint Rhem and John Van De Mere to the Nashville club of the Southern association.

Later, Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, conferred with Quinn in an attempt to work out a deal centering about the Braves pitcher, Fred Frankhouse.

Quinn wanted Charley Gelbert and either another player or cash in exchange for Frankhouse, but Rickey wouldn't listen. After failure of the negotiations, Rickey announced purchase of Catcher Ogrodowski and Infielder Stuart Martin from the Columbus club of the American association. He said both were to remain with the Cardinals and would not be sent elsewhere.

APPROVE PURCHASE.

While the National league approved the Braves acquisition by Quinn, who took over the club by assuming its heavy indebtedness and guaranteeing to provide working capital for the 1936 season, the American league took no action on the St. Louis Browns. Until last Monday, a St. Louis syndicate had been negotiating for the purchase of the Browns.

The two leagues met together today to act upon inter-league affairs, having spent the two previous days in settling their respective league problems.

Today the National league rejected the recommendation of the American Baseball association to lower admission prices to children under 15 years. The American league previously had approved a plan whereby children would be admitted for 25 cents.

To develop interest in the game, the leaguers appropriated $20,000 for enlargement of the American Legion's junior baseball program, but rejected another proposal for an equal appropriation to help finance the American baseball team in the 1936 Olympic games.

The leagues concurred in a proposal to prevent their stars from playing in exhibition games not associated with league contests. Both groups approved a resolution which prohibited players from "barnstorming" 10 days after the close of the regular season.

SETTLE PROBLEM.

Another inter-league problem settled today was designed to avoid a recurrence of the incident during the last World Series when Chicago Cubs players accused Umpire George Moriarity of favoring the Detroit Tigers because he was an American league umpire.

Remembering that, the league approved a proposal that all umpires for inter-league contests be appointed by the advisory council, consistsing of the presidents of the two leagues and Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis.

The all-star game next year will be played in Boston at the Braves' park some time in July, it was decided.

Cards Add Sacramento To Long Chain.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 12.—(UP)—The Sacramento Senators' baseball club franchise was "sold" to the St. Louis Cardinals today and the local club and ball park will be used as one of the Cardinal farms to develop players for the National league team.

Prep Boxing To Begin Jan. 17

The first boxing match for Atlanta's prep schools has been set for January 17. On this date the G. M. A. ringmen will meet the strong Boys' High team in what should prove to be an interesting card. Tech High, third member of the league, will not open its card until January 24.

According to Athletic Director M. C. Paget, of G. M. A., the latest plan is to determine a city champion in this sport for the year. Records of the various teams will kept so that at the end of the year the leading team as to the number of bouts won and lost will be declared the first city champion. Ten and 12-ounce gloves are the standard set, and A. A. U. rules will be observed.

The schedule follows:

January 17—G. M. A. vs. B. H. S.
January 24—T. H. S. vs. G. M. A.
February 7—Open date (Boys' High in Statesboro).
February 13—B. H. S. vs. T. H. S.
February 20—G. M. A. vs. T. H. S.
February 27—G. M. A. vs. B. H. S.
March 12—B. H. S. vs. T. H. S.

Athens High Teams Play Double Header

Two Southerners Named on Rice's All-America

Riley Smith, left, Alabama quarterback, and Gaynell Tinsley, L. S. U. end, were signally honored today by being selected on Grantland Rice's All-America team. Rice's team is considered by a majority of sports experts as the most authentic of the all-star elevens. Both players have turned in outstanding performances for their respective schools during the past season. And both were selected on the Associated Press All-America.

Panthers Seek To End Coast Losing Streak

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's football team, usually successful enough in other cities, proposes to end its losing streak in California Saturday.

Irked by three defeats in as many western jaunts since 1928, Coach Jock Sutherland is setting the stage for what he hopes will be a thundering song of revenge with downtrodden Southern California on the receiving end.

Coach Sutherland first brought Pitt west for a Rose Bowl encounter with Stanford and saw his team lose, 7 to 6. It was a hard, defensive battle, with each team scoring in the third period on fumbles. The margin of victory was Biff Hoffman's kick for point after the invaders had failed to do so.

Strangely enough, this was Stanford's lone triumph in the New Year's intersectional classic, although the Indians have made five other appearances.

Pitt came back two years later to tackle the Trojans, who completed passes all over the premises and handed the Panthers a 47-to-14 trouncing, the most one-sided ever written into Rose Bowl history.

The crowning insult came from these same Southern Californians in 1933 when they set up another scoring mark at Pittsburgh's expense with a 35-to-0 shellacking.

So it is small wonder that Coach Sutherland is planning what he hopes will be a touchdown-studded gridiron victory to take back home this season.

At any rate, 50,000 persons are expected to pour into Memorial coliseum to see what Pitt is going to do about its California record.

Baseball Deals

TAITT SOLD.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 12.—(AP) Returning today from the major league baseball meeting at Chicago, President Fay Murray announced that his Nashville Vols had acquired Flint Rhem, veteran of the big show, and John Vandermeer, both pitchers, from the Boston Braves.

Murray said also that Poco Taitt, the Southern association's 1935 batting champion, had been sold to Minneapolis of the American association.

Both purchased outright, Rhem was in the International league last season while young Vandermeer spent the past two years in the New York-Penn loop.

BARONS GET HURLER.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(UP)—Roy Joiner, relief pitcher for the Chicago Cubs during 1934 and the early part of 1935, was released outright to the Birmingham club of the Southern association tonight. He finished the 1935 season with San Francisco.

The Cubs announced that Eddie Chiboki, rookie second baseman who played with Albany this year, also was released outright to Birmingham.

Roy Helixon, outfielder owned by Cubs, was sent to Birmingham on option. He played this season with Grand Forks in the Northern league.

THEVENOW SOLD.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Tommy Thevenow, a jack-of-all-trades in the Pittsburgh Pirates infield for the past five seasons, was sold to the Cincinnati Reds for an unnamed sum.

The deal was closed after the annual major league meeting ended.

BRADLEY ENTRIES.

Colonel E. R. Bradley, four times winner of the Kentucky Derby, has sent a couple of promising two-year-olds to Florida. One or both may get the call in the Kentucky Derby over the horses to be retained at Idle Hour farm, Lexington.

Collier's All-America Names Smith, Tinsley

Pickle Given Honorable Mention; Southern Football Gains 'Unquestioned Pre-eminence.'

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Two players each from Southern Methodist and Stanford, forthcoming Rose Bowl rivals, are included on Collier's 1935 All-America football team, announced today by the magazine. The team was selected by Grantland Rice and his board.

The selections, unique in including three Smiths, follow:

ENDS—Gaynell Tinsley, Louisiana State, and Monk Moscrip, Stanford.

TACKLES—Dick Smith, Minnesota, and Truman Spain, Southern Methodist.

GUARDS—John Weller, Princeton and Inwood Smith, Ohio State.

CENTER—Darrell Lester, Texas Christian.

QUARTERBACK — Riley Smith, Alabama.

HALFBACKS — Bobby Wilson, Southern Methodist, and Jay Berwanger, Chicago.

FULLBACK — Bobby Grayson, Stanford.

"Southern football," says Collier's, "which captured four places a year ago, has taken a fifth place and with it has won, for the first time in football history, unquestioned pre-eminence in the top flights of the game."

The magazine adds that backfield selections proved difficult. It credits Andy Pilney, of Notre Dame, with the "season's finest backfield performance," against Ohio State, and describes Sammy Baugh, of Texas Christian, as the "best forward passer of the year." Other outstanding backs were listed as follows: Goddard, of Washington State; Cheshire, of U. C. L. A.; Beise and Roscoe, of Minnesota; Pickle, of Mississippi State; Meyer, of Army; Buivid, of Marquette; Shakespeare, of Notre Dame.

Strauseeans Meet Nordaus in Finals

Final rounds in the Atlanta Young Judean basketball tourney will be held Sunday afternoon with the Nordaus meeting the Straussean quintet.

The Nordaus defeated the S. I. J. while the Strausseans trimmed the Hertzilites to gain the championship flight. The winner will annex the Atlanta Y. J. title and will represent Atlanta in the annual conclave to be held here in December.

Meyer Balser coaches the Nordaus while Marvin Sugarman is in charge of the Strausseans. The game will start at 5 o'clock and will be played on the Alliance court.

Cherokee League Bills Five Games

The big series for which the fans of the Cherokee Girls' Basketball league have been waiting will be played on the Y. W. C. A. court tonight with the Mackey Beauty Shop's club and the girls from Miller Service playing the curtain-raiser. The final game of the night that will bring together the two undefeated teams—Rock Island Railroad and Inman Park Baptist—will draw the spotlight.

The schedule follows:

Miller Service vs. Mackey's Beauty Shops, 7 p. m.
Fulton Bag vs. Marietta, 7:40 p. m.
Gas Light vs. L. G. W. Union, 8:20 p. m.
Rock Island R. R. vs. Inman Park, 9 p. m.

Isenberg Winner In Bulldog Meet

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 12.—Johnny Jones, 171, Georgia halfback, today was decisioned by Walter N. Isenberg, 171, in a light-heavyweight title bout of the university intramural boxing tourney here. Jones' home town is Duluth, Minn., while Isenberg is from Augusta.

ATHENS ELEVEN IN CHARITY TILT

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 12.—The Athens High undefeated football team and tenth district champions, will conclude their 1935 season Friday night in Lakeland, Fla., where they will engage a powerful Lakeland eleven in a post-season charity contest.

Lakeland in nine games has won eight and tied one, while the "Classic City" boys have chalked up 10 successive victories in as many starts.

Last Friday Athens won the tenth district gridiron title by defeating Hartwell, 33 to 7, in Sanford stadium.

Two of the outstanding high school fullbacks will be seen in action during the contest. Dick Upchurch, of Athens, with 13 touchdowns and three extra points to his credit was high scorer in the tenth district this season with a total of 81 points.

L. S. Wheeler, Lakeland, All-Big Ten fullback, headed the individual scoring in that conference with 10 touchdowns and 13 extra points for a total of 73 markers.

Some 22 players and coaches left here early Thursday morning by bus on their 465-mile journey to Lakeland.

The probable lineups:

Riley, Tide Gridder, Has Knee Operation

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Joe Riley, star Alabama halfback, was in a hospital today, but the "mouse" in his knee was gone.

The "mouse," physicians did not explain what it is, troubled Riley all season. Physicians operated, but the mouse, as mice will do, escaped.

Then last night Riley came to Birmingham for the annual alumni association banquet, bringing the "mouse" with him.

The banquet was great fun. Riley and the rest of the squad departed, but the Dothan flash twisted his knee. Out came "mousie." To the hospital went Joe. Physicians came. They operated.

Joe is going home this afternoon, but the "mousie" won't go back to the university with him.

TUNNEY THROUGH.

Gene Tunney, stopping en route from the west coast to New York, indicated he was through with politics. Asked if he would campaign for President Roosevelt as he did in 1932, he said: "I don't think so; I may be out of the country during the next presidential election."

OUTRIGHT 'HELP' MAY BE VOTED BY CONFERENCE

Executive Committee's Amendment Expected to Pass Today.

By Jack Troy.

Southeastern conference officials convene in Atlanta for a two-day meeting, beginning this morning, and out of the sessions is expected to come a new amendment to the constitution on the old matter of the subsidizing of athletes.

"To subsidize or not to subsidize" is expected to be the chief theme of the two-day parley.

It is known that the executive committee will offer a proposal, as follows:

To rescind all present rules and regulations pertaining to the subsidizing of athletes and substitute the following:

SCHOLARSHIPS.

Athletes may receive for their athletic services any aid, such as scholarships, work or any other financial assistance, such as any other student may receive for participation in any other activity. Such aid, however, should not be in excess of legitimate expenses of attending the institution, as represented by tuition, fees, books, board and lodging.

Other proposals of similar nature will be offered by some officials of schools represented at the meeting. A three-fourths vote is required to adopt the proposal.

All the presidents, faculty chairmen, athletic directors and coaches will attend the sessions.

Another proposed change in the constitution will concern the opening day of practice. It will be asked that the present rule be amended to read not "the first Monday," but "the first day" in September.

LENGTHEN SEASON.

It also will be asked that the football season be allowed to continue for 12 weeks after the first game, rather than the 10 weeks as now in effect. This would allow the scheduling of 12 games, should any schools so desire.

It is pointed out that several conference schools schedule games as early as September 17 and thus do not have more than two weeks to prepare for them. Another talking point is that outside opponents do not observe any such rules and have the jump on Southeastern teams.

Coach Roy Mundorff, of Georgia Tech, will seek to have the conference agree to change a new basketball rule which went into the books without the knowledge of the coaches.

It is the three-second rule that says no member of the offensive team may remain longer than three seconds in the foul area. That includes all offensive players, whether they have the ball or not.

Coach Mundorff is in favor of going back to the old rules. He will lead the fight to have the new rule changed.

MILITARY COACHES.

No discussion is planned relative to the banning of military coaches in the conference. The subject has been considered by the athletic directors, but no action could be considered at this meeting.

The southeastern executive committee includes J. J. Tigert, University of Florida, president; W. Hemingway, Mississippi, vice president; W. D. Funkhouser, University of Kentucky, secretary-treasurer; J. J. Doster, University of Alabama, and R. L. Menuet, Tulane.

Athletic directors who will attend the meeting include Hank Crisp, Alabama; Jack Meagher, Auburn; Edgar Jones, Florida; W. A. Alexander, Tech; H. J. Stegeman, Georgia; Chet Wynne, Kentucky; T. P. Heard, L. S. U.; R. . Patty, Mississippi State; Ed Walker, Mississippi; Gordon Clark, Sewanee; Paul Parker, Tennessee; Wilbur Smith, Tulane, and Colonel Dan McGugin, Vanderbilt.

Owens, Hughes To Participate In 'Atlanta Day'

Johnny Owens and Julius Hughes are two of the prominent Atlanta golfers who will participate in the tournament to be held this week-end at Augusta. A large group of amateurs are forming an expedition to meet the occasion with the true Atlanta spirit, for it will be "Atlanta Day in Augusta."

A 36-hole medal tourney will be held over the beautiful Forrest Hills course. Play, starting with the first round Saturday afternoon, will reach its peak in the final round to be played Sunday morning.

There is no green or entry fee, and the Atlanta players' home-club handicap will be applied. It also might be mentioned that the course is the same one on which Bobby Jones won the South Atlantic open golf championship in 1930, finishing with a score of 13 strokes over his nearest competitor.

A COMPLETE EYE FULL.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—Max Schmeling tonight will get a complete eye full of the young fellow he is to meet next June—a young fellow by the name of Joe Louis. The German fighter has faced his share of heavyweights in the past few years, about as good as they happened to come at that time, but he has yet to find out what it means to step into the ring with either Joe Louis or one of Frank Buck's black panthers.

What Joe Louis will do against the concrete fortress of Paulino's chin may depend on what chances the Bomber decides to take with a pair of valuable hands. The Basque axeman has carried a battleship jawbone further than anyone I ever saw in sport. But he will be clipped tonight in a new fashion where he will see more Spanish castles than Spain ever dreamd about.

Just how buoyantly Louis may decide to bounce his two million dollar flippers against solid rock is a guess.

There must be some form of thrill in having a chin nobody can crack, but it is the type of thrill few of us look for. There must be a drawback somewhere. It can't be all pleasure. But the old Basque Axeman seems to like it, and if he doesn't mind I can see no reason why any one else should complain.

There is always the chance that Joe Louis may decide that his two hands are more important than Paulino's jaw. Outside of that one subtle thought the two don't belong on the same continent as fighters. Louis, however, may be so surprised to have some opponent actually try to hit him that he may faint. No other rival has thought of this quaint idea in over a year. When it is all over we have an idea that Max Schmeling will do some solemn thinking—unless some one persuades Louis that he shouldn't be in too much of a rush or hurry with next June's gate in mind. This has happened before in the noble art of self-defense, as incredible as it may seem.

RIDER IN TROUBLE.

Apprentice Cornelio Mojena, of Havana, leading rider at the Fair Grounds, still is in trouble despite the fact he has been through four revolutions and a half dozen hurricanes. Immigration authorities at New Orleans are investigating his length of residence in this country. Unless they are satisfied he has not overstayed his leave, they will send him back to Cuba.

OMAHA SEEKING ENGLISH GLORY

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—c—William Woodward's Omaha, king of the 1935 three-year-olds, will invade the English turf next year if he has fully recovered from the mysterious ailment that forced his retirement last August.

The stretch-running son of Gallant Fox, which like his famous sire won the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, Belmont Stakes and the Arlington Classic, is doing light work at his owner's Belair stud in Maryland. Even to the expert eye he shows no signs of the ailment that has had his trainer, James Fitzsimmons, and veterinarians guessing since he went lame after winning the classic.

'He appears perfectly sound," said Tommy Driscoll, foreman of the stable. "Of course he is only being galloped but I intend to bring him back to Aqueduct December 22 and put him in hard training. Captain C. Boyd-Rochfort, Mr. Woodward's English trainer, will be here to watch the colt and pass on his fitness to race abroad."

Only an extended workout can determine whether Omaha is ready to go after the coveted Ascot gold cup, the race in which Mrs. John D. Hertz's Reigh Count finished second in 1929.

During the year, the chestnut speedster piled up earnings of $142,275. He was first in six of his nine starts, finished second back of Rosemont in the Withers' mile and wound up third in the Wood Memorial and Brooklyn Handicap. The Brooklyn was won in the world record time of 1:48 1-5 for one and one-eight miles by Discovery, with King Saxon second.

JUNIOR ELEVENS MEET SATURDAY

The championship battle of the Junior Boys' League with the following teams participating, the Firecrackers, Ramblers, Midgets and Bonebenders, will be played at Piedmont Park Saturday afternoon. These boys have been playing football in the league for the past few weeks and have practically attained perfection in the various departments of the game.

The games will begin promptly at 2 p. m. and 3:30 p. m. The Firecrackers and Midgets will battle it out in the first encounter. In the second, the Ramblers tackle the Bonebonders.

Officials of the league announced that the winners of these two games will play Friday, December 20, on the same field starting at 3 o'clock. They also announced that the first and second all-star teams would play Saturday, December 21. They did not announce the place or time of this game, however. The championship games will be free and the public is invited to attend.

James Swanner Wins Auburn Cake Race

AUBURN, Ala., Dec. 12.—A promising high jump prospect, James Swanner, Luverne, Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledge, surprised his instructors by conquering a classy field of 623 to win ranking honors in Alabama Poly's seventh annual cake race. All except 76 of the 623 entering Auburn's thrilling cake race finished some time during the afternoon.

Defeating the favorite, Elmer Bissell, Birmingham, Swanner conquered the 2.7 mile cake race course in 15:17.5, which is the third best time in the history of this interesting event here. Although he has been training for the high jump, Swanner probably will be given considerable work for the distance runs in the future. He has lots of endurance and put on a burst of speed the concluding 200 yards of the race that enabled him to finish well ahead of Perry Lamar, Lake Wales, Fla., winner of second place. Bissell was third.

Sugar Bowl Tilt To Be Broadcast

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 12.—(UP)—The Sugar Bowl football game between Louisiana State and Texas Christian University on New Year's will be broadcast over a coast-to-coast radio hookup, Warren V. Miller, president of the Midwinter Sports Association, sponsors, announced tonight.

The broadcast will start at 1 p. m., central standard time, and will carry all details of the game. The radio concern agreed to send a nationally-known announcer for the event.

Here and There In Sports

By Eddie Brietz.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—No wonder the boys always are glad to see Tom Yawkey show up at the major league meetings . . . he seldom fails to scatter a hundred thousand or so around before he leaves . . . he's right up to form at Chicago this week . . .

George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, is picking Detroit to beat New York in the National Football league playoff . . . Harrold Eckert, of Columbus, burned up at Bill Corum's efforts to send Princeton to the Rose Bowl, postcards: "If Bill visited the Bronx zoo, he couldn't see anything but tigers" . . . The entire west coast breathed more freely when Jack Sharkey refused to go out there to fight Buddy Baer.

Yale's gridders insist Navy hit harder and was tougher than any team on the 1935 schedule . . . But for efficiency Princeton took the honors . . . The Tigers moved every man on every play at full speed and unlike most teams did their blocking without losing ground contact . . . Webb Davis, one of the smallest men on the squad, was Yale's iron man this year . . . He played 459 minutes out of a possible 540.

Big Jim Weaver, Pirate pitcher, made a speech before the Optimists' Club at Covington, Ky., the other day. . . . A member asked: "Are you as good a pitcher as Dizzy Dean?" . . . Jim modestly declined to answer . . . Both North Carolina and Purdue will have scouts on hand when New York University opens the big-time basketball season against California next week.

Eulace Peacock, Temple's runner, has started training for the indoor season . . . Gene Tunney ranks Jimmy Braddock as the No. 1 heavyweight with Joe Louis second . . . Best fighter he's ever seen: Dempsey . . . (Which doesn't make Tunney look half bad.)

Here's some more dope on that Arkansas team we told you about yesterday . . . It completed almost as many passes last season as all the teams in the Big Six conference combined . . . The passes gained 1,455 yards to 1,647 for the combined Big Six teams . . . George (Tiny) Parker, International league umpire, is headed for one of the majors . . . He's the only ump in captivity who is a promotional director . . . He holds that title with a big Miami hotel.

Marion-Cagesters Defeated By Selma

MARION, Ala., Dec. 12.—Marion Institute Cadets lost a hard-fought game to the Selma Y. M. C. A. Dribblers by the score of 21 to 16. The two teams fought on even terms until the last two minutes of the game, when the Triangles rallied to scoree five points to win. The half found the score tied at nine-all. The Cadets took an early lead and held it until the half and the final rally of the Selma team. DeBray, Ball and Watters played the best game for Selma, while the work of Palmer was the high light in the play of the Cadets. The Cadets meet Mackin Electric Company of the Selma Y. M. C. A. Commercial league in their next game on Thursday night.

Grid Regulations Opposed in Poll

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—University of North Carolina students—or at least that small portion of them who voted in a poll conducted by the Daily Tar Heel, student paper—oppose regulations for athletes recommended by the National Association of State Universities.

Despite the fact that Dr. Frank Graham, president of the university, is chairman of the committee which made the recommendations, the student poll—participated in by less than one-tenth of the student body—showed an average vote of 128 to 28 on six questions, as follows:

For preferential treatment of athletes in the matter of college expenses and jobs.

Against requiring detailed statements of income sources of athletes.

For administering alumni gifts to athletes through athletic associations.

For subsidization of athletes by alumni.

For solicitation of prospective athletes by coaching staffs.

For post-season football games.

Down the Alleys

W. A. Lee toppled 132 duckpins in the second game of league competition with the Coca-Cola Club league Thursday afternoon for the high single game, and tied the high three-game total with Hunter Bell, both having 321.

Mr. Bell had 116-97-108 to build up his big total. Delonev Sledge had 318 for his three-game total with scores of 98-104-116. Hall, Keen, Carver, Gibson, Harrell and Foster had games well over the 100 mark. Lydia Hollinshead was high for the ladies with a 100 game in the opener.

Louisa Robert has been getting in some practice spilling the little pins this week, the first bowling that she has attempted since last August. Several games over the 100 mark were included in the scores of this swimming champion this week, despite the lack of activity on the maple paths for five months.

Fifteen of these Telephone league bowlers had games of 100 or better in the opening game of last night's series. The high scorers included H. L. Philler, C. W. Dennis, Malone, Cornett, L. Cobb, Snyder, Harris, Hanson, Norman, M. D. Barnett, Hays, Wilbanks, Lewis, Lewanda.

Watkinsville Five Plays Carnesville

WATKINSVILLE, Ga., Dec. 12. Friday night, here, the flashy Watkinsville cage team will encounter a strong Carnesville five. Monday night, here, the local quintet will make a desperate attempt to defeat Tech High, of Atlanta.

FIRST TRIES GOOD.

In all three games the University of Wisconsin basketball team has played and won this season, the first shot a Badger took went for a field goal. The Badgers have equalled the defensive record of last season in holding opponents to 37 points. They have scored 73 points as compared with 93 for the first three games last season.

AMERICA The National Weekly Poll of Public Opinion SPEAKS

Traditionally, newspapers have furnished their readers with FACTS ABOUT FACTS—the news of the day—accurate, speedy reports of latest happenings at the seat of war, in the world's capitals, at the scene of some awesome disaster, at a huge sporting event . . .

A second type of serious reading matter — OPINION ABOUT FACTS—has long been a staple on the newspaper's bill of fare. . . . Editorial comment on governmental policies; helpful criticism of books, plays, talking pictures; advice on problems of beauty, health, bringing up children, planning home menus, dressmaking . . .

And now, through the National Weekly Polls of the American Institute of Public Opinion, come FACTS ABOUT OPINION.

In many ways FACTS ABOUT OPINION are the most important matters for citizens to know today. It is the opinion of the majority of the persons in the United States that eventually determines public policy. In the past the difficulty in operating a government of opinion, like our own, has been the lack of an authoritative, impartial and scientifically accurate method of learning quickly and correctly what the people as a whole are thinking about men and issues in the public eye.

Such a method has now been discovered and tested over a period of two years. The American Institute of Public Opinion in America Speaks, the National Weekly Poll of Public Opinion, is making weekly reports on the state of national sentiment on matters of public significance.

Perhaps the most significant report yet made in this series of weekly polls will be published next Sunday in The Constitution when American citizens tell what they think is the most vital issue now confronting them. This nation-wide expression of opinion has come from thousands of mailed ballots and personal interviews. Persons in every walk of life are represented in the returns.

No list of questions was printed on the ballots. Every voter had to decide for himself what is the most vital issue facing America and write in his own answer.

You will be interested to read the result of this nation-wide poll—together with the reasons advanced by the voters in support of their choice—in

Paulino Expected to Prove Stern Opposition for Louis Tonight

BROWN BOMBER RULES FAVORITE TO COP BATTLE

Joe Lipps, Georgia Fighter, Meets Marek in Preliminary Bout.

By Eddie Brietz.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—With all signs pointing to the first Madison Square Garden sell-out since the ill-fated Primo Carnera-Ernie Schaaf affair three years ago, the spectacular Joe Louis and Paulino Uzcudun, of Spain, clash tomorrow night in what is billed as a 15-round engagement.

Indications tonight are there will not be a vacant seat when Louis and the 36-year-old woodchopper climb through the ropes at approximately 10 o'clock, eastern standard time.

If the fight attracts the Garden capacity of 20,000, it will mean a gate of well over $100,000, the first to pass that mark since the start of the Jimmy-McLarnin-Billy Petrolle series back in 1929.

Although the "Brown Bomber" is a top-heavy favorite, fight circles consider the affair important as it may furnish the sternest test Louis' famed punching ability has known since he turned pro a little more than a year ago.

NO KNOCK-DOWNS.

The negro, who has won 21 of his 23 professional fights by knockouts, may find it is going to take all he has in shop to flatten the Burly Basque. Paulino has never been knocked down in 69 ring battles.

James J. Braddock, ruler of all the heavyweights, will head a big delegation of fight notables who will focus critical eyes on the Detroiter as he turns loose his heavy artillery on Paulino.

Five former heavyweight kings will be at the ringside. They are Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Jack Sharkey, Primo Carnera and Max Schmeling, who is matched to fight Louis next June.

Their training finished, both fighters lolled around their training camps today, each predicting victory. Summed up, the pre-battle statements were:

Louis—A knockout in six rounds.

"I WILL WIN."

Paulino—"I will win. Louis will not knock me down."

The fight has attracted attention all over the country. There will be large delegations here from Chicago, Detroit and other western cities. It was necessary to install an additional row of seats in the working press section and then fully half of the requests for reservations had to be turned down.

Police Commissioner Valentine has ordered 1,252 extra policemen on duty around the Garden and in uptown Harlem. Several hundred will be assigned to the Garden area. They will not carry nightsticks.

Louis and Paulino will weigh in at the Garden at 2 p. m. tomorrow. The ceremony will be staged in the ring where the pair will meet later in the evening. The move from the offices of the State Athletic Commission was ordered to accommodate the crowds.

"Whitey" Bimstein, veteran trainer, who has been in charge of Paulino since he began work at Orangeburg a month ago, says his charge is in as good shape as in his last bout in this country, against Carnera in 1933.

BOMBER READY.

The Louis camp at Pompton Lakes, N. J., reports the Bomber ready. Louis' managers have a wholesome respect for Paulino's rugged jaw, but they say he will cut the Spaniard so badly the referee will stop the fight within six heats.

Jack Gibbons, promising light-heavyweight, son of the "Phantom Mike" Gibbons, the middleweight star of 20 years ago, makes his eastern bow against Billy Ketchell, of Philadelphia, in one of the preliminaries. The bout is scheduled for six rounds.

Joe Lipps, of Ty Ty, Ga., fights Max Marek, of Chicago, in another six, while Eddie Mader, of New York, and Al Ettore, of Philadelphia, clash in an eight.

The main bout will not be broadcast.

Jack Dempsey's Camp Set Spark for Youth

Hendersonville Site Gave Inspiration to Quarles, Mauler's Latest Acquisition.

By Dix Sarsfield.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—When Champion Jack Dempsey pitched a training camp on the side of a mountain near here in the spring of 1926 and bombed spar mates for $1,000 a day, he set off the spark of inspiration in a 14-year-old kid that Tuesday led to the latest stable acquisition of the Manassa Mauler.

A real estate development company imported Dempsey and his ring retinue as an attraction for "prospects" in the gay days of the real estate boom, but the 30 days the then-champion appeared in free workouts served more as a boom for pugilism among youngsters than it did for land sales.

Among the juvenile mob that daily climbed the slopes to peer through the ropes at the big bobbing and weaving figure was Norment Quarles, then a 63-pound tow-head youngster of 14 years—the same blond young warrior who Tuesday completed arrangements at New York to fight under the management of Dempsey and his partner, Max Waxman.

Quarles has come a long way along the rough ring path since he first glimpsed his new manager. At 22 now, he's a former southern conference lightweight champion and only recently scored a split decision over Freddie Miller, N. B. A. featherweight champion, at Pittsburgh.

SHREWD HANDLER.

Johnny Loy, a shrewd handler of fight men, operated a small stable here when Quarles and his older brother, Herbert, became ambitious in a fight way.

"His mother asked me to take him," Loy said today, "because he was anaemic. I worked with him from the start and we separated only last February."

Loy took his young product—they called him "Babe" then in contrast to his bigger brother—about the south and arranged amateur bouts for him on professional cards.

"He always had a good fighting heart, could take it and could give it," Loy commented.

Loy trained him through three years of high school here and later made frequent trips to Chapel Hill to offer advice when Quarles became a varsity belter for the University of North Carolina.

Asked what he thought of Quarles' future, Loy replied quickly:

"He can be featherweight and light weight champion within a year if he will use his head."

Loy believes "the best 18 months of his fighting" is directly before Quarles.

"He's a consistent trainer and a clean 'liver' and wants to keep going," he added.

Quarles, who last spring married Louise McLean, of Hendersonville, is still pursuing a law course and plans to become an attorney when his best fighting days are over.

GOLF NOTABLES READY TO PLAY IN MIAMI OPEN

Parks, Runyan, Picard, Laffoon, Armour To Test Rising Stars.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 12.—(AP)—A field of golfing notables, shot through with promising newcomers, tees off here Saturday in the sixth annual renewal of the Miami Biltmore $10,000 open, golf's richest prize.

Especially up-and-coming among the newer stars is Johnny Revolta, Milwaukee, Wis., the youngster of the big, strong hands, who is current professional Golfers' Association champion.

In 1932 the rangy, lantern-jawed Revolta, an ex-caddy, came down from Menominee, Wis., where he started, on borrowed money to enter the local classic.

He attracted little attention in practice rounds with the big names. Opening the tournament, however, found him racing into the lead, shooting straight for the top purse of $2,500, and only the steady Denny Shute managed to better his final score, 292.

Posting another 292 to finish second to Willie MacFarlane next year, Revolta definitely "arrived" in 1933 with his smashing victory in the P. G. A. tourney at Oklahoma City, his tie with Bobby Cruickshank for first place in the $2,500 Orlando open, and his victory, capped by an amazing 65 for the last 18 holes, in this week's $2,000 Sarasota open.

A host of champions, ex-champions, near-champions and veterans will be on hand Saturday, however, to test the mettle of Revolta, Kreuger and other rising stars. Among them are Sam M. Parks Jr., national open champion; Gene Sarazen, former British-American champion; Paul Runyan, leader of the pros in average medal score during the past year; Henry Picard, Metropolitan open titlist and runner-up to Runyan in the medal averages; Vic Ghezzi, Los Angeles open titleholder; Leo Diegel, Willie MacFarlane, Ky Laffoon, Harry Cooper, Tommy Armour and Joe Kirkwood.

LONDOS MEETS JORDAN TONIGHT

Young Londos, sensational Atlanta wrestler, meets Tarzan Ben Jordan in the main match at the new arena, corner Ellis and Piedmont avenue, tonight.

This will be the first meeting of these two outstanding wrestlers and this match should be one of the best ever staged here in the light heavyweight division.

Joe Wolf, Chicago, will meet Gentleman John Mauldin in the semi-final match.

Happy Yarn, Atlanta, meets Mike Zellers, Tulsa, Okla., in the opening 30-minute preliminary. The new arena has a seating capacity of 2,000 fans and will be well heated.

Florida Courtmen Depend on Speed

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Dec. 12.—(AP) Florida must depend upon speed and a shifty floor attack this season to offset the size of its basketball squad, one of the squattiest in years.

Injuries to three men, a hangover from the football grind, will hurt the team in early games. The trio of gridsters, all basketball guards, are Jack Beckwith, Floyd Christian and Robert Rickett.

The season was to open December 19, against Clemson, but university officials today announced the two-day series here had been cancelled. No reason was given for the cancellation. Georgia Tech now will play the opener with Florida here January 4.

SOUTH'N MAY VOTE NEW RESOLUTIONS

are head football coaches, including Meagher, Alexander, Wynne, Walker and Clark. Other coaches will include Harry Mehre, Georgia; Frank Thomas, Alabama; Major Ralph Sasse, Mississippi State; Dutch Stanley, Florida; Ray Morrison, Vanderbilt; Bill Britton, Tennessee, and Bernie Moore, L. S. U.

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Tech, will give the address of welcome as the conference meeting opens at 10 o'clock this morning.

There will be a banquet for the presidents, faculty chairmen of athletics and coaches at 6:30 p. m. Dr. S. V. Sanford, of Georgia, will be toastmaster. Dr. John J. Tigert will be the principal speaker.

The meetings will continue today. The subject of subsidy will rule the discussions. A new interpretation is expected.

Southern May Adopt 'Upheaval', Resolutions.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 12.—(AP)—The Times-Dispatch tonight says that presidents of institutions holding membership in the Southern conference adopted at their meeting here tonight certain resolutions which if adopted in toto by that body "may cause a nation-wide upheaval in college athletics."

Foremost of these resolutions, the paper says, were:

1. Absolute prohibition of any member of the coaching staff or athletic department offering special inducements to athletes, financial or otherwise.

2 Full publicity in college publications of all financial aid, jobs and otherwise, received by an athlete.

3. Making the athletic director and coaches personally responsible for all affidavits or certificates or eligibility signed by an athlete.

The meeting here was a closed affair, no outsiders being admitted to the deliberations. The Times-Dispatch said it learned, however, that these and other resolutions with "teeth" in them were adopted and will be presented to the conference for adoption Saturday morning.

This, the paper adds, is "virtually assured," in that the presidents themselves represent the nominal voting power of the conference.

Jones Named President Of Directors' Group

Athletic Heads of Southeastern Conference Organize at Meeting Here.

By Jack Troy.

Athletic directors of the Big Thirteen, meaning the Southeastern conference, met in solemn conclave last night at an Atlanta hotel and formed the first directors' association.

The purpose of this association is to arrange spring schedules—such as track and baseball—and to take up other such matters as railroad rates, which they did last night.

Edgar Charles Jones, of the University of Florida, was elected as the first president of the Directors' Association. Charles Griffin, of Georgia Tech, was named secretary.

Directors present included W. A. Alexander, Tech; Hank Crisp, Alabama; Jack Meagher, Auburn; H. J. Stegeman, Georgia; Chet Wynne, Old Kaintuck; Red Heard, L. S. U.; Colonel Paul Parker, Tennessee; Wilbur Smith, Tulane; R. P. Patty, Mississippi State; Ed Walker, Mississippi.

There was not, as had been rumored, any resolutions concerning military coaches. The matter did not come up. Or at least that is what the assembled athletic directors solemnly declared.

It was a closed meeting.

The report had originated that the directors would adopt some sort of resolution concerning the hiring of military coaches in the conference. The resolution was to have been presented to the executive committee. No such discussion was held or even contemplated, the athletic directors asserted.

Following the meeting such estimable football coaches as Frank Thomas, Alabama, and Ted Cox, formerly of Tulane but still a mighty fine coach, dropped in to visit.

It was all a prelude to the important business of the conference, which is to begin today. Open subsidizing of conference athletes is expected to result from the sessions.

J. P. C. TO PLAY COLUMBUS FIVE

The 1935 edition of the Jewish Progressive Club basketeers will open their home schedule Sunday night with the Columbus Y. M. H. A.

The Progressives have ended a six-week practice session under the guidance of their new coach, Shep Lauter, and seek to regain their lost laurels in southern basketball.

The Columbus aggregation is reputed to be a strong quintet and will furnish the Progressives plenty of opposition. The J. P. C. Reds will open the card at 8 o'clock in a preliminary game.

Triangles Meet Chattanooga Bostains

The Y. M. C. A. Triangles will meet the Chattanooga Bostains in the Lookout city tonight in their second road trip of the year. The Y's trimmed the Cherokee Indians in their opening game and will seek their second straight victory at the expense of the Bostains.

The Bostains formerly were the famed Chattanooga V 8's.

'Y' Wrestlers Meet Tech High Tonight

The Y. M. C. A. wrestling team will meet the Tech High school wrestling team tonight at the "Y" gymnasium. The Tech High boxing team will not meet the "Y" boxers as was advertised. Six boxing matches have been arranged and others will probably be scheduled. In the flyweight class Robert Cook, of the Boys' Club, will swap punches with Billie Richardson, of Emory; in the welterweight class Harvel Segars, of the club, will box Speedy Pratt, of the Y. M. C. A.; Charles Davis, Boys' Club, meets O. A. Rouse, of the "Y," in the middleweight division. Bob Dillard, boxing coach at the "Y," will take on Carey Moore, of Emory, in the bantamweight class. Harold Canning, of Emory, meets Pug Smith, of the Boys' Club, in the lightweight division. Popeye and Pruitt, of the Boys' Club, will meet in the "skeeter" weight. These boys although small, weighing around 60 pounds each, fight for the love of a fight.

The boxing ring will be erected for the bouts and special seating arrangement has been made to assure the crowd of good seats. The first match gets under way at 7:30 o'clock sharp.

Fort Poloists Win From Benning Team

FORT BENNING, Ga., Jan. 12.—In a fast game played on a slippery field the Fort McPherson polo team defeated the Fort Benning team, 12 to 7. The game was considered an upset as the local team was the heavy favorite.

This game was the first of a series to be played at Fort Benning. The second game will be played Sunday, and it promises to be a good one as both teams are out to win.

The summary:

FORT McPHERSON—	Goals.
No. 1—Lieutenant "Bill" Smith	3
No. 2—Major T. E. Boudinot (Capt.)	3
No. 3—Major R. L. Creed	4
No. 4—Captain C. E. Hughes	2

Major Moore Wins Pinehurst Field Trials

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Major Moore, owned by F. S. Frank, of Madison, N. J., today won the Pointers' Club of America open derby here.

China Clipper, owned by Dr. O. A. Ford, of Winston-Salem, showed a wider range than Major Moore, finding two bevies to the other's one, but his attitude on game was not so good. He took second. Third place went to Homerun Dixie Dan, owned by Miss Claudia Phelps, of New York and Aiken, S. C.

KANNAPOLIS, N. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Just when it looked as if Catawba's soccer team, beaten in all its starts, was going to go through the season without a victory, Chet Smith, of Kannapolis, came to the rescue. Catawba was playing Kannapolis and Chet got mixed up and kicked a goal for the other side. Catawba won, 1-0.

Quits the Olympics

Firm in his conviction that America should not take part in the Olympic games in Germany next year because of the nazis' anti-Semitic actions, Herman Neugass (above), Jewish sprint star at Tulane University, has withdrawn from his place on the United States team. Associated Press photo.

Davidson's Football Policy Is Questioned

DAVIDSON, N. C., Dec. 12.—(AP) The question whether Davidson College football teams should continue to play those of the University of North Carolina, Duke University and N. C. State College was raised editorially in the Davidson Alumni Journal, issued yesterday.

Grier Martin, the editor, expressed no opinion, but said the "big three" of this state had come to outclass Davidson so far that alumni were discussing whether the school's football team should continue to schedule them.

GEORGIA CAGERS FOCUS ATTENTION ON ROAD GAMES

Enright Virtually Decides on Starting Team for Opening Tilts.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 12.—Coach Rex Enright tonight had virtually decided upon his lineup for Georgia's season opening road trip basketball games with Tulane and L. S. U. December 20, 21 and 23.

Dan Bowden and Frank Johnson, forwards; Jack Farren, center, and Harry Harman and Charlie Harrold, guards, is the way Coach Enright listed the tentative starting team. This group ran together in a 40-minute scrimmage this afternoon.

With Harrold working at guard instead of center, the choice quintet gave a "fair" exhibition. The lanky Macon boy has been shifted so that Jack Farren, bright pivot prospect, also from Macon, may have an opportunity to display his ability.

Only a light drill and a lecture are slated for Friday afternoon. The week's work will be wound up with a hard scrimmage Saturday afternoon. Term examinations are billed for next week, and little court work is foreseen for the Bulldog basketeers before they depart for New Orleans.

Athletic Director H. J. Stegeman plans to announce the complete 1936 schedule within a few days.

Badger Trainer Assumes Blame In Liquor Row

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 12.—(AP)—William J. Fallon, athletic trainer at the University of Wisconsin, assumed responsibility for a drink of whisky allegedly given Captain-elect John Golemgeske on a football trip.

The captain-elect, who set the campus and alumni astir with charges that Athletic Director Walter Meanwell encouraged a move to oust football Coach C. W. Spears, said yesterday that Meanwell gave him the drink.

Recalling the trip back to Madison after the Northwestern game this season, Fallon said: "Dr. Meanwell asked how John's leg was. I said it was coming along all right, but I wished I had a stimulant for him."

Fallon said Meanwell replied: "I have a stimulant in a vial." Fallon said Meanwell told him later the stimulant was whisky.

The athletic council's three-man committee, which will resume hearings in the case Saturday, met today to consider testimony of team members Tuesday.

"We are merely going over the testimony," Dr. Glenn Frank, university president and committee member, said. He said the committee had not talked to anyone about the charges since Tuesday and would not until Saturday.

O'Hara Demands Further Apology

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 12. (AP)—The Rev. John F. O'Hara, president of Notre Dame University, said today he was not satisfied with the qualified apology Professor George Owen made for his charge Notre Dame and other football players were "paid hirelings."

Professor Owen, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, yesterday apologized to President O'Hara "if any statement of mine is untrue."

Today President O'Hara wired Professor Owen in part as follows: "Please clarify your position by unqualified disavowal or withdrawal of any statement you have made derogatory to Notre Dame University or its coaching staff. The alternative is that proposed in my previous telegram, namely proof of alleged accusations."

- BREAK O' DAY -

president of the largest steel mill in Birmingham and a sportsman of great popularity, recalled in Birmingham a bit of football chicanery which indicates the good old days were pretty sly.

There was a great drop kicker in the middle west back in the 1893 period. And in those days they need but one football and probably had only one available for the game. The home team, wishing to prevent the drop kicker from doing his stuff, took the ball to an expert leather worker. And in one side of it near one end he inserted a weight.

The drop kicker tried all afternoon but to his amazement the football always took a wild flight to one side or the other. It was two years before the trick was discovered.

All of which comes under the head of bad sportsmanship, of course. The trick would be impossible today.

Colonel Landgrebe played at Case. He is famous as the hero of the first appearance of the headgear in football. They handed him one. He tried it on.

"Shucks," he said, flinging it to the ground. "I can't hurt anyone with that on my head."

FLOYD NELSON.

News of the death of Floyd Nelson comes as a severe shock to sports circles in Georgia. As district passenger agent of the A. & W. P. railroad he had managed many transportation problems for football teams of the state and was popular with players, coaches and newspapermen. He will be missed.

133 WHITEHALL

SMALL TOWN GIRL

BY BEN AMES WILLIAMS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

The Brannan homestead is in Carvel, a small town in New Hampshire, Kay Brannan, the younger of two sisters, lives at home anxiously awaiting the graduation from college of Emily in order that she, herself, may take her turn at college the following year. Each interesting letter from Emily further agitates Kay's desire to escape from the uneventful routine of her small town existence. On the way home from the postoffice Kay meets Lillian Radford, who tells her that Emily following graduation might secure the appointment to a vacancy in the local school the next season. Kay is horrified at the thought of her sister wasting her beauty and talents in Carvel but promises to tell Emily of the opportunity in her next letter.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT V.

Already steeled to give up this adventure to which she had so long looked forward hungrily, she refused to be denied the joy of sacrifice; and in the end both she and her father stayed at home. So Mrs. Brannan went down to Boston, and remained two nights instead of one, and she and Emily returned together one late afternoon, and that evening they all sat listening while first Mrs. Brannan and then Emily told them over and over all that there was to tell.

Kay found herself in Emily's presence astonishingly diffident. When they went upstairs together at last and were alone, Emily spoke of this. She was taller than Kay, with steady eyes and a firm mouth and chin; and when the door was closed behind them, she came to Kay and put her arm around the younger girl and said softly:

"Hello, Kay!"

Kay laughed. "Hello," she said, her voice unsteady.

"Glad to have me home?"

"So very glad!" Kay whispered, and hugged Emily hard. And the older girl held her close for a moment, and then thrust her away and said gently:

"Let me look at you! Are you all right? I was so sorry you couldn't come to commencement. Did you mind awfully?"

Kay shook her head. "I wanted to come, of course," she declared. "But I'd rather have the extra money next year."

"You've changed, Kay," Emily suggested. "Since Easter vacation. You're—sort of quiet! There's nothing wrong?"

"I'm a little afraid of you," Kay confessed, mirthfully. "You're so—grown up, and dignified; and you seem to know so many things I don't know. You're the same, Emily, aren't you? You haven't really changed?"

Emily laughed gently. "That's my platform manner, Kay," she confesesd. "You see, I've had to preside at meetings, and be parliamentary and impartial so much that it's hard to—unbend!"

Kay nodded. "I know," she agreed. And she said suddenly: "Emily, I think you were wonderful to that Helen Ripley, I mean—it was wonderful of you to be so firm with her—when you liked her brother so much, and he tried to persuade you not to."

Emily's color heightened faintly. "Why Kay," she urged, "he finally agreed that what I had decided was the best thing to do."

Kay eyed her inquisitively. "You do like him, don't you?" she suggested.

"Yes," Emily assented honestly. "He's interesting and intelligent, and—very charming. Of course, I like him." She opened the closet door to hang up her dress. "You're going to hate having to share this room with me, aren't you?" she remarked. "After having it all to yourself so long."

Kay had not begun to undress. She sat cross-legged on the bed and wagged her finger at the other girl. "Now you're trying to change the subject," she said accusingly. "You know perfectly well you're going to have to tell me every single thing about him, so you might as well begin."

Emily smiled, her cheeks bright. "There's nothing to tell, Kay," she insisted. "Except what I wrote you. I met him last winter, and liked him; and then when Helen got into that scrape. . . ."

"How about that night you went canoeing with him?" Kay demanded. "And did he come back to commencement?"

"Yes," Emily admitted.

Kay scrambled off the bed eagerly. "You didn't tell us a thing! Did mother meet him? Neither one of you even mentioned him, Emily. Emily Brannan, I think you're a stick! Now start at the beginning, please. Please, Emily!"

"Why, there isn't any beginning," Emily assured her, laughing, her cheeks afire. "I introduced him to mother, and mother liked him, and he's coming up some time this summer."

"When?"

"In July, he thought."

"What time in July?" Kay persisted. "Emily don't you realize I'm just gasping to hear all about it? Is he tall or short, light or dark, funny or serious, athletic or . . . Emily, if you don't tell me, this minute!"

Emily was loosing her hair; she began to brush it slowly, watching Kay with a bright amusement in her eyes. "Why, he's not so very tall," she said mischievously. "And not so very short. And he's sort of medium complexion, and I don't know whether he's athletic. . . ."

"Taller than you?"

"Mercy, yes."

"Taller than father?"

"Yes, I think so."

"What color are his eyes?"

"I never noticed. Blue, I suppose. Or gray. Or maybe brown. . . ."

"Thin, or fat, or . . ."

"Medium," Emily assured her mirthfully.

"What color's his hair?"

"Brown, I think. I think it would be curly if he didn't keep it cut so short."

"Is he crazy about you?"

Emily's cheeks were warm. "Why, we enjoyed being together," she said, her eyes for a moment shadowed happily.

"Is he is in love with you?" Kay insisted pertinaciously. "Are you engaged, Emily?"

"Of course not!" Emily cried.

"Not what?"

"Not engaged, Kay. Don't be absurd!"

Kay said judicially: "You needn't try to play student government with me, Emily Brannan. You're as red as can be!"

Emily was in her nightgown. "Kay, don't sit there like a question box," she urged. "Do get undressed. I'm sleepy."

"You've got to tell me. . . ."

"I'm going to turn out the light in another minute," Emily insisted.

"If you do, I'll turn it on again," Kay retorted. "Is he in love with you? Are you in love with him?"

"Kay, you're a nuisance," Emily assured her laughingly.

"There isn't a thing to tell you. . . ."

"Did he make love to you? That night on the lake?"

"He was mighty sweet," Emily said softly, smiling at her own thoughts.

"Did he try to kiss you?" Kay demanded; and then with a crow of delight: "Emily, you're red as fire! You'll burst into flames in a minute! He did, didn't he?"

Emily snapped out the light. "You're so slow, you'll just have to undress in the dark," she said; and Kay tried to reach the light switch, and Emily caught her, and they tussled together laughingly in the darkness of the big room till Emily swept Kay backward upon the bed and held her struggling there. She tugged off one of Kay's shoes and then the other; fumbled for a garter snap. "I'll undress you myself, if you haven't sense enough to!" she cried.

Kay twisted free, and she exclaimed in delighted accusation: "And you the head of student government, and so dignified! Emily Brannan, I'm surprised at you! Kissing in a canoe! What would Dean Willis say, if she knew?"

"We weren't—kissing—in the canoe!"

"When were you, then?"

"He didn't kiss me till we came ashore!" Emily's voice was rich with an embarrassed happiness.

"How many times? Did you love it, Emily?"

"Once!" said Emily. And: "Yes, rather!"

Kay crowed delightedly; and when presently she was undressed, they sat for a while on the edge of the bed, their arms entwined; and in the darkness Emily told what little there was to tell, and Kay held her close.

"Sweet. I'm so glad," she whispered at last. "Of course, he isn't good enough for you, but I know he's grand, and I'm crazy to met him, and if he isn't nice to you, I'll. . . ."

"Hh was dear to me," said Emily softly, happily.

"Did he ask you to marry him?"

"Of course not! We hardly know each other!"

"Know each other?" He kissed you, didn't he? What did he say when he did it?"

"Nothing, idiot! You can't talk when you're . . ."

"Then why did you let him?"

Emily said with a little chuckle: "Why—it seemed like a nice idea at the time. When you're older, you'll understand. . . ."

And Kay cried: "Pig! I'll make you eat them words!"

And they wrestled like boys till Mrs. Brannan called from the other room:

"Whatever are you two doing in there?"

So they were quiet, but they whispered long.

During the days that followed, Kay watched her sister with a lively attention. "It's becoming to you, Emily, to be in love," she said once. "Especially good for your complexion, darling . . ." Her quick tongue could always summon the bright color to Emily's cheek, and she delighted to do this. When a letter came one day from Dane, she brought it from the postoffice, but refused to surrender it to Emily.

"Not unless you promise I may read it," she bargained, but Emily said composedly:

"Why of course. Read it aloud if you like, Kay."

And Kay, when she had read the letter, said in a deep disappointment: "That's not what I call a love letter!" She added: "He doesn't say when he's coming, Emily!"

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

ROMANS AT HOME.

In the city of Rome, where there was much crowding, apartment houses were built. Some of these contained from five to seven stories, and were large enough to serve as home for hundreds of persons. Laws were passed to limit the height of such buildings, the limit being 70 feet in the time of Augustus. A family could rent an apartment containing several rooms, but as a rule the people who occupied such places were too poor to afford more than one or two rooms per family.

In some cases, the large apartment houses were very good-looking. Remains found at Ostia, the seaport which was closest to Rome, give us an idea of the apartments which were used by wealthy merchants. On the outside, these buildings looked like certain apartment houses of modern times.

The ruins of Ostia are among the "sights" of modern Italy. Parts of hundreds of buildings still stand, after the passage of from 1,500 to 2,000 years. For the most part, the walls of the houses were composed of brick. Red-colored brick was popular with people in that old Roman city.

Ancient Roman apartment house at Ostia. (Restored).

Three meals a day were the rule among the ancient Romans. In Rome and other large cities of Italy, it became the fashion to serve the heavy meal in the evening, but farmers clung to the older custom of having dinner at noon and supper in the evening. Table forks were not known to the Romans, and neither were table knives. There were, however, spoons—and fingers. Sometimes the spoons were made of silver. The dishes were of clay, as a rule, but now and then wooden dishes were used.

During a meal in the homes of wealthy families, it was a widespread custom to make use of couches instead of chairs, and to lean on an elbow while eating the food. A banquet was likely to last from shortly after sundown until midnight. Snails, the tongues of birds, and the brains of peacocks are among the strange items which were served. In addition to food, there was a broad supply of wine. The wine was mixed with water, and therefore did not so quickly deaden the brains of those who drank it, but sometimes feasters had to be carried away by their servants.

DRINKING PATROLMEN SUSPENDED 29 DAYS

Geeslin and Ivey Draw Penalty; Pendley and Askew Trials Postponed.

Y. F. Geeslin and S. L. Ivey, patrolmen, last night were suspended for 29 days each as the police committee of city council opened war on "off-duty" drinking by members of the police department.

Trial of Oscar H. Pendley, former secretary to Chief T. O. Sturdivant, and J. C. Askew, patrolman, under suspension for similar charges, was postponed until the January 2 meeting of the committee.

W. Paul Carpenter, attorney, representing Ivey and Geeslin, attacked the charges, contending that drinking in a man's home is not a violation of the law. Both men were at home when officers preferred the charges against them, and both were out of uniform.

Councilman G. Dan Bridges, committee chairman, served notice he would vote to fire any man from the department who drinks in public or on the streets, whether "in uniform or out or whether on duty or off."

Councilman Alvin L. Richards told committee members the committee should serve notice on policemen that "from the time they raise their right hands and take the oath as officers no liquor in any form at any time or under any circumstances will be tolerated by the committee."

No definite action, however, was taken on Richards' suggestion. Chief Sturdivant recommended the 29-day suspensions for Ivey and Geeslin.

Permits Revoked.

Permits for sale of beer and wine were ordered revoked for half a dozen local establishments on recommendation of police officers, who reported that liquor had been seized on the premises.

Following are the affected places: Walter E. Goga, 802 Pryor street; James Richards, 5 Journal way; Ralph's buffet, on East Fair street, where it is alleged Clifford Joyner, citizen, was attacked and later died from his wounds; R. M. Mansfield, 115 Walton street; William Morris, 1400 Peachtree street; H. T. Jackson, 146 Whitehall.

The 1936 police department budget will seek about $900,000 for operation and maintenance of the department, according to a tentative sheet approved by the committee.

Ten new automobiles; $2,500 for establishment of a radio repair shop; bullet-proof vests; $250 for a target range; $800 for new revolvers; $200 for badges; $868,000 for salaries of policemen and officers; $5,000 for office supplies in a drive to bring files up to date and to standardize the system along the lines laid down by the federal government; $2,000 for building repairs; $22,000 for operation of the departmental kitchen from which about 180,000 meals will be served, and $1,500 for equipping the gymnasium are among the items listed.

Veterans Pensioned.

R. E. Malone and J. A. Corley went on pension and W. A. Chewning was ordered to take his pension by the next meeting of the committee. All are veteran patrolmen.

G. M. Ellis, J. T. Malcom, H. F. Williams and M. J. Price, supernumeraries, were elevated to the regular list and Jesse Vernum and L. L. House were added to the supernumerary list.

Applicants for positions as policemen were ordered to call at the chief's office and fill out new application blanks, which have just been received. The committee expressed a desire to have all those not already elected make application on the standard blank.

AT ATLANTA'S THEATERS

Crowds Like 'Whipsaw' Playing Loew's Grand

The ever-personable Myrna Loy and the ever-popular Spencer Tracy delighted the audience yesterday at the opening of "Whipsaw," here for a week's engagement at Loew's Grand theater.

The feature picture is a breezy, high-spirited crook story in which Miss Loy is seen as the beautiful accomplice of an international ring of jewel thieves, carrying the secret of a vast haul with her and Tracy appears as a government agent.

Tracy tries to trap her into a romantic intrigue, in order to obtain the secret of the jewel theft. The lines are swift, sure and incisive, carrying the story along at a fast clip.

Miss Loy displays fine ability as an actress and comedienne in this picture, which should do much to further her popularity and Tracy, as usual, is excellent. His role fits him like the proverbial glove.

A thrilling transcontinental chase paces the film at a fast tempo and all audiences should enjoy the film as much as those who attended the opening yesterday.

The surrounding bill rounds out the program in an entertaining manner.

Wicked Barbary Coast On Paramount Screen

Few spots in the new world have contributed so much color to Americana as the glamorous old Barbary Coast of the San Francisco of the early fifties, when the waterfront of the city at the Golden Gate was a flaming panorama of gambling palaces, gilded hells and riotous women.

Into an authentic atmosphere of this resort where murder, arson, crimping and robbery were every day occurrences, Warner Brothers have brought the player who fits the role to a "T," James Cagney. The film, "Frisco Kid," opened yesterday at the Paramount theater.

With a price on his head and a murderous mob on his heels, Cagney is cast as the ruler of this "wickedest spot on earth." The film is packed with thrilling situations and Cagney and Margaret Lindsay, the feminine lead, carry on a strange romance amidst the stirring events of the day.

Others in the cast include Ricardo Cortez, Lila Damita, Donald Woods, Barton MacLane, George E. Stone, Joseph King and Robert McWade.

The characters are based on notorious characters of the time, culled from the dregs of humanity which flocked to the city of gold from every port in the world.

"Frisco Kid" is a film well worth seeing. A gigantic riot scene in which the city is rocked by terrific battles between vigilantes and the denizens of the coast alone is worth going to see.—A. C. L.

Prize Winning Amateurs Will Compete Tonight

In spite of the fact it is Friday the 13th, the Capitol theater will offer a super-amateur contest on the stage at 9 o'clock tonight. The participants in this special contest are selected from the list of first prize winners of regular contests of the past three months.

The first prize will be $20, the second $10, and the third a two-month pass to the Capitol. As usual the audience, by its applause, will select the winners and the prizes will be awarded immediately after the contest.

The following former first prize winners are scheduled to appear tonight: Al Corley, Laurie Lasseler, Trudie Moore, Cecil Webb, Keith England, Don White quartet, Arthur Calais, Charles Moss and Edith Meckel. This list is subject to change without notice.

This attraction is in addition to the regular program. The feature picture, "His Night Out" offers Edward Everett Horton as the star. The stage show, "Parisian Nights" is offering eight acts of vodvil with a 15-piece stage band. Completing the program is a group of selected short subjects including the latest issue of Pathe News.

Starting Sunday the Capitol will offer Gene Raymond in "Seven Keys to Baldpate." The new stage show will be "Mixed Nuts."

DR. O. G. KELLEY DIES AT RESIDENCE HERE

Dr. O. G. Kelley, 62, a practicing dentist in Atlanta for 35 years, died at about 8 o'clock last night at his home, 1044 Washington street, S. W.

Dr. Kelley was a native of DeKalb county and a graduate of Young Harris College and Southern Dental College. He was a member of Nellie Dodd Methodist church.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. W. S. Garvin and the Misses Mary and Evelyn Kelley; three sons, J. A., W. F. and James H. Kelley; five sisters, Mrs. C. E. Brantley, Mrs. T. O. Poole, Mrs. Claude Cobb, Mrs. Cuthbert Hervey and Miss Essie Kelley, and a brother, J. F. Kelley, of Clarkston, Georgia.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

SENATOR LEWIS BACK FROM RUSSIAN TRIP

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, who was stricken with pneumonia in Moscow, returned today on the United States liner Washington, convinced this nation should have "bided its time" in recognizing the soviet union.

William C. Bullitt, the American ambassador to Moscow, returned on the same ship for the Christmas holidays.

LUER KIDNAP SUSPECT ARRESTED IN GOTHAM

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—A man said by police to be Thomas Wilder, believed wanted in connection with the kidnaping of August Luer, Alton (Ill.) banker in 1932, was arrested and held here late today as a fugitive from justice.

The suspect was booked under the name of Thomas Kelleher, 35, of the Seaman's Church Institute of New York. Under police questioning, however, he admitted he had stayed at the institute but one night.

Kelleher, who police declared is Wilder, was arrested at Old Slip and South street, on the waterfront, by Detective Charles Lyons, who said he acted on a "hunch."

Taken to Old Slip police station, a comparison of the prisoner's fingerprints with records disclosed he was wanted in connection with the kidnaping of Luer, who was held for $10,000 ransom.

N. Y. BROKER PLEADS GUILTY TO LARCENY

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—John J. Kemp, 51, Broadway's insurance broker, who is charged with appropriating dividend checks of prominent actors and the widow of the late Will Rogers, pleaded guilty today to grand larceny in the first degree under three grand jury indictments.

Kemp, who has handled the insurance business of Broadway celebrities for the past 20 years, was arrested October 1 and charged with stealing a $1,524 insurance dividend check from Mrs. Rogers. That charge is still pending.

One indictment to which he pleaded guilty charged the heft of $10,127 in April, 1933, from Clarence Bliss, the actor, who is known as "Little Billey." The second indictment was on complaint of Donald Brian, the actor, for the theft of $2,046. The third was for forgery in connection with the forging of a check made out by an insurance company to Brian.

TWO THOMASVILLE MEN INJURED IN ACCIDENT

FITZGERALD, Ga., Dec. 12.—(AP) Two men listed as R. G. Fleetwood and Stancil Scott, of Thomasville, were recovering in a hospital here today from injuries received in an automobile accident.

The hospital said the men were hurt in an accident south of Ocilla on the Dixie highway. Neither was seriously injured, attaches said.

A third man also was in the hospital suffering from head and body injuries, described as not serious. The hospital said he was B. B. Blalock, of 1050 Ponce de Leon avenue, Atlanta, and that his car and the one occupied by the Thomasville men, collided.

Market Outlook

By MAX BUCKINGHAM.

(Copyright, 1935, by United Press.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(UP)—Stock market losses ranged to 2 points today as several traders turned bearish for the immediate trend because of a number of situations creating dissatisfaction in Wall Street.

There was no specific reason for the market sag, but profit-taking increased and bearishness was indicated by such items as:

1. Silver situation with prices continuing to sag.

2. St. Louis Southwestern railroad petition for reorganization, a move not expected until after the first of the year.

3. Year-end market activities with some tax selling.

4. Inability to determine next monetary moves with inflation talk continuing loud.

The silver situation was further complicated by announcement of Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., that the United States had been buying silver in world markets in the last few days but not confining purchases to London. This is a departure from the government's previous operations and brought more uncertainty as to just what the end will be on silver.

Metal shares were weak as result of this uncertainty. Silver future prices in Montreal were mixed—ranging from 40 points gain to 130 points loss—and the United States and Chinese traders were reported active in the market. The treasury again was a buyer in London and bought some in Bombay.

Added to this was sudden announcement of the St. Louis Southwestern petition. It had been expected but when the road deferred such a move in November, the Street had believed this situation would not develop until after the turn of the year. It further complicated the railroad picture.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—The market is following its usual course in December reflecting various conflicting influences and cross currents, but taken by and large, showing little change.

FENNER & BEANE—Thursday's adverse deals appears likely to bring further disappointment selling but favorable basic industrial trend, in our opinion, should provide investment support for stocks not far below current levels.

DOBBS & CO.—In spite of early strength in oil and store stocks the handicap was too great and throughout the afternoon the market gave way and closed well below Wednesday.

BEER & CO.—Deriving little nourishment from items of industrial and trade news and still being faced by the silver crisis, the market fluctuated uncertainly throughout the better part of the day and closed only slightly above the lowest points reached during the session.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Speculative purchases have not followed the recent decline so we would expect no more than a trading market for the present.

FENNER & BEANE—Improvement was due to statement from Secretary Wallace, claiming an adverse decision of the supreme court against the AAA will not interfere with the four-year control program, better tone in foreign markets and cessation of the liquidation movement.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO. TO DOBBS & CO.—Our market has shown the effects of a materially improved technical position during Thursday's trading but without any revival of aggressive demand.

BEER & CO.—The market eased off a little near the end and closed with net gains of four to eight points. We feel that the market is again purchase on setbacks.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Initial wheat deliveries against the December contract of 24-million bushels should tend to ease futures through the cash market.

FENNER & BEANE—Feature Thursday was strength in December which went to the best premiums over in the May in some time July was weak relatively. Deliveries today 20,000.

DOBBS & CO.—Development of independent strength in December wheat was the feature in the market Thursday. The latter month rallied more than 1¼ above Wednesday's close on buying credited to local and cash interests and gained further premiums over the deferred deliveries.

BEER & CO.—The first delivery on December contracts aggregated the large total of 2,243,000 bushels but when the trade found that notices for Friday were for only 20,000 bushels, there was an immediate tightening in the cash month which continued right up to the close.

WHAT IS PUBLIC OPINION SAYING?

Conducted by
DANIEL STARCH
Director of America's Leading Research Organization

The New Deal . . . Roosevelt . . . The Constitution . . . Washington's Alphabet Soup . . . Government in Business—what does America think of them? What will the country's voters—in whose hands our destiny lies—do at the polls next November? To find out—and to tell you—Dr. Daniel Starch's staff of investigators are ringing doorbells in every part of the United States—ringing doorbells and asking questions, sounding public opinion, taking, measuring, weighing cross-sections, bending a trained, expert ear to the great multi-tongued voice of America.

You'll get the facts from Dr. Starch. You'll hear Public Opinion speaking. You'll get the thrilling, round-by-round story of what promises to be one of the greatest political battles in history.

"Polling America" is an additional fact-finding report and must not be confused with "America Speaks."

By G. A. PHILLIPS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The bond market developed conflicting price tendencies today.

Trading interest was concentrated in obligations of companies in receivership or in process of reorganization. Soft spots in the rail division was more than offset by firmness in the industrials.

United States government issues showed no disposition to get out of the narrow, trendless rut into which they sank shortly after the latest treasury offering nearly two weeks ago. Sales were less than $500,000 and prices ranged from 3-32nds lower to 3-32nds higher.

The Associated Press averages for domestic groups were unchanged to .1 of a point higher, while foreign issues, caught between conflicting European war news and profit-taking in the Italian loans, remained unchanged at 69.4. Transfers of $14,418,000, par value, compared with $15,332,000 the day before.

A fresh sinking spell that carried several issues of St. Louis-Southwestern bonds down 3-8 to around 4 points developed immediately after announcement was made in St. Louis that the road had petitioned for reorganization under the new bankruptcy act. Most of these loans suffered sharply earlier in the month when it was announced that the line would not meet interest payments due January 1. New lows for the year were established by several. Other carrier loans were not greatly affected.

Other high spots included a rise of 7 3-8 points in American Type Founders 6s to 91; gains of 1 to more than 2 in bonds of the Botany Worsted Mills, and improvement of around that much in obligations of Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railroad, Pan-American Petroleum and Richfield Oil.

Losers in various sections included Illinois Central 4 3-4s, Postal Telegraph 5s, Warner Brothers 6s, Pere Marquette 5s, Tennessee Electric Power 6s and Remington-Rand 5 1-2s.

The sharp runup in Italian bonds during the past two days invited profit-taking on a fairly broad scale and most of these issues dropped back today. Other foreign bonds were a general mixture of gains and losses with little feature.

A new issue of $15,000,000 Southwestern Bell Telephone first and refunding mortgage 3 1-2s were placed on sale by a banking syndicate headed by Morgan Stanley & Company at 102 1-2. The bonds were reported to have met a good reception.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Raw sugar was unchanged today at 3.10c for spots. No sales were confirmed but it was believed that 28,000 bags of over-quota Cubas for second half December shipment were sold yesterday to a local refiner at the quoted price.

Reports that Agricultural Department officials were of the opinion that an adverse decision by the supreme court in the Hoosac mills case would not affect the processing tax on sugar had a stimulating influence in futures.

Prices advanced on increased covering and scattered local and commission house buying.

The near months were relatively steady and maintained their advances, while the later months eased partially from the best with the market closing 3 points net higher on December, 4 higher on January and 1 higher on all other positions. Sales, 6,900 tons.

The range follows:

	High.	Low.	Last.
December	2.19	2.19	2.19n
January	2.09	2.06	2.08b
March	2.11	2.10	2.09b

Refined was quiet and unchanged with all local refiners accepting orders at 5.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Coffee was lower today under trade selling and liquidation owing to easier Brazilian cables.

Santos opened 5 to 7 lower and closed 2 to 8 lower. Sales 11,000. No. 7 opened 3 to 6 lower and closed 4 to 5 lower. Sales, 4,000 Closing quotations: Santos, December, 7.68; March, 7.83; May, 7.88; July, 7.92; September, 7.97. No. 7, December, 4.56; March, 4.75; May, 4.89; July, 5.00; September, 5.10.

Spot coffee quiet. Santos 4s 8¼; Rio 7s 6¾. Cost and freight offers included Santos Bourbon 3s and 3s at 7.80@8.03.

THE TARZAN TWINS No. 89

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"Attack!" Tarzan shouted to his little band of apes. "We conquer—or we die!" The audacious anthropoids required no further urging to battle. With reckless disregard for their lives they surged behind the mighty Hairless One toward Gudah, the mad killer! . . .

. . . Like their renowned kinsman, the Tarzan Twins were involved, too, with a dangerous jungle beast. When the lion emitted that deafening roar, Doc's imagination conjured a frightful picture of the raging beast pouncing full upon poor Dick and devouring him.

But he was encouraged when he heard the lion plunge on into the jungle, threshing wildly through the underbrush. Now he believed that his cousin had somehow escaped the beast after all. "Dick! Dick!" he called again. But still there was no response.

Fearfully now, Doc groped on hands and knees through the darkness, and soon he came upon the object of his search. Dick was stretched supine on the ground. "Dick! Dick!" he called gently; "what's happened to you?" But poor Dick lay silent and still!

THE CONSTITUTION CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

Information

CLOSING HOURS

Want Ads are accepted up to 9 p. m., for publication the next day. The closing hour for the Sunday edition is 5:30 p. m. Saturday.

CLASSIFIED RATES

Daily and Sunday rates per line for consecutive insertions:

One time.....20 cents
Three times.....17 cents
Seven times.....15 cents
Minimum, 2 lines (12 words).

In estimating the space to an ad figure six average words to a line.

Ads ordered for three or seven days and stopped before expiration will only be charged for the number of times the ad appeared and adjustments made at the rate earned.

Errors in advertisements should be reported immediately. The Constitution will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

All want ads are restricted to their proper classification and The Constitution reserves the right to revise or reject any advertisement.

Ads ordered by telephone are accepted from persons listed in the telephone or city directory on memorandum charge only. In return for this courtesy the advertiser is expected to remit promptly.

So Says
Mr. McCollum

If Your Christmas Shopping List is Beginning to Worry You—

IF you've been buying early, and the list is still unfinished, and you are beginning to wonder how you'll ever get through the Holidays—you will save yourself a lot of grief by putting your finances in good shape before the last minute. I CAN furnish you the money to clear up those scattered bills and take care of special expenses and work out a repayment plan to suit your needs.
AND LISTEN!—My new low rate—less than one per cent per month per annum—with ONE TO TWO YEARS to repay—will put you on a plan you can handle.

CROSS SECTIONS

Struck on the head by an armed negro, Dawson Spearman, of 37 Leach street, N. W., was robbed of a small bag containing $32 as he was walking in Dover street, S. W., early yesterday morning, he reported to police yesterday. The negro escaped.

The State Department of Education announced yesterday that Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, will return today from Washington, D. C., where he has been attending a national convention of state superintendents. Dr. Collins was one of several superintendents at the meeting who spoke over a nation-wide radio hookup Wednesday night.

Governor Talmadge yesterday administered the oath of office to Judge W. W. Armistead, beginning his third term in Lexington city court.

Open competitive examinations for filling vacancies in the position of forest and field clerk in the forest service, at $2,300 a year, will be given to men by the United States Civil Service Commission. Applications will not be accepted after December 20. Information concerning requirements as to age and experience may be obtained from the district manager of the civil service, in Room 326, of the new postoffice building.

Rev. E. James, missionary to South America, will preach in the Merritts Avenue Baptist church at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, the Rev. H. J. Aycock, pastor, announced yesterday.

John A. Boykin, solicitor-general, will address the Harold Byrd Post, American Legion, of Decatur, at its monthly meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the DeKalb county courthouse. His subject will be "Americanism."

Atlanta Masonic Club will hold its regular luncheon meeting at 12:30 o'clock today in the civic room of the Ansley hotel. Ed. J. Melnlier is in charge of the program.

David Ausburn Murphy, negro, said to have belonged to a Murphy family, of Harris county, Georgia, in the days of slavery, is being sought by William Caldwell, of 517 East Main street, Chattanooga, Tenn. Caroline, David's wife, is thought to be living in Birmingham. Caldwell asks that anyone with information concerning Murphy communicate with him.

Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion, will hold a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today in the Ansley hotel. Monthly meeting of the post will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the Legion hall at 18 1-2 Auburn avenue.

Salvation Army weekly fellowship meeting will be held at 7:45 o'clock tonight at the Atlanta temple corps, 54 Ellis street. Staff Captain and Mrs. Gearing will be in charge.

Miss Helen Poulas will be crowned "Queen of Ahepa" at the thirteenth annual ball tonight of the American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association at the Georgian Terrace hotel. A. D. Rumanes, president of the chapter, will direct the ceremonies.

Frank Bartlett must pay the full penalty of the law, the state supreme court ruled yesterday in denying a habeas corpus petition, through which Bartlett sought to prevent extradition to Pennsylvania for alleged parole violation. Bartlett showed he had served a term in the penitentiary and was paroled. He was then tried and sentenced to the federal prison here. The parole stipulated Bartlett was to remain in Pennsylvania. Governor Talmadge previously had granted extradition, but the habeas corpus writ halted it temporarily.

Men's Bible Class of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church will hold a dinner at 6:30 o'clock tonight. Karl Thompson, assistant to Erle Cocke, state director of the National Emergency Council, and Judge A. L. Ethridge, of the municipal court, will speak. A chorus from Agnes Scott College will sing.

Traffic Club of Atlanta will hold a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today in the Atlanta Athletic Club. Members of the Passenger Club and others have been invited as guests.

Boe DeLoach, 781 Greenwood avenue, N. E., has been appointed second lieutenant and assigned to Company G, 122d infantry, it was announced yesterday. He is a graduate of Georgia Tech in the class of 1933.

Foreign corporations, domesticated in Georgia, can not exercise the right of eminent domain, the Georgia supreme court ruled yesterday, and as a result of the decision H. C. Perry, of Folkston, will retain his land, if he chooses. The Folkston Power Company, a Florida organization, domesticated in Georgia, attempt to condemn the property for company use.

Purchase of the Palace theater on Euclid avenue, near Little Five Points, by the Community Theaters Company, a Lucas & Jenkins organization, was announced yesterday by Jesse Draper, of Draper-Owens Company, realtors. The consideration was $25,000. Extensive improvements are planned.

Theft of a diamond bar pin, valued at $45, from a cedar chest in the home of Mrs. Blanche Watson at 928 Ponce de Leon avenue, N. E., was reported to police at about 10 o'clock last night.

Light of touch was the thief who took a purse containing $118 from Mrs. Ina Mathews, of 1757 Gordon street, S. W., as she was walking at noon yesterday in Forsyth street near Marietta, for she did not discover her loss until a half hour later, she told police in reporting the theft.

Jewelry valued at $115 and $10 in cash was stolen yesterday from the home of Mrs. W. M. Boyd at 323 Milledge avenue, S. E., she reported to police at about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The loot included a wrist watch, two rings, a manicure set and two necklaces. Entrance was gained through the front door.

D. Mathewson, of 206 Ponce de Leon avenue, N. E., yesterday reported to police that a high-speed camera, valued at $125, was stolen during the night from his automobile, parked in front of his home.

Climbing a ladder to a second-floor window, firemen yesterday "rescued" Tommie Foster, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Foster, who had locked himself in a rear bedroom of their home at 981 Euclid avenue, N. E. The child's mother called Truck 12, Moreland and DeKalb avenues, when she failed in efforts to open the door of the room.

'G-MEN' IN COURT

Obtain 99.6 Per Cent Bank Robbery Convictions.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The Justice Department's "G-men" produced a record of bank robbery convictions today almost as spectacular as their more sensational "liquidation" of major outlaws.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of investigation, reported his force of former accountants and lawyers—who erased John Dillinger, Pretty Boy Floyd and other gangsters with pistol and machine gun volleys—had convicted 96.55 per cent of the bank robbers they brought to trial in federal courts.

Congress put the "G-men" on the trail of bank-holdups in May, 1934, by making robbery of national and federal reserve member banks a federal offense. At the last session all federally insured banks were given federal protection.

Hoover said that from June to November, 1934, 75 bank robberies occurred, while during the same period this year, when the law applying to some 1,400 federally insured banks was effective, the number dropped to 33.

Cases taken into federal courts have resulted in three life sentences, one indeterminate sentence, 1,832 years and 31 days in actual, suspended and probationary sentences, and fines totaling $47,508.

5 PRISONERS ESCAPE U. S. REFORM SCHOOL

EL RENO, Okla., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Five prisoners, armed with knives, fled the federal reformatory here tonight while a small night crew was on duty.

"They caught us unaware," said Warden H. L. Merry, who was unable to provide further details because "I still don't know just what happened."

Card of Thanks.

We sincerely appreciate and thank our many friends and relatives for their many kindnesses and sympathy extended us during the recent illness and death of our preciously beloved wife, daughter and mother, Mrs. Christine Belcher.

DE CLIFFORD CLEARED BY HOUSE OF LORDS

Youthful British Peer Is Acquitted of Manslaughter in Auto Death.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Scarlet-garbed peers of England today acquitted Lord de Clifford, 28 years old, of a charge of manslaughter arising from an automobile accident.

The verdict of innocence was returned by the members of the house of lords after six hours of juridical pageant such as had not been seen in England in the last 34 years.

The verdict—"not guilty upon mine honor"—was pronounced one by one by the assembled peers and with their right hands over their hearts following the taking of evidence.

Lord Hailsham, serving as attorney for the defense, told his brother lords: "There is no evidence of criminal negligence or even negligence." Consequently, he argued, there was no case against de Clifford.

The youthful lord took his place before the bar to answer the questions: "How say you, my lord—guilty or not guilty?"

Around him, seated in a horseshoe tier, the solemn tribunal of his fellow peers, in crimson robes and cocked hats, looked down on his in judgment.

Lord de Clifford himself was uncovered and without his robes. He listened intently while the sergeant-at-arms unrolled a parchment scroll and proclaimed:

"Our sovereign lord the king strictly commands all persons to keep silence on pain of imprisonment!"

Then the trial began.

A picturesque ceremony dating back to the Magna Carta and the reign of King John (1199-1216 A. D.), the trial invoked for the first time since 1901 the age-old prerogative of Britain's peers to transfer felony charges against one of their number from the common criminal courts to the house of lords.

The historic privilege is shared by all peers except bishops, who are denied it because they refused to admit the jurisdiction of a law court and thus could not claim any rights as peers.

British Peer Freed

LORD DE CLIFFORD.

The trial of Earl Russell, charged with bigamously marrying Mollie Cooke, an American, at Reno, Nevada, in 1901, was the last such assemblage of the peers to pass judgment on one of their fellows. Earl Russell was convicted and sentenced to three months imprisonment, but was given a free pardon ten days later by the king.

The case arose from an automobile accident at Kingston-on-Thames in which Douglas George Hopkins, a commoner, was killed. The young peer has already pleaded innocence.

RUSSELL THAW PLANS RETURN TO N. Y. TODAY

Russell Thaw, who was piloting the Lincoln Ellsworth rescue plane which cracked-up in a take-off at the municipal airport Monday, said last night he probably would leave for New York city today. Though he expected to leave yesterday, difficulties in shipping the plane to the factory in California have held him over.

Any further plans for the rescue expedition will have to be announced by directors of the expedition in New York city, it was said.

Thaw, the son of Harry K. Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, and his mechanic, William Klenke Jr., arrived here Saturday from New Jorsey. They were on the way to Little America to look for the missing explorer, Ellsworth. Held here by bad weather until Monday morning, the pilots crashed in a take-off at the municipal airport. Neither was hurt.

MAN FINED FOR SALE OF OBSCENE PICTURES

Lewis Jones, 22-year-old razor blade peddler, was found guilty of selling obscene pictures to school children yesterday by a jury in Fulton superior court.

Though the crime is a felony, the jury recommended that it be treated as a misdemeanor and Judge Hugh M. Dorsey fined Jones a total of $84, to be paid at the rate of $7 a month during a 12-month probated sentence.

Assistant Solicitor Quincy Arnold, who prosecuted, produced evidence that Jones had sold filthy pictures to one school girl eight years old and to a boy who was 12. Officers said they found more than 50 such obscene books in Jones' room.

INVESTMENT COMPANY ACQUIRES HOTEL HERE

Acquisition of the Robert Fulton hotel by the Briarcliff Investment Company was announced yesterday by John H. Candler, president of the company.

For the last several years the hotel has been operated by the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company. More than $75,000 on accrued interest and delinquent notes resulted in the transfer of the properties to the Briarcliff firm.

Asa G. Candler Jr. is president of the Robert Fulton Hotel Company. John H. Candler, vice president and general manager; Grady Callaway, vice president of the Georgia Hotel Men's Association, associate manager, and J. A. Brinson, treasurer.

EDWIN JOHNSON SUED FOR SON'S AUTO CRASH

Edwin F. Johnson, leader of the majority faction of the county commission, and his son, Louis Johnson, were made defendants in a $25,000 damage suit filed yesterday in Fulton superior court.

The suit, filed by Albert Horton, 27-year-old PWA worker, grew out of injuries he sustained early this week when his car and a machine occupied by Johnson's son collided on the Athens-Atlanta highway near Statham. Horton alleged his leg was so badly crushed it had to be amputated. Young Johnson and several University of Georgia students were also hurt in the crash.

HENRY S. HAM PASSES; LAST SERVICES TODAY

Henry S. Ham, for many years a resident of the Bankhead highway, died yesterday at a private hospital at the age of 67.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ethel H. Rhoden; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gladys Ham; three brothers, Amos, Smarrs Station, Ga.; John and Charles Ham, Forsyth, and a sister, Mrs. John Jones.

Funeral services will be held today at Mayson church with the Rev. R. W. Wood officiating. Burial will be in Hollywood cemetery.

'Southern Demagoguery' Is Topic Of Nixon Article on 'South Today'

"Some southern demagogues are preaching and doing things which will tend to remove the opportunity for future demagogues," notes H. C. Nixon in his article on southern demagoguery which will appear in Sunday's Constitution. By pouring money into educational channels through the universities and free school books, by building miles of fine new highway, by urging their states to feed and clothe themselves and become self-sufficient and by otherwise contributing to rural enlightenment, these local monarchs, Dr. Nixon believes, are making their communities more and more unsafe for future aspirants to their autocracy.

Dr. Nixon, who contributes this fascinating survey of demagoguery to "The South Today," the new Sunday feature in The Constitution, is head of the department of history and political science at Tulane University in New Orleans. In this capacity, and during much time which he spends in rural sections of the south, he has come to understand perfectly the political careers of the Longs, Talmadges, Bilbos, Fergusons and many lesser regional rulers. With keen insight born of years of experience, Dr. Nixon makes an exciting job of dissecting the demagogue and laying bare the past, present and future of his institution.

"Southern Demagoguery: The Emotional Appeal," by H. C. Nixon, will be the title of the first article of "The South Today," and will be found in The Constitution next Sunday. Every Sunday thereafter, The Constitution will present the interpretation of another important southern problem by a distinguished southern thinker and writer.

LAST RITES IN VIRGINIA FOR MRS. J. W. WILLS

Final rites for Mrs. J. W. Wills, Atlanta church and civic leader and member of a distinguished Virginia family, will be held in Richmond, Va., her birthplace, and burial will be in Hollywood cemetery there. The body was taken yesterday to Richmond.

A resident of Atlanta since 1894, Mrs. Wills died Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George B. Hoyt, 831 Myrtle street.

She had served as a member of the Georgia Baptist Woman's Missionary Board for 16 years, was one of the founders of the Federated Church Women of Georgia, and was a charter member of the old Ponce de Leon Baptist church. She was a sister of John Pollard, former Governor of Virginia. He is now chairman of the board of appeals of the Veterans' Bureau in Washington.

GEORGIA—FULTON COUNTY.

To The Superior Court of Said State and County:

The petition of H. D. Winship, A. O. Winship, and H. L. Spring, respectfully shows to the court:

1. That petitioners desire for themselves, their associates, successors and assigns to be incorporated under the name of W. & S. Trucking Company, Inc., for a period of twenty (20) years with the privilege of renewal at the end of that time.

2. The principal office and place of business of said corporation shall be in Fulton County, Georgia.

3. The object of said corporation is pecuniary gain.

4. The business to be carried on by said corporation is to own, operate, lease, sell and trade in motor vehicles, motor trucks, certificates of public service and convenience, and the business of transportation, both within and without the State of Georgia, the business of common carrier or contract carrier, intra or inter-state, the operation, maintenance and use of terminals and all proper facilities in connection with the business of transportation and of motor vehicle transportation, and of transportation for hire of property or persons as common, private or contract carrier, and the corporation desires the right to do anything necessary and proper in connection with said purposes, to sell and deal in automobiles, to acquire, lease or hold real estate or any other property or any interest therein, to establish branch offices elsewhere as the need may arise, and to have the rights and privileges that may be lawfully enjoyed by similar corporations.

5. The capital stock of said corporation shall be One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars, divided into shares of the par value of One Hundred ($100.00) each, with the privilege and right of increasing said capital stock to Fifty Thousand ($50,000.00) Dollars by a majority vote of the stock outstanding at any time. Petitioners desire the right to pay for said stock in cash or other assets at their fair valuation.

6. Petitioners desire the right to sue and be sued, to own, sell or deal in notes, accounts, leases, mortgages, real estate, and personal property for the benefit and profit of its stockholders, to amend the charter of the corporation by a majority vote of the stock outstanding at any time; to prepare and have adopted appropriate by-laws; to wind up its business and liquidate same at any time upon a like vote.

Wherefore, Petitioners pray that they be incorporated for the period and under the name and style as aforesaid, and with all rights and privileges permitted by law.

HOWELL & POST,
Attorneys for Petitioners, Suite 1004, Atlanta National Bank Building.

Filed in office this twenty-first day of November, 1935.
